"Drown the Old Cat."

Passing along a prominent street not long since, I was attracted by a large concourse of people before a shop window, in which was displayed a motley collection of cruel weapons, consisting of clubs, sharp-pointed sticks, knotted ropes, an old frying-pan—in fact almost every instrument of petty torture that a cruel mind could invent. Over these things was displayed a placard exhibited below were captured by the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children," from inhuman parents, and were actually used by them to inflict torture on their helpless children." Underneath were a dozen or more photographs of the "little innocents," who have been rescued by the Society from their unnatural protectors, with a short printed history of each case of cruelty. But the strangest (?) part of it was that they all read nearly alike, something like this: "Maggie Burns, aged eleven years, scarred with a hot poker by her drunken mother." "John Edwards, aged nine years, ribs crushed by an inhuman father jumping on him while in a beastly state of intoxication." And so on through the whole series—"drunken father or drunken mother."

"How atrocious!" sighed a lady in the crowd, "How-ible!" lisped a dandy. "Cannot something be done to stop this cruelty?" asked a venerable old gentleman.

A good-natured, verdant-looking individual, who had been quietly gazing in at the window, eved the old man from head to foot, and finally answered: "That reminds me of an old cat that I used to have at home. Every few months she would bring into the house a litter of kittens, and then I would have to take them down to the river and drown them. It got to be monotonous—a nuisance. My children called me cruel; my wife said I was inhuman. But I could better afford to have a kitten aquarium than a cat hospital. One time, while going on my regular tour to the river, I met a neighbor who inquired what I was doing. Upon telling him, and also my frequent troubles that way, he asked: 'Why don't you drown the old cat?' I went home, captured the old beast, and putting a stone around her neck, soon put a quietus to all further worry. Strange! I did not think of that way before. So it is with this trouble. You can't drown the worthless parents, but you can drown those corner grocers, where they buy the vile poison that takes away their very nature and causes all the misery. This Society is a great institution, conducted by kind-hearted men and women, but they can't stop this evil by providing comfortable homes for the helpless children, any more than they can stop the flow of the Mississippi by putting a Virginia fence-rail across its mouth! They must drown the old cat, then they will not have to take care of the kittens."

Dinner Table Etiquette.

Never call for a course a second time, nor return a dish, as it retards the meals and makes confusion in the kitchen.

Above all things be charitable about accidents; bite your tongue till it bleeds rather than laugh at a mistake, if the unfortunate is ignorant, and should a bit of misfortune attend you, make no apology, even the whole board and everybody as it capsize.

If you do not drink wines you will save being conspicuously refraining from inverting the glass. Indulge in a little-by-play with the goblet; and when the servant approaches with the bottle a slight motion of his fingers will be understood.

A successful student of manners must not get disheartened at any feeling of awkwardness at the first "swell dinner." Cultivate the habit of observation, pattern after the self-possessed people around you, and the sense of being unaccustomed to anything but business will desert you.

Never tuck the napkin under your chin; possibly in that position the cloth will very effectually protect your clothing, but bibs have no place outside the nursery, and if your hand is too unsteady to carry your food to your mouth without spilling you are better in an infirmary than a dinner party.

When the dinner is over do not thank the hostess for her entertainment. Expressions of enjoyment are compulsory and it is permissible, if there was some unusual dish, which evidently required special preparation, to compliment the hostess on its success.

If you drop your fork do not pick it up. The garcon will appear soon and replace the utensil. If your neighbor meet with a similar accident dip your fork in your glass, dry it on your napkin, and offer it to cloak her or his confusion. If she accepts it she shows her appreciation of a graceful courtesy, but if she repels you, take a "drop of water to keep the demons down," and pray that you may be more fortunate in your association at the next dinner party.—[Exchange.]

In no other medicinal preparation have the results of the most intelligent study and scientific inquiry been so steadily and progressively utilized as in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases.

Temperance.

In San Francisco, Cal., a firm doing business under the firm name of Lincoln & Co., advertise themselves as temperance grocers.

Among the regulations of a newly-formed church among the Zulus in South Africa was the following: "No member of this church shall be permitted to drink the white man's grog, or native beer, nor touch it with his lips." No need of prohibitory amendment to that church constitution.—[Missionary Outlook.]

The Friend's Temperance Association of Philadelphia, has secured the expulsion of all alcoholic liquors from Fairmount Park.

The New York Tribune is rapidly becoming a true temperance sheet. It will soon come out for prohibition if its future progress keeps pace with its past.

The Journal of Education says: "The legislature of Vermont has wisely forbidden the use of tobacco by teachers and pupils in its public schools."

The total amount that has been paid by the United States in pensions, on account of the late war is $644,944,917.58; or about two-thirds as much is paid out for pensions in twenty years, as is annually expended for intoxicating liquors. Think of this, ye who are in favor of the liquor traffic.

A News despatch says that the Manitoba legislature has passed a resolution in favor of prohibition in Manitoba. If all the provincial legislatures were to do likewise it might not be without effect upon the Dominion parliament. The Ontario legislature endorsed the principle several years ago.

If you are seeking a good investment in real estate, it will pay you to consult Mr. James C. Young, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He is qualified to give the very best advice, is thoroughly reliable and has the endorsement of some of the most prominent business men in America. Our readers can rest assured that, in any business they may transact with Mr. Young they will be honestly and fairly dealt with.

In Nassau, one of the largest Bahama communities, a local veto was placed on the saloons of a certain ward by the united vote of men and women. The legislature promptly came to the relief of the exiled saloonists, whereupon the inhabitants appealed to the crown, and to her eternal glory be it spoken that Queen Victoria promptly made the legislature of none effect where The People had spoken.

If reforms ought to commence with the gamblers, as one has pitifully said, may it not be well to help some generations ahead by commencing with the children of this?

The Iowa brewers who claim the protection of, and compensation for their law abiding character, have at their recent state meeting come out squarely in rebellion to the new law and declare their firm determination "to fight it to its promoters to the bitter end." That sounds very much like a declaration of war.

While Mr. Francis Murphy is winning his thousands in Chicago, Mr. Edward Murphy, his son, is putting on blue ribbons by the hundred in lesser Illinois cities. They will unite their efforts in this city as soon as Mr. Murphy, Jr., can be spared from the interior.

Mr. George Home, one of the largest canners of fish, on the Columbia River, Oregon, says that he suffered with rheumatism for seven years, having spent six months at Arkansas Hot Springs, and at Paso Robles Springs, Cal., four months in every year, without benefit. Finally he tried St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-killer, and in a short time all stiffness and soreness of the joints disappeared.

Learning to Spell.

Arthur is a bright little fellow, just beginning his education. A short time since, in the presence of visitors, he came running to his uncle, exclaiming: "Oh uncle, I can spell sun!"

"Very well, let us hear," answered the uncle.

"Sun, sun."

"That is right. Now let us hear you spell another kind of a sun?"

Arthur's face wore a puzzled expression for a time, but soon brightened with an inspiration, as he sang out:

"M-u-n, moon."

This was greeted with applauded laughter. The uncle then said:

"Are you not your papa's son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Very well, spell that kind of a son."

"M-e," triumphantly shouted the little chap, to the confusion of his uncle and the glee of the others.

Mr. Ward Nichols is the Inspector for the New Haven Water Company.

Messrs. Lewis & Co.,

Gentlemen:—In reply to your inquiry, I will say that my wife has for some time suffered from debility and malaria. After using your "Red Jacket Bitters" she seems very much benefited, and will continue their use as necessary requires.

Respectfully yours,
WARD NICHOLS.

Household Information.

In baking fish it is a great help to put a tin or iron sheet into the baking pan, as the fish may then be easily taken out without breaking.

A very handsome center-piece for the table is a block of ice set in a receptacle large enough to hold the water and wreathed in ferns and vines.

A little dampened soda applied to splashes of paint on the window-panes will usually remove them.

To extract ink from wool, scour with sand wet with ammonia water and then rinse with saleratus water.

Ants, which are such a nuisance in many houses, can be destroyed by putting a greased plate in the closets where the ants congregate, and when the plate is well covered with them turn it over a hot fire of coals; they will drop into the fire, and you can then reset the plate for another catch.

Pillow should be carefully weighted with lead, so that they won't blow away when the head of the family pitches, them out of the window—Phil. Eve. Call.

In washing flannels do not rub soap on the article, but make a strong sud with hot water in which put the pieces separately, being particular to keep the temperature of the water the same until they are wrung out. Turn each article wrong side out, and rinse in water with just a little soap. After wringing hang them to dry in the sun.

When baking a custard set the dish containing it into another dish filled hot water; this keeps the temperature more even, and imparts a more delicate flavor also.

If you wish the color of strawberries to be bright do not cook them, during the process of preserving, in a pewter or tin dish, for either will turn the color directly.

To make a knitted rug cut in strips half an inch wide pieces of woolen goods in both bright and grave colors. Sew the ends of the strips together, intermingling the colors according to your taste, and wind into balls. Use wooden needles about the size of an ordinary lead pencil, and at least twelve inches long. Cast on sixty stitches, and knit in garter stitch, until the rug is of the length required. For the fringe, procure red or black carpet yarn. Cast upon ordinary knitting needles twenty stitches and knit in garter stitch until you have the length required for one end of the rug. Dampen and press with warm iron this knitted piece, then cut through the centre lengthwise and ravel, leaving four or rows at the edge for a heading to the fringe. The result will be a very pretty and serviceable fringed rug.

Free of charge, if it does not cure. Ad-ams's Cough Balsam at all drug-stores. Owing to its perfect harmony in combination with the most powerful and effective ingredients, it is the very best mixture for the speedy cure and relief of croup, colds, throat, or lung diseases. Large bottles 35 cents. Trial size 10 cents.

Taking Him at His Word.

This anecdote of Red Jacket was related by Judge Sheldon at the meeting of the committee of the Buffalo Historical Society: "There was a blacksmith shop on the corner where the postoffice now stands, kept by a man named Reese. He was a very fine workman, a real artist in his line. One day Red Jacket came into the shop with his interpreter—he would never speak English, you know. He wanted a new tomahawk made. They had some talk, but Reese finally said he would make the tomahawk for him and told him to come in two weeks for it. When the time came Red Jacket came for his tomahawk. It was a fine piece of workmanship, too. He went off but in a day or two returned with the tomahawk. It didn't suit him.

Of course Reese was mad, but he told Red Jacket if he would make a model out of maple wood of just such a tomahawk as he wanted, he would make it for him. So Red Jacket made his model and brought it to Reese, who told him to come after it in a week. Red Jacket came in a week, with his interpreter, as usual. Reese had told the shop when Red Jacket came in, Reese handed him the hatchet.

Red Jacket looked it all over, flung it across the room, grunted "Ugh!" and went off mad as thunder. He had forgotten to make an eye in his model, and Reese made the hatchet without an eye.—[Buffalo Commercial.]

Milk Better Than Brandy.

"The greater my experience becomes," writes Dr. Clouston in the annual report of the Royal Edinburgh Asylum for the Insane, "I tend more to substitute milk for stimulants. In very acute cases, both of depression and maniacal exaltation, where the disordered working of the brain tends rapidly to exhaust the strength, I rely more and more on milk and eggs made into liquid custards. One such case this year got eight pints of milk and sixteen eggs every day for three months and under this treatment recovered. I question whether he would have done so under any other. He was almost dead on admission—acutely delirious, absolutely sleepless, and very nearly pulseless.

Leaving Money in Old Clothes.

Quite a sensation was created at a tailoring establishment in Spruce street, Saturday night by a well dressed gentleman, probably 35 years of age, who excitedly inquired for a suit of clothes he had left at the store in the afternoon. He had purchased a suit of clothing and donned the new garments, instructing the tailor to send the old ones to his residence. The clothes were brought forth, and hastily opening the bundle he took from an inside vest pocket a pocketbook containing a package of bills to the amount of several hundred dollars, and a number of valuable papers. "I did not miss the money," he said, displaying the roll, "until a few minutes ago, and thought I had lost it. Thinking that it might have fallen from my pocket in the dressing-room, I started for this place on a run with a faint hope of finding the money, and as you see I was successful."

"Do many cases of this kind occur in the city?" was asked the proprietor of the store.

"Yes, we are called upon quite frequently by men who lose money in this way," was the response. "It does not often happen that such a large amount of money is involved, however. One instance of this kind that I remember occurred about six months ago. I was running a store then on St. Clair street, and our dressing-room, which was located under a flight of stairs, was dark even in the daytime. One evening a man who had bought a suit of clothes in the morning of that day came into the store, and without speaking to any one rushed to the dressing-room. One of the clerks who followed found him on his knees searching for something. The man said he had lost a pocket-book containing nearly $825. When a light was brought the pocketbook and its contents were found behind the door where they had fallen when he changed his clothes. There had been probably 50 men in the room during the day, but owing to the darkness the wealth remained undiscovered until found by the owner.

Another tailor spoken to on the subject said that men quite frequently lose money or valuables under these circumstances, the value of the property sometimes being very large. In many cases the owner, after becoming greatly excited, thinking that the money has been lost finds it in one of the pockets of the cast-off clothes.—[Cleveland Leader.]

Taking Him at His Word.

This anecdote of Red Jacket was related by Judge Sheldon at the meeting of the committee of the Buffalo Historical Society: "There was a blacksmith shop on the corner where the postoffice now stands, kept by a man named Reese. He was a very fine workman, a real artist in his line. One day Red Jacket came into the shop with his interpreter—he would never speak English, you know. He wanted a new tomahawk made. They had some talk, but Reese finally said he would make the tomahawk for him and told him to come in two weeks for it. When the time came Red Jacket came for his tomahawk. It was a fine piece of workmanship, too. He went off but in a day or two returned with the tomahawk. It didn't suit him.

Of course Reese was mad, but he told Red Jacket if he would make a model out of maple wood of just such a tomahawk as he wanted, he would make it for him. So Red Jacket made his model and brought it to Reese, who told him to come after it in a week. Red Jacket came in a week, with his interpreter, as usual. Reese had told the shop when Red Jacket came in, Reese handed him the hatchet.

Red Jacket looked it all over, flung it across the room, grunted "Ugh!" and went off mad as thunder. He had forgotten to make an eye in his model, and Reese made the hatchet without an eye.—[Buffalo Commercial.]

Milk Better Than Brandy.

"The greater my experience becomes," writes Dr. Clouston in the annual report of the Royal Edinburgh Asylum for the Insane, "I tend more to substitute milk for stimulants. In very acute cases, both of depression and maniacal exaltation, where the disordered working of the brain tends rapidly to exhaust the strength, I rely more and more on milk and eggs made into liquid custards. One such case this year got eight pints of milk and sixteen eggs every day for three months and under this treatment recovered. I question whether he would have done so under any other. He was almost dead on admission—acutely delirious, absolutely sleepless, and very nearly pulseless.

Our School Board is becoming the worst political machine there is. Partisan sticks out in about everything they do. The members are determined that it shall be a Democratic power, and every move made points to that end. There are eight Democrats and one Republican on the Board, if we have not erred in counting, but three of the Democrats are good, fair-minded men, and do not agree with their fellow partisans in their conduct, but oppose them. It is a very bad thing when the School Board of this town is turned into a machine to advance the interests of the Democratic or any other party. Such however it is. If any doubt it we ask them to glance over the list of old teachers dropped at the recent election, and the list of new appointments. Eight old, earnest, honest, efficient teachers failed to get re-elected by this Democratic machine because their places were wanted for political friends. This wholesale slaughter of teachers is unprecedented in this town; and the new appointments were the most barefaced yielding to party demands ever known in the history of our schools. So intensely partisan has the Board become, and so unfair are its official acts that one at least of the Democratic members will probably resign at an early day and wash his hands clean of the whole business. At a convenient opportunity this subject will be taken up again and discussed.

The School Board held a meeting Friday morning, July 4, and finished up the business of electing teachers which was begun two weeks before. Messrs. Cummings and Bartlett were absent.—The teachers elected for the year are:—High School, James I. Hanson, Principal, E. Maria Blodgett, Elizabeth M. Brown, Ada A. C. Jacobs, Cummings, Frank B. The sad news of the death of Rev. Thomas Cogrove at Chicago has been received here. He was a native of this place, and was only recently ordained. His death is greatly lamented here and in Chicago.

There were some civil doings here on the night before the 4th for which the perpetrators ought to suffer. I don't object to fun by the boys, but the destruction of property is not warranted even by the license which the 4th of July always allows.

The 4th passed off without a ruffle to mar the placidity of its bosom. There were the customary artillery salutes and bell ringing morning, noon, and night, and that was about all, except the presentation to the town by the Village Improvement Association of a fine drinking fountain. The presentation ceremonies were very pleasant, and were participated in by numerous prominent gentlemen.

After the town meeting and rejection of the report of the Water Commissioners they presented their resignations to take effect on July 15, at which time a new Board will have to be chosen. Some penny wise and pound foolish gentlemen, so the other side says, maintain that our water supply is abundant at the present time and that the expenditure of more money to increase it would be the height of folly. This idea prevailed in the Town Meeting by quite a large majority notwithstanding the report of the special joint committee was the other way. There was a hot time over the question and considerable bad blood shown. I don't know of a community anywhere where there is to be found such a diversity of opinion on local affairs as there is here, and where such ill-tempered proceedings are had. War is the watchword here on all public matters.

After careful investigation I am constrained to believe that the resignation of the Secretary and Treasurer of the Republican Town Committee has not, as they anticipated, busted the party in this place, nor had any very serious effect on it. The Secretary is a nice little fellow, but does not carry political guns of very heavy calibre, and as for the Treasurer it would surprise nobody to find him consorting with almost any party or faction. Their defection has not produced a rattle, although they expected their withdrawal from the Committee would leave the party stranded high and dry on the rocks of destruction. Conant flew around considerably last fall and was quite lively in his opposition to Gen. Butler, and the praise which the Republicans bestowed on him for his work rather turned the head the youthful and feather-weight local politician. He came to regard himself as "some punkies" politically and foolishly thought his public refusal to support the Republican National ticket would have a disastrous effect on it. I have somewhere read something about a fly and cart-wheel, and this seems to be a parallel case. There are a few of those dreadful nice people here who receive their political inspiration from Beacon Hill, but their influence is nil, and Winchester will roll up her usual Republican majority this fall.

At the last meeting of the School Board the vacancies in the corps of teachers were filled. Thomas P. Dotten re-elected Janitor. Superintendent Tweed reported that the number of pupils entitled to promotion was as follows:—From the Grammar to the High, 25. (two of these pupils 14 1-2 years.) To the Grammar, 4 from the Washington, 10 from the Rumford, 7 from the Mystic, 5 from the Highland, 8 from the Gifford, 11 from the Chapin, 1 (conditioned), 24 in the whole. This list of promotions was approved. The following Sub-Committee on the several schools were appointed by the Board:—High—Littlefield, Huse, March; Grammar—Metcalf, Wadleigh, Russell; Chapin—Russell, Little-

Such a Wicked City! CHICAGO, July 7.—The New York Herald's special correspondent thus describes Sunday in Chicago: "There is no such thing as Sunday in Chicago; the races, to be sure, are suspended for the day, but that is all. It seems a trifle strange to find Wallace's company playing Sunday night, but here they offer a houseful of detachment of long-haired men and short-haired women of the Salvation Army are shouting and singing, while brass bands make the streets echo with selections from French opera and 'Johnny Comes Marching Home Again.' The town is really painted red, while four or five leaders are excitedly discussing the situation with locked doors, the herd are here, there and everywhere seeking what they may devour, and devouring it when found."

Attacked By Utes.

DENVER, July 7.—For some time past the Ute Indians have been annoying the cattle men in La Plata county, by killing their cattle and stealing horses. Recently one of the men found several stolen horses in the possession of the Indians and endeavored to recapture them. He was attacked by an Indian with a knife, but succeeded in killing the savage. This brought matters to a head, and on the 3d instant the Utes made an attack on Wild, Carlisle & Johnson's camp, which is located near the Utah line. A fierce battle ensued, although the whites were greatly outnumbered. Charles Cook and Adolph Lusk, employees of the cattle company, were badly wounded. Five Indians were killed and a number wounded. Eleven horses of the whites were slain and 100 were stolen. The cowboys were driven from their camp, their outfits were burned and their provisions carried away by the Indians. Two of the Ute boys, aged 8 and 10 respectively, rode twenty-nine hours without food or rest, and arrived at Durango last night in an exhausted condition. The result of this defeat is that 17,000 head of cattle are left at the mercy of the Indians. Col. Hall, the commander of Fort Lewis, has dispatched a company of cavalry to drive the Indians back to their reservation, which the Utes will probably reach. The cattle men are well supplied with horses and cattle before the soldiers get within reach of them.

Old Time Democrats.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Some of the peculiarities of a national Democratic convention is the great number of old fashioned gentlemen who come hither to renew their party fealty, display their ancient fobs and ventilate their notions of Jeffersonian Democracy. Here is ex-Gov. Beriah Magoffin, of Kentucky, its executive in 1861, when the demand for troops from "old Kentucky" was resisted by Gov. Magoffin. He is here just as he was at the conventions 1860, when Mr. Burr, of the Hartford Times, Benjamin F. Butler, Allen G. Thurman and Durbin Ward, of Ohio, were his companions, as they are to-day. Murat Halstead was also at Charleston and Baltimore before the war and is here to day, but of course, he is not a Democrat. He is simply an old fashioned journalist with all the modern improvements attached.

Throat and Lung Diseases.

At Dr. Souville's Throat and Lung Institute, 212 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass., thousands of cases of Catarrh, Catarrhal Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Weak Lungs, and Consumption are successfully treated by the SPIRITUM (invented by M. Souville, M. D., Ex-Assistant Surgeon of the French Army), an instrument which conveys medicines directly to the diseased parts, doing away with the injurious plan of pouring drugs into the stomach in the hope of benefiting the lungs. This method is used by the leading physicians of the world, and is the only one that can be relied upon to cure the most obstinate cases of Throat and Lung Diseases. The SPIRITUM is a simple, safe, and effective remedy, and is the only one that can be relied upon to cure the most obstinate cases of Throat and Lung Diseases. Swept into the Stream.

On the deck of a big Mississippi steamer stood an aged southern planter. Indolent and fat, he of his arm the waters the boat was passing over, he said to a passenger from the North: "When I was twenty years old I killed my first bear on a new country. I was then cutting out of a forest that grew directly over the waters of this bend. That was a mighty good plantation, and there was right smart of bears there, too. But that one thousand acres of land went into the Mississippi years ago."

It is putting no strain upon the figure to say that great forests of youthful hope, womanly beauty and sturdy strength are swept in the same way every year into the great, turbid torrent of disease and death. Yet it should not be so. That, it is a disgrace as well as a loss. People are largely too careless or too stupid to defend their own interests—the most precious of which is health. That goes, it is gone. Disease is the result of neglect or ignorance the simplest things might be so complex a proposition in Conic Sections. As the large Western rivers, which so often flood the cities along their shores, are in a few months' spring, so all our ailments are but a flood of impure blood and a small group of disordered organs.

ABSENT LOVE.

Oh, absent love, my soul is ever calling
On thine to fold me in its warm embrace,
The dews of loneliness upon my falling
Give to my heart's unrest no cooling grace.
As anxious flowers unto the sunlight turning,
I crave the warmth of thy returning kiss;
My spirit seeks thee with intense yearning,
And views each day of absence—robbed of bliss.

Yet sweet thought! To feel and know my will Lives in responsive union with thine!
That I alone can make the life of thine
And draw with loving gaze thy soul in mine.
Then hasten, love, with greeting glad and joyed;
I tire for blissful rest within those arms;
Fill up with rapture every heart's sad void,
And bring to life again its dearest charms.

—Adora Roberts.

"Home, Sweet Home."

Now, when the day was far spent I girded up my loins and got me to the train. And it was No. 22, mail express, going east on 14's time, for the snow was deep. Twenty-two was three hours late, and 14 was abandoned. Dimly lighted was the car, and cold. Men curled up in their overcoats and hated one another, and no man spoke to his neighbor by reason of the cold and delay. Twinkling past the station lights, white and cold lay the drifted fields, and with rattle and jar the train crept along. Two seats ahead of me a seedy looking man, befit of his overcoat, and not fastidious as to collar, began to whistle. Usually the note of the railroad warbler wakens our ire, but we all listened to this man. Mellow as flute notes rose his many pattered whistle, "Home, Sweet Home." At the first line surly looking men sat up to hear, "Mid pleasure and palaces." Not often did the seedy whistler roam amid very gorgeous palaces, we wot. Scant indeed must be the pleasures of a man without an overcoat on a stormy night in March. "Be it ever so humble—" we followed the air with the words as he listened, and the stranger seemed to be breathing his very soul into the song. Ah, yes, humble his home might be, as lonely indeed was his state, but welcome and warm love light from watching eyes and the home light from the ruddy hearth, the clinging arms of little ones waited for him, and we are glad of it. They very car grew warmer as he whistled. In the distant corner, away down by the wood-box, the mellow notes drifted, a dreamy current of melody. "There's no place home," why it swelled out into the very storm with its passionate longing. It made those of us who were not going home, home-sick down to the soul. "A wanderer from home"—there were tears in the melody; no alien splendor could dazzle a heart so home loving. "Oh, give me that lowly thatched cottage again," came fairly sobbing in the tender, bird-like notes, and then again the "Home, Sweet Home" refrain, sympathetic, rich, plaintive, yearning.

The train slowed up, stopped, the conductor came in abruptly, the mellow whistle died away in a scarce audible sigh.

"Come," said the conductor, "I don't carry you any further."

The whistler rose, and as he vainly fumbled for a button on his buttonless coat, started for the rear door.

"This way," shouted the conductor, and the whistler meekly turned and walked out the forward door. A lantern swings out from the step, the train moves on, and the homeless whistler is shivering out in the snow.

"What station is this, conductor?"

"No regular station. It's a crossing. Station's two miles further down. Don't stop there."

"Where did that fellow get on?"

"Climbed on at the tank, when we took water about twenty miles back."

Came from nowhere, got off at nowhere, had nowhere to go, and whistled "Sweet Home" till he made us all cry. Ah me, I wish I had given him a quarter. But that's me. My good impulses are always slow. I never think of the quarter in time, unless I am on the sleeping-car. And then the porter, who is a believer in practical and prompt benevolence, always helps me to think of it. But the tattered whistler, whose lips dropped music like the singing of the birds when the vines with the tender grapes give a good smell, why should he be bounced out into the night and storm, when fare for his ride and bread for his month were right here in a dozen pockets? Then I saw that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet broad to the wise, nor yet riches to the men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all.—Bob Burdette.

Washington Irving.

Many years ago—in fact, back in the thirties—Dr. Grant, of Enfield, whose reputation as a physician in Connecticut is still in memory of the first rank after years of retirement from practice, was travelling in South Carolina, his native State, going by stage from Savannah to Augusta. At a certain stopping place it was found that there were more passengers than the stage could carry, and an extra was ordered for the accommodation of five passengers. These passengers were John Forsythe, of Georgia, John Branch, Postmaster-General, George McDuffie, of South Carolina, Dr. Grant, and an unknown gentleman. The party soon became talkative, and by degrees all knew who each one was, with the exception of the one silent stranger. As the stage creaked along, the attention of Dr. Grant, who was a lad at that date, was attracted by a little dog following the stage, which reminded him of one described by Washington Irving in Astoria, which he had just been reading. He was laughing quietly to himself when one of the gentlemen insisted that he should tell them the cause of his amusement, that they might join in the fun. Dr. Grant said, "That little dog reminds me of Washington Irving's dog, whose skin was so tight that it drew up his hind-legs."

This led to a talk about Irving, in which all joined except the unknown man. One of the gentlemen then appealed to him, and asked if he did not think Irving one of our wisest and most delightful writers. The person appealed to replied that he could not say that he did. The gentlemen all expressed their astonishment, and one of them persisted in demanding why he did not agree with the others in their admiration of the favorite author.

"Have you ever read any of his works?" they asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well, don't you think the 'Sketchbook' one of the most beautiful specimens of English which our country has produced?"

"Well, no," the unknown replied; "I cannot say that I see anything remarkable in it."

"Well," said the other, "then you must be Washington Irving himself, for no one else could resist the humor and pathos of his pen."

The unknown colored to the roots of his hair, but made no reply, and his tormentor continued:

"Come, tell us the truth; are you not Washington Irving himself?"

The poor man at last blushing confessed that he was, and then followed a general introducing and hand shaking, and a delightful and never to be forgotten stage ride.—Editors Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for July.

Clearing Up a Mystery.

SWANTON, Vt., June 28.—The body found Thursday at Marjany bay has been identified as that of young Krouse who has been missing since Jan. 20. An examination revealed a bullet hole in the back of his head. A bullet was found in the brain. Oscar Meyers, who was arrested on suspicion of having murdered Krouse, is held in state prison awaiting developments. He was a stranger to Krouse, who was induced by him to leave work here and go to St. Albans. On January 20, Krouse not returning, Meyers was traced to St. Albans and found at a recruiting office. He had enlisted in the regular army. The missing man's clothing was found in Meyers' possession. The bullet found in Krouse's brain was a 32-calibre the same size as would have fitted the revolver Meyers is known to have disposed of. The papers found show the murdered man to be Carl Heinrich Hermann Krouse, age 24, who came from Hamburg in 1883.

The following, copied from the Lowell Daily Courier, speaks well of an article made in their city: "Hood's Sarsaparilla is fast growing into use, and doing much good. This is no 'patent medicine,' but a preparation of a standard article for specific diseases, and its effect is said to be very marked. The testimonials which they give are bona fide, from parties who have used the preparation, and cheerfully give their testimony as to its worth. Those afflicted with Scrofula, Biliousness or General Debility, should try this remedy. Hood & Co. are careful and experienced pharmacists, and their preparations can be relied on."

Signor Savastano considers the view of Muller, Lubbock, and Grant Allen on the adaptation of flowers to insects as considerably exaggerated. He has frequently noticed bees visiting numbers of flowers and extracting their honey without touching the stigmas or pistils, and he has also known them to discard flowers which were rich in honey for others having a comparatively scant supply. But such opinions, while they may serve to modify, do not seriously undermine the broad conclusion so generally maintained, after close and protracted observation, of the adaptation of plants to insects.

It is stated that M. Lauth, of the Sevres porcelain manufactory, has discovered a method of imparting to new cups, saucers and vases, the depth and richness of color characteristic of the old china ware.

Not Paid For.

By the law, you may sell to men and women if they want it. You have given bond and you are licensed to sell to them; no one has a right to molest you in your legal business, no matter what families are destroyed or rendered miserable; no matter what wives are treated with violence, what children starve or cry over the degradation of a parent; your business is legalized, and no one may interfere with you in it. No matter what mother may agonize over the loss of a son, or sister blush for the shame of a brother, you are not the right to disregard them all and pursue your legal calling; you are licensed. You may fit up for your lawful trade, you may use all your arts to induce visitors, you may skillfully expose to view your choicest wines and captivating beverages; you may then induce thirst by all contrivances, producing a raging appetite for drinks, and then you may supply to the full, because it is lawful; you have paid for it; you have a license.

You may allow boys, almost children, to frequent your saloons. You may hold the cup to their lips, but you must not let them drink—that is unlawful. But while you have special privileges for the money you pay, this poor privilege of selling to children is denied you. Here the parents have a right to say: Leave my son to me until the law gives you the right to destroy. Do not anticipate that terrible moment when I can assert for him no further right of protection; 'twill be soon enough for me, for his mother, for his sister, for his friends and the community to see him take his road to death. Give him to us in his childhood at least. Let us have a few years of his youth, in which we may enjoy his innocence, to repay, in small degree, for the love we have lavished upon him.

This is something you who now stand a prisoner at this bar, have not paid for; for this is not embraced in your license. For this offence the court sentences you to ten days' imprisonment in the county jail, and that you pay a fine of seventy-five dollars and costs; and that you stand committed until the fine and costs of this prosecution are paid.—Traveller Supplement June 23, 1884.

Miss Reed's Perfidious Lover.

BROOKLYN, June 28.—Miss Elizabeth Reed returned a week ago to her home, 48 Clymer street. Williamsburg, from a visit to her friends in the country. She bore with her, besides their best wishes, many wedding presents, for she was to marry Mr. Carl Hulsbach, a clerk in Hildeman's Washington hotel, at Division avenue and Sixth street. After her return he was more attentive than usual. Miss Reed is only 17 years old. She was delighted with the attentions bestowed upon her, and showed her friends many gifts which she had brought for her lover.

"And now to think that he has left me," she said last evening, as she stood on the stoop of her residence. "To think that I shall never see him again."

Within was a company which had assembled to witness the marriage and enjoy the feast that had been prepared. Mr. Medger, an acquaintance of the absent bridegroom, had told the bride of his perfidy.

"He gave me this note," he said, to deliver to you. In it he says that when you receive it he will be on the sea on his way to the old country. And he is on the sea, for I met a man," he continued, "who saw him off."

The news of the girls disappointment quickly spread about the neighborhood, and there were many and warm expressions of sympathy with her in her disappointment in the character of her lover. She was very arrayed in her wedding dress, and wore, as she stood on the stoop looking up and down the street, a large straw hat with ostrich plumes. It was not until after midnight that her friends prevailed upon her to re-enter the house.

Kind friend, that nervous, hacking cough is dragging you to consumption and the grave. Do not longer delay. Procure Adams' Balsam at once. It is an unfailing remedy for coughs, colds, and lung disease.

The very remarkable climate eccentricities, if so they may be termed, that have latterly attracted attention to the world over, are typically exemplified in the last winter season about Stavangore, Norway, where in latitude fifty-eight degrees, or only one degree south of the extremity of Greenland, the thermometer but once during the month of January fell to the freezing point. The grass plots of the various gardens are described as having been practically as green as in summer. "Daisies, snowdrops, pansies, violets and primroses had their blossoms well set; peonies had appeared above the ground, and many roses had thrown out vigorous shoots."

It is stated that M. Lauth, of the Sevres porcelain manufactory, has discovered a method of imparting to new cups, saucers and vases, the depth and richness of color characteristic of the old china ware.

A True American.

This is the way Charles A. Dana of the N. Y. Sun talks about Blaine: "The people like Blaine partly because he is a hearty, cordial, unaffected, agreeable man. Nobody can be in his society for half an hour without being entertained and impressed he is vivid, genial and unaffected. Even when he is acting, he is true to nature, and carries his auditor along. As a party man Blaine is just as wholehearted as he is in a coterie of his cronies. He is for the regular nominations every time, and nobody ever heard him talk of bolting the ticket. . . . But all this does not suffice to account for Mr. Blaine. It does not fully explain his speed and bottom. The secret is not there. Moreover, while these things are necessary to his powers among men they do not constitute it. They are the foundation and the edifice towers above. The inner soul of Blaine is his intense Americanism. He is American through and through, bone, fibre and finger nails. He always flies the American flag, and the American eagle perches on his shoulder. To the hereditary antagonist, foe and rival of the United States, to England, his flag is never lowered not even in ceremony.

Civilization and intelligence constantly tend to obliterate barbarism impulses; but we suppose that in the heart of every American of Revolutionary descent, fed on the memories of that momentous struggle, educated in the Fourth of July orations of thirty-five years ago, there lurks, notwithstanding all the effects of culture and Christianity a certain animosity toward the mother country, toward England. The feeling is not so strong, of course, as that prevails in all Irishmen; but it is strong enough, nevertheless. This sentiment Blaine represents and embodies, and it makes him friends who would never be his friends otherwise.

Those politicians, Independents and Democrats, who imagine that this sort of inborn passion, avowed or hidden, is a thing that can be despised in a Presidential canvass, do not consider the facts with adequate wisdom. Mr. Blaine is a much more difficult candidate to deal with successfully than those who judge from superficial indications may believe."

Indian Thieves' Ingenuity.

"Talking about sly thieves," remarked a passenger from the west, "maybe you have 'em in New York and Chicago, but for thoroughbred slickness I'd take a Pawnee Indian every day in the week. Them sedskins 'll steal anything that can be carried off, and the worst of it is they get away with the stuff so completely you can't find it. Remember one time, shortly after I went out there, a surveyor lost a lot of his instruments one night. We know'd the Indians had took 'em, because there wasn't no other thieves around, but what they wanted of them instruments was a puzzle. The Indian agent and a lot more of us made a thorough search of every tepee and cabin at the agency, but no trace of the missing articles could we discover.

When we got through an old Montana mining prospector named Cowen came up an' said he was in hard luck, an' wanted a bit o' brandy to taper off his spree with, an' if we'd pay him for his trouble he'd believe he could find the instruments. The surveyor made that all right, and we started out again. 'Did ye sarch that patch o' underbrush there?' he inquired. 'Every foot of it,' replied the agent; 'we poked around in there for hours; no use goin' there again.' 'But ye don't want to do no pokin' around,' said Cowen; 'just follow me and do as I do.' Then he started in; he wouldn't look around in the bushes at all, but just skipped along catchin' 'em by their tops one after 'other, trying to pull 'em out. Pretty soon he struck one that was loose; he gave a yelp, pulled harder, when out it came, and under the roots we found the surveyor's things. 'Can't fool me on their bushcraft, if I hev him drunk for a month,' said old Cowen as the surveyor handed him a gallon jug o' brandy, 'jist to taper off on, ye know.'—Chicago Herald "train talk."

Four steps are regarded by Dr. B. W. Richardson as all-important for the advancement of national health, viz: The physical purification of the general public, the radical suppression of diseases which arise by communication of the affected with the unaffected, the promotion of knowledge and thrift and adequate provision for food and drink among the masses, and lastly the encouragement of unity and organization in sanitary administration.

Tumor in the Stomach. Much of the distress and sickness attributed to dyspepsia, chronic diarrhoea and other causes is occasioned by humor in the stomach. Several cases, with all the characteristics of these complaints, have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Other cures effected by this medicine are so wonderful that the simplest statement of them affords abundant proof of its efficacy. It is a purgative and when used secures the confidence of the people.

Lewis' Red Jacket Bitters

Contains no mineral or poisonous substances and is a purely vegetable preparation. A Sovereign Remedy for Liver and Kidney Troubles, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Sick Headache, Constipation, Rheumatism and Nervousness in either sex, which disease invariably yield to the Vegetable Remedy with or without the aid of the Bitters. A speedy relief is universal when used according to directions. "Family Medicine." The Wonderful Success of this Bitter is because it is established on scientific principles and has been tested in the Practice of Medicine. We do not merely state the facts, but publish the names of the Bitter, Bitters and Bitters, which have cured the most obstinate cases of the above diseases. We do not claim any patent, but we do claim that our Bitters are the only ones that will cure the above diseases. We can only say that our Bitters are the only ones that will cure the above diseases.

Is a purely white, semi-transparent fluid, having a remarkable affinity for the skin. The only article yet known to chemistry that will penetrate the skin WITHOUT INJURY. BEAUTIFIES THE COMPLEXION. Eradicates all Spots, Freckles, Tan, Moth Patches, Black Worms, Impurities and Discolorations of every kind, without irritating the skin. It renders the skin pure, clear, healthy and brilliant, creating a complexion which is neither artificial nor temporary, but at once beautiful and permanent in its beauty. IT CURES. (Almost instantly) Runny Nose, Itchy Throat, Chapped Lips, Rough or Chafed Skin, Itch to the scalp, upon diseased skin the Bitter is wonderful. It cures the skin diseases so fast and so well. ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR IT.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifling with the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty year's fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1871 I had a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me a trial of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of this medicine, my cough was cured. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your Cherry Pectoral saved my life. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, J. H. FAIRBANKS, JR., Rockingham, N. H., March 15, 1882."

A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die. I had tried everything, but nothing seemed to do him any good. One of the family suggested the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, a bottle of which was bought and given him. He was very sick, and I was very anxious. The little patient was breathing easier. The doctor said that the Cherry Pectoral had saved my darling's life. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, MRS. EMMA GIBNEY, 12 West 12th St., New York, May 16, 1882."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for many years, and it has cured me of many ailments. I have tried many other remedies, but none have done me so much good. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, A. J. CRANE, Lake Crystal, Minn., March 15, 1882."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, was cured by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, J. H. WALDEN, Blythe, Mass., April 5, 1882."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I cannot work in the house, and I am very weak and sickly. I have tried many remedies, but none have done me so much good. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, S. L. BROWN, Blythe, Mass., April 5, 1882."

The Hole was There.

It thundered the other day, and a number of old codgers, who had been lying about the weather of other years, at once gave their attention to thunder-showers and electrical phenomena. Several large stories were told, when old Bob Bullwhacker succeeded in getting the floor.

"The dingiest storm I ever saw was in 1849, the 11th day of June. They wa'n't much wind, but Je-wizz! How it did thunder and lightnin' an' rain! I was livin' on the old Billposter Place them days, an' about 4 o'clock in the mornin' there came a clap of thunder that blamed near busted my ear. Afore I could get my mind workin' the rain agit to come down by the bar'l, an' the spout on the side o' the barn shot a stream onto the ground so hard that she went right in, an' I reckon a streak o' lightnin' must 'a' run down there, too, for in the mornin' there was a hole that twenty-seven feet deep an' four feet across, an' it was half full o' water. I tell yer that war a right smart shower."

"I should think so," said one of the bystanders. "That's a little too big to b'lieve."

"Well, gents, if yer don't b'lieve I'm a-tellin' the truth, jes' come with me one o' these nice days, an' I'll show yer the hole. It's been the best well on the place ever since."

"That's all so, gentlemen; but the hole is there to prove what I say, an' if you don't believe me, yer can look at it with yer own eyes."

Bishop Walker Stops a Fight. WAHINGTON, Dak., June 28.—While the new bishop of Dakota, Dr. Walker, was on a visit to a clergyman of his diocese he saw opposite a saloon seventy or eighty men forming a ring around two others who were engaged in a desperate fight. Their clothes were torn and blood-stained, and one was nearly blinded. Bishop Walker broke into the ring, and going up to one of the struggling men, who was kicking the other in the face, attempted to drag him away. He then said:

"Will no one of you help to separate these men?"

"Let them have it out," cried some one in the crowd.

Then the bishop lifting himself up to his full height, his eyes blazing with indignation and contempt, said:

"Is it possible that the manhood of all of you is gone? Are you only wolves? Shame on you!"

The whole crowd for a moment stood dazed and amazed. Then four or five rushed forward and helped the bishop to drag the men apart. His hands and clothes were soiled with blood in the struggle. Then, standing between the two men, who were glaring at each other, he asked two or three of the crowd to take one of the men to his home, and two or three others to lead the other man away. This they did. Then the crowd quietly dispersed.

LITERARY NOTICES.

OUR LITTLE ONES for July maintains its high character for excellence in art and literary productions, in both respects being beautiful and entertaining. For young people there is no magazine published that surpasses OUR LITTLE ONES, and its great circulation is proof of the high esteem in which it is held. Every family should subscribe for it, for it is a constant source of delight to its readers. Russell Publishing Co., Boston.

THE MUSICAL RECORD for July contains twelve pages of new music which is worth considerable more than the magazine costs, in addition to which there are good editorials, communications, and columns of musical news and gossip. Mr. Dexter Smith is editor of the Record, and it is published by the old, wellknown and popular Boston musical house of Oliver Ditson & Co.

THE DOG by Dr. Al. Watts of Boston is a small book of 53 pages, handsomely printed and containing a portrait of the author, and will be found valuable to owners of dogs. It contains hints on breeding, the diseases of dogs and how they may be cured, and other useful information.

Safe, swift, and sure to regulate the bowels, are Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Recommended by eminent physicians.

Some persons walking by the shore of Loch Etive, in Scotland, found that they cast a double shadow. Upon examination they ascertained that one was produced by the direct, and the other by the reflected rays of the sun; the latter coming from the surface of the lake.

Dr. James W. Sweet, of New Haven, has a letter in another column worth reading.

Beating against life's prison bars, like some caged bird, my weary heart looks longing, upward to the stars, and yearneth ever to depart.—[Lilla N. Cushman.] We don't doubt it, Lilla; but we can assure you Ferd Ward is even more anxious.

WARREN LELAND, Largest Hotel Enterprises. America, says that while a passenger on New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failure to effect a radical cure. Some years ago one of Mr. LELAND's farm laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly, scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use. Mr. LELAND has personally used Ayer's Sarsaparilla for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, and the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Scars, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases. We have Mr. LELAND's permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him personally either at his manumoth Ocean House, Long Beach, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Broadway, 27th and 28th Streets, New York. Mr. LELAND's extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled eradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquiries much valuable information.

can be found in the State. I have the full line of the celebrated Stein Manufacturing Co.'s Caskets Caskets. These Caskets are covered with black granite, white marble, and silk velvet in various shades, and are acknowledged to be the finest clothes ever made in the country.
All in this and neighboring towns who are under the sad necessity of purchasing such goods, will find it decidedly to their advantage to buy them of me, as my prices on different grades of goods are from 10 cents to twenty-five per cent. lower than the same quality of goods are sold in Boston. I give my personal attention to my business, and have sufficient facilities to promptly attend to all orders from other towns as well as Woburn. Flowers furnished at short

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

THE GREAT RATIFICATION MEET-

Last Tuesday night the true-blue Republicans of Massachusetts held a meeting in Tremont Temple, Boston, and an overflow in Melancon Hall to ratify the nomination of Blaine and Logan. Gov. Robinson presided at the former, and Hon. A. W. Beard at the latter. Both were immense gatherings of the true and tried men of the old party, and the enthusiasm of the masses with which the great halls were packed was simply immense. If there were any kickers, misnamed "independents," at either they must have felt sick. Splendid speeches were made by distinguished Republican statesmen and leaders, among them Henry Cabot Lodge, Chairman of the State committee; Gov. Robinson, Senators Hoar and Dawes; Congressmen Long, Crapo and Rice; Hon. A. W. Beard, Lawyer Brown, Mr. Gove, the only Blaine delegate at the Chicago convention, and many more.

The Herald and other "independent" organs have been saying for some weeks that Gov. Robinson was "on the fence" and inclined to jump over on to the Democratic side, but the ringing and able speech which he made at the Tremont Temple meeting settled the question most emphatically the other way, and demonstrated the value of the Herald as a political guide. It was a royal speech and loyal to the party and its candidates to the core. Senator Hoar's address was a masterpiece. He had a great deal to say about Blaine and every word was of the most complimentary character. He spoke in the very highest terms of the statesmanship and political integrity of the "Plumed Knight" which must have surprised and grieved the kickers. He paid his compliments to Harvard College, saying that its influence was in the highest degree demoralizing to the politics of the country, and when President Elliot and his college associates were alluded to by speaker as "gentle hermits" it brought down the house.

Other brilliant speeches were made, and the meeting was a great and grand success from beginning to end. And now the "independents" will be more at a loss than ever where to go, or what to do with themselves. They are already getting a little sick of Cleveland, and will grow more so as time passes.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Gov. Cleveland of New York was nominated at the Democratic convention on the second ballot, and Mr. Hendricks of Indiana was unanimously made second on the ticket, which is about the best that could be framed out of the rather poor lot of timber at hand. It looks as though a mistake was made by somebody in placing the men, for Hendricks has a national reputation, having been the tail of the "old ticket" of 1876, and is something of a statesman as Democratic statesmen go; whereas Cleveland is not a man of much public note, nor great in any sense of the word except in physical stature and breadth. Cleveland had held some minor local offices before he was made Governor of New York through the family quarrels and apathy of the Republicans, but shone in none of them very brilliantly except as public executioner for Erie county, N. Y. As Governor his public acts were almost invariably in favor of railroad and other monopolies, which is the main reason why he will be opposed at the polls by the laboring classes of the country. Looking at it in this way it would seem as though Hendricks should have been placed first, and Cleveland second, on the ticket.

There were a plenty of Democrats at the convention who declared before the nomination that Cleveland could not be elected and the choice of him for a candidate would be a great mistake. They said he could not carry New York State, and the general impression is that they were about right. There was a great deal of disappointment by and better candidates and their friends, and a combination to defeat him was attempted right there on the battle-ground. That did not look encouraging for the ticket. However, the nominations are better than anybody acquainted with Democratic methods had a right to expect, and the defeat of them next November will give the rank and file of the Democracy as little sorrow as the defeat of any other two prominent men in their party. The Republicans are better satisfied with the ticket than the Democrats, as a party, are, because it is an easy one to beat at the polls.

The independents talk of holding a conference in New York about the 22 instant mainly to see where they are and what they are going to do about it. At that meeting it will be determined whether the great army of kickers will waltz into line and vote for Cleveland, or set up an independent candidate to be knocked out by the Republicans next November. The country will be expected to hold its breath until this momentous question is decided.

A prominent clergyman in a neighboring town who has spent some years in western New York said the other day that Gov. Cleveland, in personal morals, would make a first-rate match for Henry L. Pierce. If anybody wants to know about that means let him ask the people of Newton who know all about Mr. Pierce and are not afraid to tell.

People who about to put in their winter's coal will do well to call on Munroe & Newton before buying.

An article on temperance from the pen of our correspondent "Anon" will appear next week in this paper.

Persons owing J. B. McDonald old bills for coal are respectfully invited to call at his office and settle the same at once.

We heard no Democratic guns when the news of Cleveland's nomination was received here. Why this silence?

The salary of Postmaster Grammer of the Centre has been increased $100 a year under the recent adjustment of salaries.

The National Band will furnish music for the picnic of the A. O. H. to be held in Shawshen Grove, on July 24 instant.

Mrs. Dean, Mr. Cooper's head clerk at the depot restaurant, will spend her vacation at her old home in Charlestown, P. E. I.

The boys who annoy the residents of Buell's Block by ringing the doorbells in the evening will meet with sore trouble if they do not stop it.

Munroe & Newton sell the "Bernie" coal, which is highly recommended by those who have used it. Their prices for this coal are cheap.

When are the Democrats of Woburn going to ratify? It is understood that the Town Committee are not overly enthusiastic over the nominations.

Mr. J. B. McDonald has an immense supply of all the popular kinds of coal used, which he sells at the very lowest prices and delivers promptly.

Mr. Webster Woodman has received some photographs of the old and esteemed citizen of Woburn, Mr. O. Rich, which are pleasant to look at.

Postmaster Grammer has been notified of the law concerning postage on second class matter and will hereafter charge one cent for four ounces.

Mr. Cutter, the Librarian, is off on a two weeks' vacation, during which time no lists of books received at the Library will appear in the papers.

The St. Charles C. T. A. Society picnicked at Downer's Landing last Wednesday. The company was a large one, by whom a most agreeable day was spent.

Last Saturday the No Surrender Lodge of Orangemen went on a picnic to Spy Pond in Arlington and made a great day of it. They went over in Jones' barges.

Mr. C. C. Hart, who had one of his legs badly broken by the kick of a horse, is getting on finely, and will be out on the streets again by and by as sound as a nut.

J. B. McDonald sells the "Bernie" coal at prices with which customers will be perfectly satisfied. He also has the very best in the market of all other kinds, sizes and prices.

Last week Thursday the M. E. Society of this place went to the Point of Pines, Chelsea Beach, and had a grand good time. They went by rail, and it was a goodly company.

Already some of the teachers rejected by our School Board have been solicited to accept elections to responsible positions in schools and will probably leave us for that purpose.

Mr. G. F. Jones returned from the Democratic National Convention last Monday forenoon. He parted company with his friend Gen. Butler at Albany, N. Y. Mr. Jones represents the convention as the biggest thing of the kind ever held. He had a good time, and was well paid for going out to Chicago.

Mr. S. Franksford Trull and family went to Scituate yesterday on their summer vacation. They have a delightful location and must enjoy their term of rest and recreation very much.

Munroe & Newton are selling all the different kinds of coal as cheap as can be bought in this market. They respectfully ask the public to call and examine coal and prices before purchasing.

The National Band is 'meeting with excellent success in collecting funds for a series of open-air concerts this summer. They will give the first of the course on Wednesday evening, July 30.

Clean, nice Franklin coal can be bought of Munroe & Newton at the lowest market figures. This is the favorite coal with housekeepers. The present is a good time to lay in next winter's supply.

We have had several days of genuine autumn weather this week. We repeat the remark not infrequently observed in these columns of late by the attentive reader, namely, that it is a curious summer.

There were several little showers on Wednesday—just enough to keep the haymakers in a peek of trouble, and perhaps spoil some hay. But it has been very neat sort of weather for personal comfort.

There is talk of organizing a "Maine Blaine and Logan Club" here. There are Maine Republicans enough in Woburn to make a good sized Club. And they propose to make themselves heard this campaign.

There is a change of Hammond's clothing store in this paper. The proprietor is offering great bargains in clothing, hats, gent's furnishing goods, and everything else kept in a first class establishment of the kind.

This is the season of the year when economical people are buying their next winter's coal. We would say to them that they can purchase any kind desired in any quantity of Mr. J. B. McDonald, and at bottom prices.

Mr. Charles McCarthy, a former resident of Woburn, was killed at Wyoma, in Lynn, on Thursday afternoon last week. He was at work in a ledge when a rock weighing five tons fell on him and crushed him to death.

Paine's Furniture Manufactory and Sales rooms near the Maine Depot, Boston, has the largest and most extensive stock of fine Parlor and Chamber Sets to be found. If you cannot see them send for an Illustrated price list.

The cases of the M. E. Society against Shandley and the Congregational Society and W. R. Putnam against Sykes are on trial in the District Court and exciting a great deal of interest. We shall report them next week.

We are informed that Miss Clara M. Fox, an estimable young lady and successful teacher in the Plympton School, has resigned. She goes to St. Louis this week with Mrs. Charles Wood for a visit. It is to be regretted that Miss Fox has thrown up her position in our schools.

Mr. Amos Cummings was so well pleased with the excursion to Plymouth Rock last Tuesday, with the steamboat Stamford and its master, and everything else that he has taken his clerks and work women down today to the landing-place of the Pilgrims so that they may enjoy these good things too.

Bro. Hobbs will probably learn that there are more independent voters in town than he has counted on; the woods are full of them. [Advertiser.] True, but they are nearly all in the Democratic party this year. Before the campaign is through with friend Allen will be perfectly amazed at the number of independents in this town.

Perseverance Division S. of T. has elected the following officers:—W. P. S. Jessie Waters; W. A. George F. Watts; R. S. Harry Osborne; A. R. S. Mary Waters; F. S. Charles W. Dorr; T. Russell F. Ellis; Chaplain, John Fuller; C. Andrew Dolbins; A. C. Mrs. William Huntly; I. S. Eliza Howard; O. S. C. Fred. Carling.

The following are the new officers of the Grattan Literary Association:—President, Michael T. Hickey; Vice President, Thomas E. Mason; Financial Secretary, Michael J. Kelley; Recording Secretary, John T. Manning; Treasurer, Alex. McDonald; Sergeant-at-Arms, Patrick Maguire; Trustees, James Begley, James Carey, Stephen C. Ryan.

On Wednesday evening, D. D. G. M. Warren L. Knox and Suite installed the following officers of Crystal Fount Lodge, I. O. O. F.:—N. G., John S. Huse; V. G., Bernard Fletcher; R. S., George M. Buchanan; Treas., Orlando M. Brooks; W. Cyrus Lamb; C. Allen Robie; I. G., Theodore L. Sleeper; O. G., George H. Ayer; R. S. N. G., Oliver M. Wade; L. S. N. G., Granville M. Stoddard; R. S. V. G., Benjamin Woodside; L. S. V. G., Frank Chase; R. S. S., D. Fraser McIntosh; L. S. S., George W. Fish; Chap. Lewis J. Lyman; Organist, P. Elverson Bancroft. A very fine supper, served by Hope Lodge D. P. R. in G. A. R. Hall, was enjoyed after the installation ceremonies.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Selectmen Tuesday, B. H. Nichols was granted permission to rebuild his rendering factory. A petition to appoint A. F. Barton engineer in the Fire Department was referred. Ham and Samson were appointed a committee on coal contracts with the School and Library departments. A special meeting will be held this evening.

At the regular meeting of the Bellevue Club Tuesday evening the following officers were chosen for the ensuing six months:—President, W. R. Bartlett; Vice President, F. F. Lowell; Secretary, E. F. Tebbetts; Treasurer, C. M. Munroe; Executive Committee, C. M. Munroe, C. W. Shinguin, E. F. Tebbetts; Membership Committee, W. R. Bartlett, C. S. Hines, C. W. Shinguin, C. H. Ellard, C. M. Munroe.

The following is the programme of the first open-air concert to be given by the Woburn Brass Band in the stand on the Common on Wednesday evening next, July 23:—

1. March. Nahant. Thomas.
2. Overture. Light Cavalry. Von Suppe.
3. Medley. Here and There. Flockton.
4. Waltz. Breeze of Night. Lamotte.
5. Parapluze. Jerusalem the Golden. Robinson.
6. March. En Masse. Reeves.
7. Schottische. Chuck full of Glory. Robinson.
8. Selection. La Mascot. Audron.
9. Medley. Lie-A-Brac. Menard.
10. Finale. Claus.

Several gentlemen of this town attended the Republican ratification meeting in Tremont Temple last Tuesday evening and enjoyed it hugely. It was a rousing endorsement of Blaine and Logan and well calculated to make the independents crawl into their holes and draw the holes in after them. They found out where Gov. Robinson's treatment of the "gentle hermits" of Harvard was especially delightful. The Woburn Republicans enjoyed every moment and speech of the meeting.

The Y. M. C. A. of Eastern Massachusetts, who hold their quarterly convention at Crescent Beach last week, will hold day and evening meetings during all of the last week in this month in their great tent. Moody and other eminent men will take part in them. Mr. J. Howard Nason of this place had the honor of the presidency of the convention conferred on him last week and made a good presiding officer. A large number of the Woburn Association will probably attend the meetings week after next.

Some of the friends of Dr. Deering thought an item which appeared in these columns last week reflected on that gentleman's judicial integrity. They erred as to its true intent and meaning. If it had any design at all it was merely to indulge in a little pleasantry at the expense of those who feebly kicked at the Doctor's decisions, or rather, those who were not pleased with the victory of the Rumfords. People acquainted with Dr. Deering know very well that he would show no partiality in his decisions, or favor one club more than another.

The polo games with which the two rinks closed last Saturday evening were very interesting and drew great crowds. At the Olympian the Mystics of Winchester played the Pickeringers of Wakefield in which the former made 3 goals, and the latter none. At the Academy the Hook & Ladder, No. 1 played against the Perham Hose, and the game was a tie, each team making two goals. Had the rinks been open it is probable they would have done a large business this week for the evenings have been delightfully cool and just-right for skating.

Mr. Thomas Emerson, some years ago Superintendent of the Woburn schools, and at present Chairman of the School Board, has been elected Superintendent of schools in Newton and accepted the position. The salary is $2,700. He has for some years been engaged in literary work for the Harpers of New York on their school publications, a position which we suppose he will resign on taking charge of the Newton schools. He is a valuable citizen, and especially valuable to the educational interests of our town. His removal will be a serious loss to Woburn.

We have received with pleasure the first numbers of the Old Orchard (Me.) Summer Rambler, of which Mrs. Fannie Dresser Hamilton is the editor and proprietor. She is one of the rarest writers that can be found anywhere between Kittery Point and Quaddy Head, of which each issue of her Rambler is good proof. It is a neat daily, brimful to sea-side jottings, society items and doings, with dashes of literary spray as refreshing as the breezes of the Atlantic, close down by the sands of which the Rambler is published. Mrs. Hamilton is a born newspaper man, a spicy scribe correspondent of metropolitan journals, and a lady of fine literary attainments. Success to the Rambler.

Last Tuesday afternoon Mr. Ebenezer Parker, an old resident of Woburn, and for several years station agent at Woburn Highlands, died from cerebro-spinal meningitis, aged 71 years. For several years after he moved to this town from Charlestown he was an active and successful business man, and accumulated considerable property. He was a person of quiet, orderly deportment, esteemed for his good qualities, a kind father and husband, and a citizen who was trusted and respected everywhere. He left a wife and four children, among the latter of whom were Mr. John L. Parker of the Lynn Item, and Mr. Charles S. Parker, editor and proprietor of the Arlington Advocate. This community sympathize with them in their bereavement.

The workmen's societies in this town and many workmen who do not belong to them are bold in their expressions of good will towards Blaine, and scores of them will vote for him this fall. They want no Cleveland in their. Before his election to the governorship of New York he was the attorney for railroad monopolies, and all his official acts while in the chair of State have been against the laborer. Failing to get Gen. Butler the workmen of Massachusetts will go over to Blaine, as they will throughout the country. At Lynn, the head centre of labor organizations, the nomination of Cleveland fell like a wet blanket, and the Bee, the organ of the unions, has nothing good to say in his behalf. Straws show how the wind sets.

Mr. Eben H. Davis has resigned the Superintendency of the Woburn schools, a position which he has held some fourteen years, to take control of those in Chelsea. Under his able management our schools have gained a first rank in the State and stand today unsurpassed by any in New England. He has been an earnest, faithful, hard-working Superintendent, and has always taken great pride in the high standing of schools. They will feel his loss very much and the town will regret to lose so good a citizen. His salary in Chelsea will be $400 more than that paid him here. Mr. Davis stands very high in the estimation of the instructors of the State, and our Chelsea neighbors will find they made a good choice of Superintendent when they elected him. We hope a good man will be found to take his place here.

A member of the School Board has a letter in this paper which will be read with interest. He raps the Journal over the knuckles slightly, but the said knuckles aforesaid have been rapped so often and so hard that they are completely calloused and hence without feeling. Complaints were made to us by leading citizens that things were going wrong on the School Board, coupled with requests that some of these goings-on be brought to light in our columns. The change in teachers made a great deal of talk and they were severely commented on in highly respectable quarters. Now, we did not wish to design to do injustice to the Board or anybody else, but the difficulty was, the records of that Department of Town affairs were not within reach. We took pains to investigate the charges of partisanship made against the Board, and the general verdict was that it cut an important figure in dropping eight old teachers and filling their places with new ones. What the records show we cannot say, but hope to be able to get some light from them soon, as assurances have been made that they shall be placed at our disposal. Our investigations have met with a snag in the conflicting testimony of the gentleman who wrote the letter in this paper and another one still more intimately connected with the schools, and as soon as this is removed we will give the public the true inwardness of this whole business.

In view of the reluctance or tardiness of the B. & L. R. Co. to go on and vigorously and honestly push the construction of the Woburn Branch to Wilmington there is strong talk among the heavy business men and capitalists of this town to part company with that corporation and secure a road on their own hook. They can offer inducements to the Boston & Maine to run a line through Woburn that would not be rejected, and if their surmises of the intentions of the B. & L. Co. are correct there will be a live, wideawake competing road here within the next 18 months. Our people are aroused over this apparent change in company's intentions and it will result in good to this community. Supt. Mellen, having clear business ideas of modern growth, wants to put the extension through at the earliest possible period of time, but he is held back by a Directory that fails to keep step with the march of railroad improvements. We hope the company will back out, if they have not already done so, because it will result in another road here, and one that has life, blood and business ideas in its composition. A competing line is what we want, and we are going to have it. A leading merchant said yesterday that he would put $1,000 into a new organization, and it would be an easy matter to raise funds enough to induce the Boston & Maine to build from Wilmington via Woburn to Boston. The B. & L. flatter themselves that they have now got this town just where they want it, but time will show, and a short time too, that they were never more mistaken in their lives, if, as many think, they have abandoned their extension project.

The Sunday School of the First Congregational Church in this town enjoyed a splendid excursion and picnic to Plymouth Rock in the good steamer Stamford last Tuesday. There were about 200 in the company, including Superintendent Pollard, Assistant Thompson, Dr. March, and others. They started from here at 8 o'clock in the morning, embarked on the steamer

A LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING: WOBURN REPUBLICANS WIDEAWAKE! A CLUB ORGANIZED: IT MEANS BUSINESS.

Edward F. Johnson, Esq., Secretary of the Republican Town Committee, gave out word last week that there would be a meeting at Republican Headquarters on the evening of July 16 for the purpose of organizing a Blaine and Logan Club. When the hour for the meeting arrived there was a large number of the workmen of the party gathered at 204 Main Street ready for business. In the crowd young blood showed up conspicuously, which was a good omen—the young men of Woburn are going to work for Blaine and Logan.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Charles Spear, Treasurer of the Town Committee. E. Everett Thompson, Esq., was chosen Chairman, and Mr. F. S. Burgess, Secretary. A committee of three, consisting of B. E. Bond, John C. Buck and Huntington Porter, were selected to retire and fetch in names for a set of officers for a Blaine and Logan Club. They attended to this duty and reported the names of the following gentlemen: For President, Griffin Place; Vice Presidents, John Cummings, George A. Hobbs, Dr. W. S. Reynolds; Secretary, Howard E. Strout; Treasurer, E. Everett Thompson; Ex. Com. B. E. Bond, F. S. Burgess, J. C. Buck, H. C. Hayward, N. J. Symonds, F. A. Buckman, J. T. Freeman, C. F. Spear, C. H. Buss, P. G. Hanson, J. W. Ellard. First prize speeches were made by F. S. Burgess, Hon. J. G. Pollard, N. J. Symonds, Col. Grammer, a lively one by the Chairman of the Town Committee, Capt. Ed. Weyer, H. Porter, C. W. Nute, B. E. Bond, Rev. Mr. Westall. The gentlemen present were full of ardor, zeal, and a determination to win next November.

NORTH WOBURN.

A very interesting meeting of the N. W. V. U. was held last Monday evening.

Great complaint is justly made at the miserable condition of our streets. No money has been expended on them for a long time. The Board is to be appealed to for redress.

This is getting to be a very noisy place. Last Sunday evening a gang of fellows made the night hideous with their tumult and the officer here seemed to make no attempt to stop it. The Chief's attention is called to the matter and it is hoped he will place an officer on duty in this village who will at least arrest parties when making a disturbance.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, and barks. It gives tone to the stomach and makes the weak strong. Sold by Druggists.

"My set are against Blaine," said a young man, "and I am with them." That is a great reason for a thinking being over 21 years of age to give for being against Blaine. Fortunately the men who do not belong to such sets are in the large majority.

PROBABLY NEVER

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla combines the best Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited to those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of Hood's Vegetable Pills. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw." Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists. Price one dollar, or six for five dollars. Hood's Sarsaparilla, prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 27- Use HOOD'S TOOTH-POWDER.

A Delusive Support.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 14.—Gen. Benjamin F. Butler passed through Buffalo on his way back from the convention early yesterday morning. He left for Niagara Falls, where he continued on his way home in the afternoon. In an interview had with him, while here, he said the ticket of the Democratic party was as strong as its authors could make it, but that the polls would show whether it was strong with the entire party. In reply to a question whether he would remain a candidate of the Labor-Greenback and Anti-Monopolist parties, he said, he had not accepted the nominations yet and would not decide how he would advise his friends until he had read Blaine's and Cleveland's letters of acceptance. The independent Republican element, he thought, would prove a delusive support to the Democratic ticket.

The water question is the all-absorbing theme of conversation here. It is the apple of discord, the bone of contention, and it should be settled as soon as possible.

St. Mary's society of this town held a very nice picnic in Hiawatha Grove, Woburn, last Saturday. A large company attended, the day was fine, and a splendid time was enjoyed.

Like everybody else our people are indulging in going to the beaches for a day or two at a time and get enough of it. Pretty many Winchester citizens are summering out of town.

The 11 o'clock a. m. train struck and so badly injured a valuable St. Bernard dog belonging to Mrs. Arnold of Symmes's Corner, last Monday, that it had to be killed. Dr. Al. Watts of Boston was summoned, but could not save the life of the pup.

Mr. R. C. Metcalf of this place read a paper entitled "Language teaching in the Primary Schools" before the American Institute of Instruction at Cottage City last week. It was an able and practical essay, and well rendered by the Institute.

Charles C. Webster fell in the engine house last Saturday, cutting an ugly gash in his head and breaking three ribs. He was seized with a fainting fit, and falling received the injuries mentioned. Dr. Winsor was called and the patient is doing well.

The "Oldest Inhabitant," who has resided here for a great number of years, says this is the most peculiar summer seen in these parts since the "Concord Fight." It has been dreadful comfortable, but perfectly mortal on some kinds of "sassa" and beach houses. This week it has been cold enough for fires here.

Winchester was represented by several of our most prominent Republicans in the great Blaine and Logan ratification in Tremont Temple last Tuesday night, who got enthusiastic over the immense meeting and Gov. Robinson's loyalty to his old party. That meeting made some of our kickers ache. They begin to wish they hadn't been too previous.

The Republican Town Committee will formally open the political campaign in about a month from now. When the time comes there will be warm work here. The kickers will sing small and take back seats at the when the ball opens, and don't you forget it. There's music in the air. The laboring men of Winchester are for Blaine and Logan every time. They know their friends. Winchester's vote in November will be a surprise to the dudes.

Malicious mischief, in the way of breaking glass in unoccupied houses, is becoming too frequent and is not likely to always remain unpunished.

There was a union picnic of the Belmont Unitarian Society and the Waverly Christian Union, in the grove, belonging to Mr. Otis Simonds, on Thursday last week.

There was an auction of personal property, at the residence of the late Charles Caldwell, Friday afternoon. The different articles sold well.—Mr. Charles B. Caldwell, who occupies the place, being the principal buyer.

Rev. W. J. Batt preached at the church, Sunday morning, on the subject "Home." In the course of his remarks, he said that he knew no reason in the Scripture or in moral or social philosophy for refusing the ballot to women. He was willing to leave it to their judgment rather than man's choice. He wished women to receive equal wages with men for the same work. But he hoped that none of these things would endanger the peace of the home. Woman's influence on the morals of the country will be always beneficial. He concluded by expressing his desire for less luxury, more economy and equality, and also added a plea for politeness at home.

On Monday afternoon of last week, Mr. Henry Nichols, died at his home in Burlington. He was born in this town and has passed the whole of his life in this place. For many years and, at many different times, he has very acceptably filled important town offices. At the time of his death, he was one of the Selectmen and Assessors and was also surveyor of the highways.

Mr. Nichols was a man of the most marked honesty and uprightness. Although enfeebled by ill health, he was active and busy in outer life, and many were saddened by the thought, as his illness grew more severe, that they should see his familiar face no more. Engaged in wood trading, a good old fashioned business, he was particularly noted for his kind treatment of his horses—a virtue too seldom copied.—Mr. Nichols will be widely missed both in this town and in Woburn and Boston, where he had a large circle of business acquaintances. His funeral services were conducted by Rev. Charles Anderson, at his late residence, Thursday afternoon.

The New England Guide.

A good guide-book is an invaluable companion, pointing out to the summer-traveller countless objects of interest, and adding full fall to the pleasure of his journey. It is worth noticing, then, that Osgood's famous New-England Guide-book has just been very thoroughly revised and largely augmented, at a great cost, and is now published in an eighth edition, with 20 maps, and 480 pages of descriptions of the mountains and lakes, islands and coasts, cities and villages of venerable New-England, with their charming legends and traditions and historic events. To these are added all the practical details useful to travellers the best hotels and their rates, distances, time of trains running, fares, etc., etc., so that the book is indispensable to all summer-travellers in this delightful region. The New-England Evening Post says: "Osgood's Handbook to New-England bids fair in New-England, to rival the fame of Murray and Baedeker abroad. It merits the good words as well as the liberal patronage it receives, for it is a faithful, painstaking piece of work, and condenses into brief compass a vast amount of information, which all tourists to the seaside, mountain, and country summer-resorts of New-England will gladly possess." Sent, on receipt of the price, ($1.50), by the publishers, James R. Osgood & Co., Boston.

Railroad Matters.

Last Friday Thomas H. Hill, Esq., received the following response from Supt. Mellen to an inquiry respecting certain matters touching the extension of the Woburn Branch. The letter appears to be a fair business statement, and fails to sustain the conclusions which many of our citizens have reached, namely, that the Company do not intend to build the Branch. It seems to us that it contains ample assurance that it is to be built, "to be commenced," as Mr. Mellen says, "as soon as the ground opens in the spring, and press the work so that the Road may be ready for use the next summer." There is nothing in this going to show that the work has been abandoned by the Corporation; on the contrary, it is an assurance that it is to go on just as soon as all obstructions are removed. But the letter speaks for itself:—

BOSTON & LOWELL RAILROAD.
GEN. SUTTS, OFFICE.
BOSTON, July 11, 1884.

Thomas H. Hill, Esq., Clerk of Board of Selectmen, Woburn.

DEAR SIR:—I am in receipt of your favor of the 10th instant relative to action of the Boston & Lowell R. R. in not pushing the extension of the Woburn Branch. The reasons for the inaction may be briefly stated, as below:—

When the parties first brought this matter to our attention, it was represented that the Town of Woburn would willingly grant us a right of way through the small portion of back land known as the "Library Lot." This representation, I am sorry to say, has not in any sense been fulfilled, nor is it likely to.

Again, it was represented that the owners of the land on the old Mystic Valley R. R. would, for a moderate compensation, and in many cases as a free gift, give to the Boston & Lowell R. R. the right of way to Wilmington. In securing bonds for right of way we have found in many cases the price charged very high, and in very few cases a disposition to encourage the extension by gift.

Mr. Geo. R. Baldwin, through whose land the railroad goes for a long distance, object to the location of the road upon the line of the old Mystic Valley entirely, and desires us to pursue a different route through his land, which will necessitate another survey for quite a long distance. As soon as our Engineers are through with the survey of the Bedford & Billerica extension, they will be put on to see if the route suggested by Mr. Baldwin is practicable.

Again, the necessary formalities relating to securing the location before we commence the work, and securing the right of way from the Selectmen of Woburn and Wilmington, will consume nearly, if not all, of the available time between now and cold weather, so that it would be impracticable for us to complete the extension in season to be of use this year.

Under these circumstances it seems to me desirable that the Road should pursue a course which would enable the extension to be commenced as soon as the ground opens in the spring, and press the work so that the Road may be ready for use the next summer.

I do not know of any action that could have been taken by this Corporation which would have resulted in the completion of this work the present season. We have met with great difficulty in dealing with parties in Woburn Centre, as Mr. Winn and other gentlemen who have been associated with us in this matter can inform you.

Whereas representation was made to us that the right of way could be secured from Main street through to Winn street for $50,000, the Corporation has already paid about $70,000, and there are two lots of land still unsettled for.

Under these circumstances, it seems to me that no just cause of complaint can exist against this Corporation. I understand it is the intention of the Corporation to press this extension through at the earliest practicable moment, and had the people of Woburn been half as desirous to help as the Railroad has been to satisfy those parties who have urged this matter upon us, in my judgment the whole road would have been under contract at the present time.

I regret the delay as much as any citizen of Woburn can, but I cannot see why the blame should not lie rather the doors of some of your citizens than those of the Corporation.

Truly yours,
C. S. Mellen, Gen. Supt.

Whereas representation was made to us that the right of way could be secured from Main street through to Winn street for $50,000, the Corporation has already paid about $70,000, and there are two lots of land still unsettled for.

Under these circumstances, it seems to me that no just cause of complaint can exist against this Corporation. I understand it is the intention of the Corporation to press this extension through at the earliest practicable moment, and had the people of Woburn been half as desirous to help as the Railroad has been to satisfy those parties who have urged this matter upon us, in my judgment the whole road would have been under contract at the present time.

I regret the delay as much as any citizen of Woburn can, but I cannot see why the blame should not lie rather the doors of some of your citizens than those of the Corporation.

Truly yours,

DEAR SIR:—I am in receipt of your favor of the 10th instant relative to action of the Boston & Lowell R. R. in not pushing the extension of the Woburn Branch. The reasons for the inaction may be briefly stated, as below:—

When the parties first brought this matter to our attention, it was represented that the Town of Woburn would willingly grant us a right of way through the small portion of back land known as the "Library Lot." This representation, I am sorry to say, has not in any sense been fulfilled, nor is it likely to.

Again, it was represented that the owners of the land on the old Mystic Valley R. R. would, for a moderate compensation, and in many cases as a free gift, give to the Boston & Lowell R. R. the right of way to Wilmington. In securing bonds for right of way we have found in many cases the price charged very high, and in very few cases a disposition to encourage the extension by gift.

Mr. Geo. R. Baldwin, through whose land the railroad goes for a long distance, object to the location of the road upon the line of the old Mystic Valley entirely, and desires us to pursue a different route through his land, which will necessitate another survey for quite a long distance. As soon as our Engineers are through with the survey of the Bedford & Billerica extension, they will be put on to see if the route suggested by Mr. Baldwin is practicable.

Again, the necessary formalities relating to securing the location before we commence the work, and securing the right of way from the Selectmen of Woburn and Wilmington, will consume nearly, if not all, of the available time between now and cold weather, so that it would be impracticable for us to complete the extension in season to be of use this year.

Under these circumstances it seems to me desirable that the Road should pursue a course which would enable the extension to be commenced as soon as the ground opens in the spring, and press the work so that the Road may be ready for use the next summer.

I do not know of any action that could have been taken by this Corporation which would have resulted in the completion of this work the present season. We have met with great difficulty in dealing with parties in Woburn Centre, as Mr. Winn and other gentlemen who have been associated with us in this matter can inform you.

Whereas representation was made to us that the right of way could be secured from Main street through to Winn street for $50,000, the Corporation has already paid about $70,000, and there are two lots of land still unsettled for.

Under these circumstances, it seems to me that no just cause of complaint can exist against this Corporation. The School Committee.

EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL:

Your attack on some of the members of the School Board of this town in last week's issue of your paper has just been brought to my notice. In justice to the Committee, in justice to the teachers, and in justice to the public, permit me to reply. Last year the Superintendent of Schools was instructed by the Board to investigate the standing of teachers and report to the Committee. Accordingly at a meeting held May 27 the Superintendent reported eight teachers unfavorably. The Committee in alluding to them repeatedly called them doubtful teachers, or teachers who were not doing wholly satisfactory work. Last an injustice should be done to any of them we voted that in addition to the regular committee of one assigned each teacher during the year another member be appointed by the Board to investigate and report. And in order that the fullest justice should prevail I suggested that no member be assigned any teacher who was previously reported unfavorably by him. The Committee were to report at the next regular meeting, which was held on the fourth of July. The majority report was adverse, whilst that of the minority was favorable inasmuch as they expressed the desire that the eight teachers be placed on probation for three months, which was in itself an admission of the weakness of the teachers, otherwise probation would be entirely unnecessary. But in consideration of the fact that these teachers had taught for terms varying from one to nine years; that year after year many of them had been reported unfavorably; that one of them had been dropped for a year and would have failed of a re-appointment last year had it not been for the fact that a faithful friend took advantage of the absence of an opponent and thus secured her election; that the term of service as teachers was in itself a sufficient probation; and finally that in the event of their probation proving unsatisfactory at the expiration of three months their successors and their pupils must inevitably suffer, they failed to be re-elected. The eight vacancies occasioned thereby were filled. I do not know, as I have never inquired into it, the politics of the unsuccessful or the successful candidates, and if any person has done this he has stooped lower than I propose to do. Personally I care but little what the public and especially the readers of the JOURNAL think of my official acts. As the exponent of public opinion let me deal for truth and justice temper your zeal for inflicting wounds with the party lash.

LITERARY NOTICES.

A Boys' Workshop, with plans and designs for Indoor and Outdoor work. By a boy and his friends, with an introduction by Henry Randall Waite. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.00.

If we were looking for a book to put into the hands of a boy, which would be of real and genuine use, and at the same time a source of healthful entertainment this is the one you should choose. Every boy has a natural and inborn desire to make something; a knife, a hammer or a gimlet is to him a source of untold happiness, and one often finds occasion to regret while looking over work accomplished by juvenile fingers, that so many born mechanics should degenerate into dry-goods clerks or second class professional men. Most of these boys exercise their ingenuity without any instruction. Few parents think it worth while to show them how to drive a nail straight, how to construct their toys, or how to make those little repairs which would not only delight them to accomplish but would be a genuine domestic service. The contents of the book include among other things, instructions about furnishing the workshop; how to make various useful and ornamental articles; how to make a wooden tent; how to photograph; how to tie the different knots, in ropes, and much other useful information.

WINCHESTER.

The Congregational church has been repainted and looks very nice.

There was a Town Meeting last Wednesday evening to act on the resignation of the Water Board.

C. C. Webster, who was hurt by a fall in the engine house, will go to the home of his sister in Walpole.

The Star grows more and more pronounced against the Democratic ticket and in favor of Blaine and Logan.

The Star says: "bolters in town 58. Democrats who will vote for Blaine, 69." I am inclined to believe these figures are not far out of the way, except in the number of bolters.

There was another bear-stand at the Town Meeting here on Wednesday evening. It was talk, talk, talk—enough of it to sink a 74-gun ship. Winchester takes the cake for human gas-works. There was no election of a Water Board.

The officers of St. Mary's Church Society are: President, Charles D. Rooney; Vice President, John H. McCarthy; Secretary, Miss Mary Lyons; Treasurer, Miss Julia P. Holland; Manual Director, Miss M. Holland. There are 33 members.

C. W. Dorr of Woburn, D. G. C., installed the following officers of Abington Commandery at their last regular meeting:—N. C. D. W. Dutton; N. V. C. M. L. Dutton; N. K. of R. H. W. Hight; F. K. of R. T. S. B. B. W. T. A. M. Coffin; W. P. J. R. Cobb; W. H. S. S. G. L. G. L. W. I. G. M. A. Ward; W. O. G. S. T. Ward; P. N. C. A. E. Rowe.

Mr. E. A. Wadleigh, a recent convert to modern Democracy, is zealous in his defense of the kickers, feeling, I suppose, that if ever anybody needed defending they do. He evidently feels a little uneasy in his new political quarters and perhaps ashamed of the company he finds himself in, as well as of himself for rushing into it; but Mr. Wadleigh is a good man, a highly respected citizen, and I should not be a mite surprised if he voted for Blaine and Logan when the time comes.

The opposers of Blaine and Logan held a meeting in Livingston Hall last Friday evening and organized for the fight. Mr. Edwin A. Wadleigh was chosen President of the Club; D. W. Guntton Secretary; G. H. Dunham, E. Robinson, E. A. Baldwin, H. F. Johnson, E. H. Eustis, executive committee. Delegates were elected to the convention of independent sons to be held in New York. There were a few less than sixty names appended to the call for the meeting, of which about twenty were Bourdon Democrats; about the same number have acted generally with the Republican party heretofore and the rest are men who have got the erroneous idea that bolting was going to be fashionable here this fall and so put their names down. Two at least of the signers will certainly vote for Blaine and Logan, and probably several more. When the names are closely scanned it is seen that the bolt is anything but a formidable affair, and it is pretty certain that several of the gentlemen whose names appear on the call will get sick of the whole business before the campaign has progressed very far. Mr. Wadleigh and Mr. Conant will get bravely over their disappointment before September and will be found lifting lustily at the wheel for Blaine and Logan.

The Ambrose and Wilson families of Boston have hired the house owned by Mrs. S. Butters for the season.

The Sunday school have decided to have their annual picnic at an early date. A committee of arrangements, consisting of Messrs. T. I. Reed, Arthur W. Wood, Walter Skelton, Frank Marion, and Mrs. M. E. Curtis, were chosen at the last meeting of the school. The place and date of the picnic will probably be announced at the next session of the school. The Methodist Sunday school of Arlington Heights and the Congregational Sunday school of North Woburn have been invited to join with this school for the picnic.

WOBURN, July 21, 1884.

EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL:

In a communication signed "One of the Committee," which appeared in last week's JOURNAL, certain statements were made which were untrue, and certain others which were misleading. I propose to set the readers of the JOURNAL right as to the facts in the case, for notwithstanding the writer of that article says he cares but little what the public and especially the readers of the JOURNAL think of his official acts, yet the public and the readers of the JOURNAL have a right to know after him in his official acts. If the writer of that article had had a little more regard for the wishes of the public who pay for the schools there would have been less cause for complaint.

The first declaration of our friend, who don't care what others think of him, provokes a smile. He says at a certain time the Superintendent reported eight teachers "unfavorably," and then goes on to say the term "unfavorably" is his, the writer's. This reminds us of the story of the man who said to his neighbor, "Jones said you lied, only he didn't say you lied." The truth is the Superintendent did not report unfavorably some teachers, at least, who were dropped. The Superintendent while talking to a gentleman about this article, and within hearing of the writer, said in speaking of one of the dropped teachers, "I never reported her school unfavorably," and of another dropped teacher he said, "She was a good teacher." Of still another one of the dropped teachers he said, "She was as good, and a little better than the average of teachers." No doubt our friend wanted unfavorable reports of some of the teachers because their places were wanted by his friends, but in some cases at least he failed to get them from the Superintendent.

One of the dropped teachers says that no member of the Committee visited her school during the year. That our friend and some of his friends took pains to call some of the teachers whose places were wanted, "doubtful teachers," has nothing to do with the question. Neither has the fact that the minority, caring more what the public thought of their acts than our friend claims to have done, voted for the immediate wholesale discharge of teachers by having some of them placed on probation. Then our friend says, "that one of them had been dropped for a year and would have failed of a reappointment last year had it not been for the fact that a faithful friend took advantage of the absence of an opponent." That is not true. It is true that this gentleman and his friends, three years ago, did all in their power to have a certain teacher, who had never failed to have at least a fairly good record, dropped. Her place was wanted by the gentleman and his friends for a particular reason; but a majority of the Committee, seeing no good reason why she should be dropped, reappointed her. However, they allowed the gentleman and his friends to drop a teacher in place of the old one, and gave the old teacher a new school, which she refused to accept. Not dropped at all you see. It may be a small matter, but our friend should "let a desire for truth temper" his "zeal" etc., as he advises the JOURNAL. This teacher who was not dropped was immediately offered an appointment in another town, but did not accept it. The next year, before the beginning of the schools, she received, notice from a member of the Woburn School Board, that if she made application, she would receive a desirable appointment. She made application, and was appointed to a school of higher grade in the same building where she had previously taught. In other words, she was promoted. Whether the gentleman and his friends had any particular political stripe of their own, or whether they were merely a faction, I do not know, but I suspect he belongs to the same church.

Very respectfully yours,
ANOTHER OF THE COMMITTEE.

Woburn Railway Service.

ARTICLE IX.

THE PROPOSED EXTENSION.

When the writer planned these Railway Articles, an extension of the Woburn Branch was little expected by our citizens. The inadequacy of our Railway facilities was, to the writer, when he first took up his residence in Woburn, the most noticeable need the town lacked. The fact that the town has outgrown the present single track concern, is reason enough for us to accept, and encourage any concession from the Corporation, or from any other source. What are we doing to help ourselves in this matter? We all know how much grumbling has been done for years about our "poor accommodations," and yet when the improvements are at hand, hardly one of our influential citizens extends the hand of welcome to the Corporation whose back bone is nearly broken in the endeavor to promote the public welfare.

Woburn today needs quick transit and from Boston, more than ever before. Every year's delay keeps out Capital and Labor to the amount of thousands of dollars. Lower fares should prevail now. Three principal improvements are necessary to the town's welfare: A Through Line of Railway; Lower Fares; Quick Transit. These Articles were intended to agitate the public till these improvements were obtained. The subjects of Through Line and Lower Fares have been presented in detail; before writing an Article on Quick Transit, the writer would like to present a few remarks on the proposed extension that may be well worth consideration on the part of our citizens. Whatever may have been our past grievances against the Lowell Road, it will be well to call to mind that the present Supt. Mr. Mellen, is doing more for Woburn's Railway Service than anyone ever connected with that Road. If there was any citizen among us who had put the same energy and enthusiasm into this matter as Mr. Mellen has, a Through Line would be an accomplished fact before Winter. The truth is, "the blame does lie nearer the doors of some of your citizens than those of the Corporation." Some of them do not hesitate to ask an exorbitant price for their property; because a Corporation is the purchaser, instead of an individual, is no reason why an excessive amount should be asked, particularly when one's own town is to be benefited to such a great extent. Any one who has read Mr. Mellen's letter recently published in the town papers cannot but feel that in Mr. Mellen we have found a better friend to the town, than we have ever had before in the management of the Lowell Road. Will it pay to treat his overtures with indifference? It is reported that the Board of Directors are not enthusiastically in favor of building this Extension, that about half of the Board are rather opposed to it. This being the case, our citizens who are called upon to part with some of their property, will do well to consider their action in the matter, whether or not, it would pay to sacrifice a little at present in the hopes of finding in the future a profitable investment. One thing is certain: No Road can better accommodate Woburn, if there exists a desire to, than the Boston and Lowell. It is well to consider this fact. We want to be on a Trunk Line. Where is the Road that can connect us so directly with the North and West as the Boston and Lowell? Again: Who of our citizens can expect lower fares, if we do all in our power to make the extension as expensive to the Corporation as possible and then? It is well to remember also that it would be far better for us to materially assist this enterprise, than to continually grumble at our poor accommodations as they exist today. Remember a Through Line can give us the desired facilities at once. A single track won't do it though, and it is to be hoped that a double track is to be constructed, as I have no doubt but that it will be. The case stands about like this at present: It is this proposed Extension or not anything. Which shall it be?

FOR PRESIDENT.

JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

[From James G. Blaine's Letter of Acceptance.]
"The Republic should never accept a lesser duty, it can never assume a nobler one, than the protection of the humblest man who owes it loyalty—protection at home and abroad, into whatever land he may go upon a lawful errand."

MR. WADLEIGH'S LETTER.

We print a letter from Edwin A. Wadleigh, Esq., of Winchester this week in which he explains his political attitude at the present time. He is no doubt perfectly sincere and honest in his statements, for Mr. Wadleigh is a gentleman of integrity and worth. This much everyone concedes. But, politically speaking, his is a severe case of mental strabismus, for we think it would be difficult for any man not troubled with an almost hopeless obliquity of vision to explain to the satisfaction of the average reader how he can be a good, true Republican and at the same time vote the Democratic ticket, as he proposes to do this fall. He may think and call himself a Republican in full fellowship, but he is not and cannot be so regarded while he votes and works against the interests and success of that party. Mr. Wadleigh must see, if his sudden attack of mental obliquity has not advanced to a condition of total blindness, that he cannot vote with one party and at the same time make his claims of belonging to another stand firm. If he should couple with a demand to have his vote allowed in the Senatorial, Representative or Councilor convention, or town caucus, the statement that it is his intention to vote for Cleveland his ballot would not be rejected, and very properly. Indeed, he would not be chosen a delegate to any of these meetings under such circumstances. No, Mr. Wadleigh can't straddle the fence in any such way; he must be one thing or the other; if he votes the Democratic ticket he must not complain if he is set down as a member of that party. Again, we would respectfully enquire of Mr. Wadleigh by what standard he judges of the fitness, or lack of fitness, of Mr. Blaine for the presidency? Is it a personal standard? Trying to square Mr. Blaine's private and public morals with his own does he fail? Has the general tenor of Mr. Blaine's private and public life been so far below his that he cannot vote for him? If so, is it not barely possible that just a little of the spirit of the Pharisee influences Mr. Wadleigh's judgment? Is it not also barely possible that disappointment and prejudice have had a good deal to do in driving our Winchester friend into the Democratic party? There is no proof that Mr. Blaine's public career has not been able, honest and clean, and as to his private life Mr. Wadleigh knows very well that Cleveland's cannot compare with it. What then, we ask again, has driven our neighbor into the enemy's camp, if it be not disappointment, or an ill-conceived and groundless prejudice against Mr. Blaine?

MAYOR FOX A CANDIDATE.

We judge from the tone of the papers of that city and information received from other sources that Mayor James Fox of Cambridge is in the field for the Congressional nomination in this District, and likewise that active operations to secure it have already commenced. His newspaper organs speak in the highest terms of his ability, his loyalty to the Republican party, his achievements as a soldier in the War of the Rebellion, the high esteem in which he is held as a citizen, and his worth as a man. Besides all which they say he is a staunch Blaine supporter, notwithstanding the turbid political atmosphere that encompasses him, and the vagaries, heterodoxies and political poisons of Harvard College, in the shadows of whose venerable walls he lives and moves and has his being. This is all proper enough for the Cambridge people and papers. They no doubt present a man for Morse's place who would be a credit to the District. But there are other good men besides Mayor Fox who the District would delight to honor. In Woburn we have Hon. John Cummings and Edward D. Hayden, Esq., who, if they would accept a nomination, could easily be elected. Either of them would represent the people in Congress handsomely. Then there is Hon. Francis B. Hayes of Lexington who really beat Morse a few years ago, but was counted out by the canvassers. A great many prominent and influential Republicans have applied to him to allow his name to be used this fall, and assured him that he could be nominated and elected. We suspect he will yield to the solicitations of his many political and personal friends and go in. If so, Mayor Fox will stand a slim chance of getting the nomination. But whoever the candidate may be there shall be complete harmony in the Republican party, a disposition to make concessions, a regard for the general ticket above all local issues, a pulling together in brotherly fashion, he will be elected by a majority that will make Mr. Morse sick and tired out.

—Mr. F. B. Dodge and wife will leave on next Monday for Old Orchard. They will stay at the Ocean House, one of the best on the Beach.
—There is no better time to buy in a winter's supply of coal than the present, and there is no better place anywhere to buy it than at Mr. J. B. McDonald's.
—After a fortnight's vacation Mr. Cutter has returned to his post in the Public Library. We do not discover that he lost any flesh during his absence.
—Judge Converse of the Fourth District Court and family will leave to-day for Old Orchard where they propose to remain a few weeks for rest and a good time.
—We have had the privilege of enjoying some more delightfully cool weather again this week—the fore part of it. It is had though for vegetables and beach hotel.
—There was a bird battle at Montvale last Sunday. Stoneham, Montvale, Winchester and Woburn provided the spectators many of whom are said to be known by the police.
—Mr. Charles M. Munroe spent several days of last week at Peak's and other islands in Portland harbor and returned on Saturday. He had a very pleasant trip and agreeable visit.
—There is nothing new in the line of railroad matters to report this week. Things are quite lovely though, and those going to and fro will please look out for the engine while the bell rings.
—Grateful for past favors Munroe & Newton respectfully solicit a continuance of the same from our citizens. They guarantee perfect satisfaction in price, quality and weight of their coal.
—The Smiths, meaning Messrs. Charles A. and C. Willard, and families spend their resting season this year at Marblehead Neck as they have done for several years past with satisfaction.
—Mattresses and Bedding of new clean stock furnished at short notice and samples of Hair and Feathers, with prices sent by mail from Paine's, 48 Canal Street, on receiving postal card to do so.
—Mr. Shute has sold his interest in the Woburn Skating Academy to his partner Mr. Carter. We trust he will conclude to become a permanent citizen of this town instead of going back to Hyde Park.
—It has been announced that a good many of our colored citizens with their wives, babies and sweethearts will go to Nahant today on a picnic excursion. They are to be joined by parties from other towns.
—Mr. Amos Cummings and wife, if their calculations did not fall through, left last Tuesday morning to attend the camp-meeting at Douglas for ten days or two weeks. We trust they will enjoy themselves.
—The Advertiser says it knows all about the leopard changing its spots—if it don't like one spot it can move on to another. We expect the editor of that lively journal will find the right spot before election day.
—The letter of pastor Westall to the Boston Journal which we reproduce in these columns this week has the ring of true metal to it. It is a good letter for some of our superfluous Republicans to read and inwardly digest.
—The store keepers are not satisfied with the manner Main street is watered. The dust blows around at will and when the goods and people's eyes are full of dirt the sprinkler comes along. Water should be put on early in the morning.
—A communication of 10 double pages was received from "One of the Committee" at 8:30 yesterday morning, and we leave it to him to say whether he thinks it could have been printed this week. Of course he will say it was too late.
—About 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon a barn belonging to Mr. McDonald and occupied with the house, by Mr. Riley on Rag Rock Avenue was burned, with its contents. Three large hogs in the sty adjoining the barn were also burned.
—Mr. O. Rich, who spends a large share of his time with his children at Brooklyn, N. Y., came to town last Monday from Waltham, and will remain here and about here for a week or two longer. He is in good health and spirits.
—Dr. W. A. Reynolds will start on next Monday for Montreal and other points in Canada and be gone two weeks. Mrs. Reynolds and son, preferring the quiet of home to travelling in hot weather, will keep house during the Doctor's absence.
—A gentleman who knows all about it said in this sanctum the other day that there are fewer kickers in Woburn than any other town in Middlesex county, which is tantamount to saying that the Republicans of Woburn have more sense than those of other places, and likewise that the influence of the JOURNAL is potent and beneficial.

—The family of Mr. G. W. Nichols expect to visit Deer Isle on the coast of Maine next week, where they will enjoy their vacation. The brother of Mr. Nichols and family of Stoneham will probably go to the same place at the same time.
—The Woburn trades-people will go on their annual picnic excursion on August 20, wind and tide being favorable. These annual excursions of our merchants are prominent mile-stones on Time's highway. There will be a crowd out this year probably.
—We are indebted to Mr. J. W. Hobart, General Passenger Agent for the Boston & Hingham Steamboat Co., for a neatly printed and handsomely illustrated copy of a guide to Nantasket and other popular resorts down the Bay, for which we return thanks.
—The Woburn Library building and adjoining grounds are, for their elegance, well worth going to see.—Arlington Advocate. That is a fact and many people come here to study the elegant architecture of the splendid building. But why don't you come over oftener, friend Parker?
—The following are the officers of Division 18, A. O. H. for the present term:—President, James Cogan; Vice President, Patrick McGoldrick; Recording Secretary, James Scanlan; Financial Secretary, Owen Kerrigan; Treasurer, Michael Caulfield.
—Woburn is contributing her quota to the Skating Rink business. Besides those in business here we have the Messrs. Pollard at Nashua, N. H., Trask & Maxwell at Quincy, Mass., Richardson Bros. Pawtucket, R. I., Ronco at Stoneham, Pickering at Waltham, with back counties to hear from.
—It is reported that a meeting of the Board of Selectmen is to be held this evening for the purpose of annulling the vote of last spring prohibiting members of the Board from becoming bondsmen for town officers so that Mr. Salmon can go on Mr. Edward Simonds's bond. That is a curious idea to say the least, and we should wonder if there were quite a fight over it.
—We received a pleasant call from Mr. Linn Porter of the Cambridge Chronicle, and Mr. Osborn, last Monday. Both spoke encouragingly of the political outlook in Cambridge and had no doubt that Blaine would sweep the board, President Elliot, Col. Higginson and the other kickers to the contrary notwithstanding. When these gentlemen had finished talking we felt that possibly everything in Nazareth is not bad.
—The McGonagals, who used to run a tailor shop on Main street, come to grief at Lowell, where they are in the same business, the other day. Officers of the law visited their place on suspicion that things were going wrong, or being prepared for it, when they were attacked by the McGonagals and pitched out doors. For this they were heavily fined, and are now striving hard to get their stock reinsured. So say the papers.
—For some four or five years past Mr. Alvah Buckman and wife have spent their summer vacation at Rye Beach, one of the finest and most popular seaside resorts on the coast, and last Thursday morning they left again for a three or four weeks visit at the same place. They will probably attend the grand reception to be given to Lieut. Greeley and his rescued companions in the Arctic expedition at Portsmouth next week.
—The Woburn Brass Band gave the adjourned open-air concert on Friday evening on the Common to an immense audience. It was their first concert and a grand good one. There were visitors from all the neighboring towns. On Wednesday evening the National Band gave their first outdoor concert. They were greeted by an audience equal in size to the other. It was a fine musical treat, and highly enjoyed by all present.
—Miss Fairbanks has completed and placed on exhibition at her studio at the Mrs. Stearns residence on Pleasant street a colored picture of the Public Library and grounds which attracts much attention. There are some minor points in it that might be improved by a judicious retouching, and the foliage of vines that cover the lower part of the superb building we think a little dense and not quite perfect from an artist's standpoint, but the painting on the whole is a good. The coloring of the stone is well preserved in the work.
—Last Friday evening the following officers were installed of Woburn Camermandry, No 68, U. O. G. C. by Grand Commander W. H. Solomon:—N. C., John J. Dixon; N. V. C., George W. Fish; N. K. R., Mrs. Octavia E. Dorr; F. K. R., Chas. E. Chase; W. T., Hiram Whitford; Chaplain, N. B. Barnum; W. H., Q. R. Ward; I. G., D. Barnum; O. G., E. H. Hadley; P. N. C., Charles W. Dorr. After the installation a collation was served and a pleasant time was enjoyed by members and invited guests.
—So far this season summer seaside resorts on the New England coast have been poorly patronized. Only partially filled houses is the word all along the line, and the best part of the season has gone by. It has been a cold, stormy, cheerless summer, and people have had all they could do to keep comfortable at home, let alone going to the beaches. And the mountains and the rural districts that take in and do summer boarders have been left to themselves as well as the seashores. Comparatively speaking but few Woburn people have sought pleasure at any of the resorts this season so far.

—The Woburn Brass Band will give its second open air concert on the common next Wednesday evening with the following —Some of the frightened Democrats of this town are trying to make the Irish voters believe that James G. Blaine was a leading Know Nothing away back in 1856, but they don't find many to take the bait. These men are telling what is not true. Mr. Blaine was never a Know Nothing and had nothing whatever to do with the organization. He is not that kind of a man. All nationalities are alike to him, and only the person's individual character is taken into his account. The writer of this item ought to know something about where men in Maine stood politically in the Know Nothing year there. He was a candidate for office and because he would not join the order he was beaten by the Know Nothings so badly that he hardly knew the next morning whether he had been a candidate or not. Blaine had just settled in the State then, and had no part or lot with the organization.

—A few days since, a German unable to speak a word of English, landed in town at the Walnut Hill Station. He had been living in the town of Webster for the few weeks he had been in the country and was sent from there to Walnut Hill to work in a woolen mill. Reaching Boston he showed his card which said in English "This man wants to go to Walnut Hill", and he was directed to the Lowell depot where he was furnished a ticket to the place designated. He was shown where to get off and did so. Unable to make his wants known he wandered around the outskirts of the town all day, going to North Woburn and the Chemical Works, and finally reaching Central Square he sat down completely worn out. He carried with him a heavy bundle of clothes. He was discovered by some parties who took him to the Police Station where Deputy Chief Welch took charge of him and procured an interpreter, by whom the above facts were brought out. He was given lodgings in the cave on Common street for the night, which must have given the poor fellow an exalted idea of free institutions. In the morning he was not turned adrift as is the custom, but was taken to Boston by an officer who knew it would be impossible for him to find his way to the place he was destined for, Walnut Hill on the Providence R. R. at Dedham. Finally reaching the Providence depot a countryman of his was found who lived at Walnut Hill and who landed the young man at his destination.

—On the 21st ult., Mr. Joseph R. Green resigned the office of cashier of the Woburn First National Bank, and on the 28th Mr. George A. Day was elected to fill the vacancy, and Mr. E. F. Bryant was at the same time made Assistant Cashier by the corporation. The reason of Mr. Green's resignation will be ill health. He has not been rugged for two years or more and last winter travelled several months in the West and South for the purpose of recruiting. The rest was beneficial but did not restore him to complete health, and in justice to himself he felt compelled to retire from his position in the bank and take a prolonged vacation. He will travel during the next year or two, in the meantime going to Europe probably, and devoting his time to rest and recuperation. Mr. Green has been with the bank 17 years, 13 of which he has been Cashier, in which responsible office he has served the institution faithfully and well. We hope his efforts to regain his health will be speedily successful. Mr. Day has been the trusted Assistant Cashier of the bank 13 years and thoroughly understands the business. We congratulate him on his well-deserved promotion, and the bank in the judicious choice it has made. He has the ability and fidelity to fill the position completely, and if Mr. Green must go it is gratifying to know that Mr. Day is to remain. Mr. Bryant will make a good assistant Cashier. He is industrious, level-headed, and careful, and for ourselves we are glad to see him stepping up in the world.

—"Poetic justice" was meted out in full measure on Pleasant, at the foot of Court street last Tuesday. After the driver had shovelled the load of coal into the cellar on the brow of the latter thoroughfare he stepped around to the other side of the house, possibly to chat with the maid for a moment, as every well regulated driver of coal wagons was wont to do, and in his absence the horse, tired of waiting, left his standing place and proceeded leisurely down the hill towards the coal yards for another jag. His absence was directly discovered by the driver who lit out at a high rate of speed to overtake the animal. This was accomplished just as he struck Pleasant street and was immediately followed by a terrific display of bad temper on the part of the man. After he had thrashed around and nearly jerked the poor horse's head off and rattled the tackling until it seemed as though every buckle was ready to drop off and in other ways giving vent to his foolish anger, he hid the horse to "whoa" until he had planted himself safely in the cart. "But the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglay," and so our driver found out to his great discomfort, for when his brogans struck the tail of the wagon the horse gave a tremendous leap and a good deal quicker than it takes to tell our teamster lay flat on his back in several inches of soft mud, with both feet pointed skyward, his hat in the gutter, his hands wildly beating the air, and in an angry voice yelling "whoa" at the top of his bent. From all the windows in the neighborhood female heads protruded, and there was great excitement all over the lot. The driver gathered himself together, again lit out with marvelous speed, overtook the outfit near the Library grounds, disappeared around the corner and was quickly lost to sight though still to memory dear.

—Last Saturday Judge Converse in the Fourth District Court revoked the license of Michael Shandley on petition of the M. E. Church, and also that of Joseph Sykes on the petition of W. R. P. N. There was no decision on the petition of the First Congregational Church, one being unnecessary. The following is the record of the court: Commonwealth of Massachusetts Middlesex ss. At the Fourth District Court of Eastern Middlesex holden at Woburn, within and for said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-sixth day of July, A. D. 1884. In the matter of the petition of the Methodist Episcopal Church, a corporation, vs. Michael Shandley, respondent. On the above named petition, after due hearing, it appearing to said Court that the license therein described was granted by the Licensing Board, without a compliance with an act contrary to the requirements of Section Seven of Chapter One Hundred of the Public Statutes, said license is hereby revoked. And it is ordered, in conformity with the provisions of said section of the Public Statutes, that notice of such revocation be sent to said Shandley, respondent. It is further ordered that the form of said notice be by copy of said petition and this order duly attested. By the Court, EDWARD F. JOHNSON, Clerk.

A like order was made in the case of Sykes. The Board of Selectmen were duly notified on Saturday and on Monday counsel for Sykes claimed an appeal which was not allowed by the Court. In Shandley's case no motion for an appeal was made. The defence set up in the Shandley case was that the M. E. Church were not abutters of land on which the licensed premises stood. To prove this they introduced a deed from Whitchee, the owner of the building, to one Marston by which he conveyed to her a strip one foot wide off the southerly end of the lot. Subsequently, fearing that this pretended sale would not hold water, the same Marston conveyed to the same Marston another strip thirty feet wide, the south line of which was the north line of the one-foot strip previously conveyed. The first sale of course merged in the last, and Marston became owner of thirty-one feet of the southerly part of the Whitchee block, the M. E. Society property being its southern boundary. Thus the M. E. Society became abutter to Marston. And now comes the nub of the joke. Whitchee and Shandley (Merriam) had a trap and themselves fell into it. Measuring off the thirty feet conveyed by the last deed the northerly line fell on the northerly line of the stairs leading from the sidewalk to the upper stories of the block, and included that entrance. Now the proof showed that Shandley's saloon extended to the south side of said stairs, and therefore a strip of it just as wide as the stairs was conveyed to Marston by Whitchee. The case then stood: the M. E. Society are abutters on Marston's purchase of 31 feet from Whitchee; that purchase included several feet of Shandley's saloon; a part of the saloon was on the Marston property; therefore the M. E. Society were abutters of real estate on which a saloon was kept, and had their remedy in law. A curious feature of the trial was that the attorney for the petitioner labored hard to make out that the conveyances from Whitchee to Marston were shams, whereas it was for the interest of his clients that the Court should sustain them; and the counsel for the respondent as stoutly maintained that they were honest and square, when if the Court so ruled his client must certainly be beaten, for the sales made Marston an owner of part of Merriam's saloon and the M. E. Society abutters on Marston. The Court discovered the point; by implication sustained the Thompson's Liniment.

Woburn, July 10, 1884.
This is to certify, that on the 17th June my arm was badly hurt by a fall. I bathed it with wormwood and witch-hazel, but it continued to grow worse, to pain me and to swell badly. After suffering two days and one night I was advised to try Thompson's Liniment. I did so and was relieved at the first application. I can truly say I have had no pain in my arm since, unless I hurt it in some way. I have used almost two bottles and my arm is nearly as well as ever. I would further say that I have been a great sufferer with asthma for the past 20 years, but by the use of this liniment have been relieved from all symptoms of the disease. I shall always keep it in my family. Don't be afraid to give it a trial.

This stove is used and recommended by Mrs. Lincoln at the Boston Cooking School. It is a truly new and perfect stove, superior to any ever used by Oil Stoves, and used only in the Garland. It does away with the radiator wheels for moving the sticks, which have been such a nuisance in all Oil Stoves, and stands as even, steady flame. The reservoir has been enlarged and the stove otherwise improved and fully renovated. It is furnished with two or four hole boiler tops, baking, boiling and frying can be carried on at the same time. The Garland with its 15 inch wheels and extra large grate is by all odds the most attractive, convenient and powerful Oil Stove in the market. The best is cheap.

SUNRISE AMONG THE HILLS.

BY DINAH MULLICK CHASE.

"His mercies are new every morning and His compassion full of grace."
His mercies are new every morning,
Heavy and long is the night,
The sea moans in darkness of darkness—
There may be a wreck on the light.
Let's submit—a gleam on the mountains—
The shadows are fleeing away;
God touches the clouds with sun-fingers
And opens the gates of the day.

His mercies are new every morning,
And oh, His compassion's never fail,
To the timid sheep crooping the herbage,
The madder braying the gale;
The child born to love and to laughter,
The sinner whose tears cannot shrieve,
The sick man who wakes up alive!

"His mercies are new every morning!"
In the joy of our youth-time we sang;
"His mercies are new every morning!"
We sang yet with faltering tongue,
And we'll sing it still hence the grass music
That all earth's faint anthems still,
And we the Day-star arising,

An Indian Delicacy.

The Indians scattered along the foothills of the Sierra are a quiet, inoffensive people. They do not appear to be governed by any tribal law, yet adhere to many of their old traditions. The tide of industry and civilization sweeping over and around has left them greatly modified by the contact, and although they retain the original characteristics of the race, in some respects they are much improved. One or two men of superior ability and industry form a nucleus around which others less ambitious gather. Here they fence with brush and logs a tract sufficient for their requirements of hay-making, pasturage, etc. They invariably build their cabins upon the most slightly point, even when the spring that furnishes their water is half-way down the hill. This habit has no doubt descended from a warlike ancestry, and is no evidence of an aesthetic delight in hazy valleys and misty mountain tops. Their gardens are not an assured success when water is plentiful and the weather propitious. They cannot always wait for their maturity. Many of them are industrious and find remunerative work at wood-chopping, sheep-shearing, etc.

Although they often indulge in the food of civilized nations, the acorn is still a favorite article of diet in every well-regulated wigwam. The process of converting this bitter nut into anything like palatable bread is curious. Under the branches of a grand old pine I found them at work. They had shucked and ground in the usual manner a large mass of the acorn meats; a number of circular vats had been hollowed out of the black soil, much the shape of a punch-bowl. Into these was put the acorn pulp. At hand stood several large clothes-baskets filled with water, and into these they dropped hot stones, thus heating the water to the required temperature. Upon the mass of crushed bitterness they carefully filled the hot water, making it about the color and consistency of thin cream. Not a speck appeared to mix. A buxom mahala stood by each vat and with a small fir bough stirred the mass, skillfully removing any speck that floated upon the surface. The soil gradually absorbed the bitter waters, leaving a firm, white substance, of which they make bread.

I asked to taste of it, at which they said something in their language and all laughed. I asked again, and after more laughter I was handed a small particle upon a fig-leaf, and found it sweet and palatable. They began at once to remove it, and so adroitly was this done that but a small portion adhered to the soil. They spread it upon the rocks, and in a short time it was fit for use. This, I am told, they mix with water, pat into thin cakes and bake before the fire.—(Nevada Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.)

Restored Her Composure.

Mrs. Daintylwell, one of the neatest and most "particular" of women, would always say to her husband when he was objecting to the clean shirt which she insisted upon laying out, for him every morning: "Just reflect, Tom! What if you should meet with an accident, be run over by a stage on Broadway, or something of that kind, and people should find you had on a shirt you had worn for a week? I should die of mortification." One day Mr. Daintylwell really met with the predicted accident, and was brought home on a convenient stretcher. His wife rushed to the door when she saw him coming, her face so pale that her husband, who was fully conscious, feared that she was going to faint. "Cheer up, my dear," he cried, "I stepped into an unsuspected hatchway, and had quite a fall; but don't worry—I had on a clean shirt!" It is needless to say that this quiet restored her composure.—Chicago Tribune.

A Boon Companion.

Mr. John Rolfe, Champion Bicycleist of Australia and England, writes to the Argus, Melbourne, Australia, that in the six days contest for the championship, after riding 8 consecutive hours each day, his limbs became stiff and sore, and he was positive he would never win the great race, and was enabled to ride another 100 miles against time immediately afterward, from the wonderful effects produced by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, in training and racing. He calls it his boon companion, and recommends it to all athletes.

A well-known, reliable and active Democratic worker of Springfield says: "Col. Plympton told me Tuesday that he should resign his position on the Democratic State Central Committee. He said further that in his opinion Blaine will carry Massachusetts by 30,000 majority."

Burns.

A very common but reprehensible practice is that of holding a burn as close to the grate as possible, "to draw the fire out"—not out of the fire-place, but from the injured part. It is quite feasible to conceive that such a proceeding may give ease by deadening sensation in some instances; but it by no means follows that it does good or expedites recovery; indeed, we shall see in this case the loss of sensation really proves further damage to the tissues. Burns have been divided by surgeons into six classes: (1) Simple scorching, sufficient only to redden the surface. (2) Blistering; the cuticle raised and forming little bladders of water. (3) The skin denuded of its cuticle. This is the most painful stage of all, as it leaves the nerve ends exposed. (4) Destruction of the entire thickness of the skin painless, or nearly so, because the sensitive nerve bulbs are destroyed. (5) Destruction of all the soft parts; and (6) charring of the bone—two conditions very difficult to imagine as co-existent with any remnant of life. It can be truly understood how a burn of the third order of magnitude can be converted by additional heat into the fourth, and temporary relief from pain purchased by transforming a trifling injury into a serious one, liable to be followed by severe illness and permanent deformity. A most mysterious cause of death after burns is the ulceration and bursting of a blood-vessel in the stomach. The connection between the two has never been discovered. People talk about this or that being good for a scald, or vice versa; but practically no distinction is to be drawn between the two, further than that, as we know the highest temperature of water, we know the utmost limit of injury in a scald, whereas there is no limit to the possibilities of a burn. To keep the air from both, is the main object in treatment. Cook, who generally appears on the scene of the disaster with her flour dredge, is a very efficient surgeon for burns and scalds of the first degree—this little scientific technicality will comfort the sufferer marvellously; but where the skin is raised or broken, something of an oily nature should be substituted. Cover it up with lots of cotton-wool, as though you wished to keep it as warm as possible, and, mind, no soap and sugar on any account!—Harper's Bazar.

Woman's Sixth Sense.

Here is a singular instance, says the Boston Courier, of the working of that subtle, fine, sixth sense which is apt to affect women more than men, and which is so mysterious in character that we often incline to deny its existence at all. A lady sat sewing quietly in her sitting-room, and in an inner chamber the nurse had just put the baby to sleep and laid her in her bassinets. As the nurse came out of the chamber she said to her mistress:

"The little thing is asleep for three hours, ma'am, I'll warrant."
"The nurse went down-stairs, and for about a minute the mother sewed on. Suddenly a desire seized her to go and take the sleeping child from its crib."

"What nonsense!" she said to herself. "Baby is sound asleep. Nurse just put her down; I shall not go."

Instantly, however, some powers stronger even than the last urged the mother to go to her baby; and, after a moment, she rose, half vexed with herself, and went to her chamber. The baby was asleep in her little bed, tucked in with soft white and pink blankets. One small hand was thrown above the little brown head. It was half open, the exquisite fingers slightly curved, and the palm as rosy as the depths of a lovely shell.

"My baby!" whispered the mother, adoring the little sleeper as mothers will. "My own little baby!"
She bent over suddenly, a third time impelled by that mysterious force which was controlling her, and for no apparent reason took the sleeping baby in her arms and went swiftly into the other room. She had scarcely crossed the threshold when a startling sound caused her to look back. Through a stifling cloud of thick gray dust she saw that the ceiling above the baby's cradle had fallen, burying the heaps of rosy blankets and lying heaviest of all upon that spot where, but for her mystic warning, her little child would have been lying.

The following testimonial from the Hon. E. D. Bassett, formerly United States Minister to Hayti, at present Consul General of the Haytian Government, with Headquarters at New York:

HAYTIEN CONSULATE,
NEW YORK CITY, August 31, 1882.

MESSES LEWIS & CO., NEW HAVEN CONN.: Gentlemen—In acknowledging your favor of day before yesterday's date, I take pleasure in stating to you that while I have all my life regarded what are called patent medicines with so decided a disfavor that I have never before written or spoken a word in commendation of any of them, a member of my family afflicted with malaria has recently used your "Red Jacket Bitters" and has been decidedly relieved and improved by them, to this extent I am pleased with them, and even commend them to the favorable consideration of those who may be suffering from that malady.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
E. D. BASSETT,
Haytian Consul.

Mr. Schurz, as the Secretary of the Interior President Hayes, must take pleasure in voting for the ticket of the party whose convention declared that those engaged in the Hayes regime consigned themselves to everlasting infamy.

The Humorist's Steed.

The animal oftenest ridden by humorists is the mule, a useful domestic beast of great self-will and very sure step. They ride him on paper only, many of them never having studied his character outside of the comic journals, where he has been outrageously maligned.

The fun-makers have invariably represented him with continuously recalcitrant hoof. This is a mistake, and one that militates against the mule rising in the world.

In point of fact the mule never kicks. I have interviewed men who have been the close companions of mules of high and low degree, and not one have I found who, looking me straight in the eye, dared affirm that a mule ever laid his heels—except in kindness—upon any human being. Not one; no, not one.

In the mountains of North Carolina and Georgia I was intimately associated with mules, and I never saw the hind-leg of one lifted for other than rational and reasonable purposes. The mule's temper has been sadly misrepresented. I don't say it is always as equable as the poise of a statue or as sweet as the scent of a wild honeysuckle; but he has it under perfect control. I have seen the mule when he was imposed upon worse than the serfs of Russia, when he had been neglected, starved, beaten and otherwise discourteously treated; when he ought to have kicked the big dipper out of the sky and loosened the belt of Saturn, but he didn't, so much as shake the dust from his hoofs.

The humorist points the finger of scorn at the mule, saddles him with his deformed jokes, derides his intellect, impeaches the record of his ancestry and otherwise goads and wounds his proud spirit. All this might be well enough in its way if the mule were less delicate, but his emotional nature can't stand the strain forever.

The mule has its feelings as well as the paragraphs and poets. He may not have the facility of expression that his enemies are endowed with, except in his heels; but he has a deep sound mind, nevertheless. He is far more given to meditation than gossip or frivolity, and he never invades the newspapers or thrusts his opinion on the public as his foes are in the habit of doing. He has great reserve strength and he makes no mistakes. If his defamers slipped no oftener than he there would be no bank defaulters nor scandalous elopements.

We know what the humorist thinks of the mule; but what the mule thinks of the humorist would be a more interesting contribution to contemporaneous literature. It may be that in the progressive future we shall hear something on that subject. It is not unlikely that the mule's long abstinence from heel exercise will be broken on the eventful day that he knows himself to be within destructive range of a full-grown funny man. EMERSON OLIVER.

Augusta, Me., July 11.

Forrest and O'Connor.

"The true story" of how the late Charles O'Connor came to act as counsel in the Forrest divorce case is told by the Syracuse Herald. Mrs. Forrest's friend at first tried to engage him, but he refused positively to have anything to do with the case. But they had spread abroad reports of their intention to engage him, hoping thus to frighten Mr. Forrest, and Forrest heard and believed them. A few hours after his final refusal to be Mrs. Forrest's counsel, Mr. O'Connor took his seat in a horse-car to go home. A moment later Forrest entered. His eye fell on O'Connor and flashed fire. Believing the lawyer to be his wife's counsel, he strode up to him, and in the presence of the assembled passengers he deliberately trod on his toes. Mr. O'Connor rose, quitted the car, and returned to his office. There he wrote a brief note to Mrs. Forrest, accepting her case without a retainer; and a more remorseless warfare was never waged by counsel upon an adversary's client than that which Mr. O'Connor opened against the great actor the next day.

Is It Safe

To neglect yourself if troubled with any disease of the kidneys? No, if you are so afflicted, attend to yourself now. Do not wait, but use Sulphur Bitters at once. They cured me when I was given up to die by several physicians.

What has become of the Revenue Reform Club which endorsed the Morrill Tariff bill? The general public has not heard of it since it read in the papers that the proceedings of the Independent meeting in this city which were sent to New York were written on the official paper of the free trade club. What has become of it?

Reward to Enterprise.

Five years ago, James Pyle of New York first introduced his celebrated Pearlina to the public, and now the name of Pearlina is everywhere a household word, and millions upon millions of packages are annually consumed by our intelligent housekeepers.

It was in a street car. A couple of comely German girls were standing, when a sudden jolt threw one of them into the lap of a young man. He expected she would start up blushing and apologize; instead, she calmly turned round, faced him, and said: "If you don't mind, sir, I'll stop here." Gretchen kept her seat, and the poor gallant tried to look as unconcerned as possible out of the car window.

LITERARY NOTICES.

COTTAGE HEARTH for August is a very handsome and readable number, being profusely illustrated by noted artists and filled with rich literary matter from able pens. It contains a sketch and portrait of the eminent American novelist, Mrs. Whitney, and a fac simile letter from her to the publishers of Cottage Hearth, to which magazine she has been a contributor. The number contains excellent poetry, sketches and stories of interest, and a great deal about flowers which will please the ladies. It is published by Cottage Hearth Co., Boston.

As is the yearly custom of WIDE AWAKE, the August issue furnishes some very choice vacation reading for its young patrons, illustrated with novel and artistic engravings. This year the vacation number is beautiful with charming midsummer fancies. Lungen has seldom drawn so beautiful a picture as Little Pixy People, which forms the frontispiece and almost as fanciful are Brennan's three drawings for The Meadow Princess. Barnes's six full-page drawings for The Shepherd Boy and The Wolf are also very attractive. The opening story is for girls, entitled A Modern Kate Barless. The boys have an amusing hunting story called Oso; and Miss Sparhawk furnishes a funny tale for the smaller children in the history of Polly's Mortification. Our Royal Neighbors at Sandringham, is quite as interesting reading as any story, giving many sunny glimpses of the Prince of Wales and his family. It is illustrated from photographs of the young Princesses of Wales. Old School Days is delightful reading. Edward Everett Hale talks about the preliminaries of Presidential Elections. Miss Phelps concludes A Brave Girl. Mr. Talbot prepares for some fun in Masks Off, and Mr. Brooks takes Ruthie further on into the mysteries of No-Man's Land. The Chautauque Department is rich and full in all its series. The Little Biography is of Dr. Wm. T. G. Morton, the discoverer of ether. Only $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

St. Nicholas for August is a profusely illustrated and seasonable midsummer number. It opens with a charmingly written and illustrated article on Old Sheep and the Central Park Sheep, in which Franklin H. North tells about New-York's city sheep farm, and for which Jos. A. Monks and W. Taber have drawn some beautiful pictures. The frontispiece, by Monks, is also illustrative of this paper. Blanche Willis Howard, writes Frieda's Doves. The two illustrations are of scenes closely identified with the author's own life in Germany. Celia Thaxter appears in a new role,—as the illustrator of The Curious House,—and shows the same delicate grace with the pencil as with the pen. An interesting and instructive paper is that entitled Paper and History illustrated from drawings made at the mills where the paper is manufactured on which St. Nicholas is printed. Louisa M. Alcott contributes The Little House in the Garden, the Historic Boys story is about Baldwin of Jerusalem; the Boy Crusader; while Maurice Thompson takes Marvin and his Boy Hunters through a quail-hunting trip and a bear adventure. Susan Hartley Swift, Rev. Charles R. Talbot, William H. Hayne, and Eva Lovett Carson are among the poetical, and Helen Campbell and C. F. Holder among the prose contributors.

As usual with the midsummer Holiday Number, the August CENTURY is uncommonly attractive in pictures, fiction, and anecdotal papers. An out-door picture, appropriate to the season, is noticeable in A Glance at British Wild Flowers, illustrated in a lively decorative style. Of midsummer character, A Summer Holiday and American at Play. Of the anecdotal papers, Chinese Gordon has the flavor of personal acquaintance set forth with interesting and graphic characterization. Miss Helen Zimmers gives an intimate biographical sketch of the Queen of Roumania, accompanied by a full-page portrait in Roumanian costume. An authentic paper on General Sam Houston is full of anecdotes of that remarkable backwoodsman and pioneer statesman. Other illustrated papers are Recent Architecture in America, On the Track of Ulysses. In the matter of stories, the reader will find A New England Winter, A Problematic Character, Remarkable Wreck of the Thomas Hyde, An Effect in Yellow, by Ivory Black, and a continuation of Dr. Sevier. The serious side of this number includes Work for a Constitutional Convention and Three Dangers to Society, meaning Intemperance, Divorce, and Business Gambling. The latter subject is also discussed in Topics of the Time along with Republican Institutions and the Spoils System, some harmful Legacies of the War, and American Monumental Art. Among the contributions to Open Letters are a review by Mr. Howells of Two Notable Novels and a reply to General Stone's recent strictures in The Century on the English Bombardment of Alexandria. The papers, including some clever verse in Brics-Brac, is contributed by Maurice Thompson, Thomas W. Parsons, George Parsons Lathrop, Miss Elaine Goodale, Samuel McIntire Peck, Miss Mary E. Wilkins, and others.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cleanse the scalp, and the first and best restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitations, but none have so truly and so successfully reproduced the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every corner of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfillment of its promise.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never been offered for its introduction.

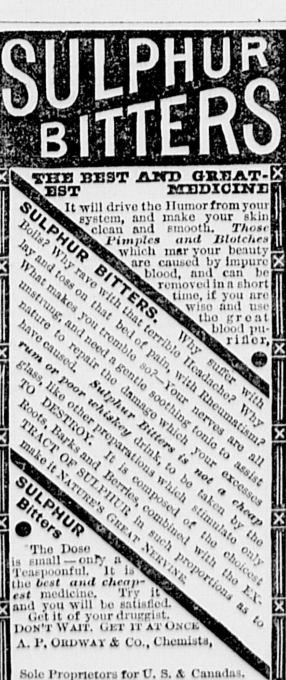

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER would wonderfully improve the personal appearance. It cures itching scalp, removes all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dizziness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and encourages them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE
FOR THE WHISKERS

SINGING ON THE WAY. A Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Sunday Schools, Social Worship and Congregations. By Mrs. Belle M. Jewett, assisted by Dr. J. P. Holbrook. Price 35 cents. Published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

By common consent there is a demand for an advance in Sunday School Music, showing that the people who have been enticed to sing by the jingle of the rather milk-and-water productions of a decade or two ago, have put away childish things, and now relish what is really music and poetry. Singing on the Way contains 175 Songs or Tunes. About 75 of these would be perfectly in place on the pages of a high class choir book, and perhaps 60 have the measure of "Gospel Songs." The young children who are the only ones who like "children's songs," are well remembered in 25 pieces, and thus the various wants of all ages are fully met. As a practical thing, it is not very convenient to have a Sunday School Book and also a Vestry, or Social Meeting singing book lying about the same settees. Singing on the Way answers all purposes, and thus one book may take the place of two.

A Smart Colored Boy.

"Dat boy," said a colored gentleman, referring to his son, "w'y, he's de smartest child in de land." Dat boy, w'y, he is got or high education."

"How far advanced is he?" some one asked.

"Who, dat chile? W'y, he's mighty nigh got all de way, dat's how fur 'vanced he is."

"Well, but what can he do?"
"Who, dat boy? What is it he kain' do? He ken read dese heah sign' what de white folks points on de fences, an' it takes er mighty sharp chile ter do dat, lemme tell yer. But dat ain't de climax of what he kin do. He kin read dese leather-kivered books. Mos' any boy ken read one o' dese heah paper-back books, an' any ordinary pussen ken han'le de newspapers an' funtels, but when he takes down one o' dese heah leather-kivered books an' reads off de talk, w'y he's gwine ter be a lawyer, shoos yer ben." Doan talk ter me 'bout dat chile, 'cause I knows him. I see him bu'lin' fingers wid bo' han's." —Archie's Traveler.

It Beats Anything I have Ever Seen.
"Mr. Butler, that Pearl's White Glycerine you brought home beats anything I have ever seen for chapped, rough or chafed skin."

Mr. Butler.

A farmer once said to Rev. Dr. Miner, once a clergyman in Springfield, Ill.: "Do you know why it is that I, who have been a Democrat all my life, am going to vote for Mr. Lincoln? I will tell you. I once got into a difficulty with a neighbor about the line between our farms. I went to Mr. Lincoln to secure him. Lincoln said: 'Now, if you go on with this it will cost both of you your farms, and will entail an enmity that will last for generations, and perhaps lead to murder. The other man has just been here to engage me. Now, I want you two to sit down in my office while I am gone to dinner, and talk it over and try to settle it. And to secure you from interruption I will lock the door.' He did so, and he did not return all the afternoon. We two men, finding ourselves shut up together, began to laugh. This put us in good humor, and by the time Mr. Lincoln returned the matter was settled."

"I have had a troublesome cough for more than five years and have had the advice of three of the most skilled physicians; but I found nothing to relieve and cure me till I used Ayer's Botanic Cough Balm. MRS. GEORGE A. ROBINSON, Riverdale, Me."

A Reformed Thief's Idea.

But I do know, that when a rich lady is caught a-pilfering, they say: "Poor soul! She a kyeptomaniac!" while if a poor devil of a pickpocket is caught working the shop-lifter's racket, they say: "Look him up the thief!" Now if anybody ever had the kyeptomaniac it surely was me, for I don't remember when I didn't steal, or didn't want to."

The curative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures are today living in every city and hamlet of the land. Write for names if you want some evidence.

Collector Robertson of New York tells a story of a man who went to buy a spur, as illustrating the attitude taken by the Independent Republicans in endorsing Cleveland and not Hendricks. "You want two spurs, of course?" said the shop-keeper. "Not at all," said the man; "If one side of the horse goes so will the other side."

A North Attleboro' correspondent writes: "I am reliably informed by men who are familiar with the political situation in this town that of the 705 men who voted for General Butler last fall not over 300 can be relied on for Cleveland. Scores of voters will not vote for President if General Butler is not a candidate."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so tried with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has been proven its efficacy in forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up, and I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL has saved me."
—HARVEY FAIRBROTHER, Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and our delight in the result was beyond measure. The little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said he had never seen such a cure. It saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, —MRS. E. M. GIDNEY, 150 West 42nd St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effective remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."
—J. E. CRANE, 100 West 42nd St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. I can truly say it is the best remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."
—J. E. CRANE, 100 West 42nd St., New York, May 16, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

Health is Wealth!

A QUESTION.

Joy comes and goes, hope ebbs and flows
Take the wave,
Change with me the transient strength of men.
Love smiles and then
A few sad smiles, and then
Both are laid in one cold place,—
In the grave.

Dreams dawn and fly, friends smile and die
Like spring flowers;
Our vanished life is one long funeral.
Men dig graves with bitter tears
For their dead hopes, and all
Marred with doubts and sick with fears
Count the hours.

We count the hours. These dreams of ours,
False and hollow,
Do we hence and find they are not dead?
Joy we dimly apprehend,
Faces that smile and flout,
Hopes born here, and born to end.
Shall we follow?
—Matthew Arnold.

Verdict for Defendant.

"George," said his father, with a countenance more in sorrow than in anger. "George, some one has cut down my favorite cherry tree. Do you know anything about it?"

Young Washington did not quail before his father's accusing glance. He looked him straight in the eye, and an expression of honest resolution gleamed in the clear eyes and frank countenance.

"My father," he said, "I will not deceive you. I do know something about it, but that is not the issue at all. You have, in effect, charged me with being privy to the destruction of your favorite tree. Now, the question is, since you have filed information and laid this charge against me, what do you know about it?"

"I know that you have a hatchet," replied his father sternly. "I know what a boy with a hatchet is liable to do. I know that some one has cut down my favorite cherry tree."

"Stop right there," interrupted the future father of his country. "You say this was your tree?"

"I do."

"How came it yours?"

"I planted it."

"Now, sir, are you certain it was not on this farm before you came here?"

"No, sir, it was not."

"Then why did you say so?"

"Why did I say what?"

"That's right; evade, quibble, crawl out of it somehow. All right. I don't want to answer a fair, plain, simple question you don't have to."

"But I didn't say it was on the farm when I came here."

"Oh, very well, deny it; is there any other retraction you would like to make?"

"I don't retract anything. I merely declare that I never said that tree was on the farm when I came here."

"Oh well, father, don't get excited and talk loud. You may go back on your entire statement if you wish. Perhaps you will next try to make us believe that this farm wasn't here, either, when you came."

"Why, of course it was here. I don't—"

"Didn't you say a moment ago that it wasn't?"

"That was the tree!"

"Ah, yes; you turn it off on the tree now. You've been talking about the tree all this time, then?"

"Why, certainly I have."

"Then you just admitted that it was here when you came here?"

"No, my son; that was the farm."

"But not half a dozen questions ago you admitted that. You said in these very words, 'Why, of course it was here, didn't you?'"

"I said those words, but I was speaking of the farm."

"And yet you said but this very moment that all this time you have been talking about the tree. It is useless to continue this examination. My father, of all human vices lying in the common, and I doubt not it is the worst. It blunts our moral sensibilities; it leads us to distort and exaggerate simple statements of facts; it blurs our powers of intelligent observation, until even a man of ordinary scholarship and intellectual development is unable to tell whether he is talking about a farm or a cherry tree. The complaint is dismissed. I doubt very much if you can even establish the fact that you ever owned a tree. Go to the nursery, and if you intend planting a tree in the place of the one you imagine you have lost, you had better take a man with you to show you the ground, lest you might plant the tree in your hat. You may go."

Sadly the old man turned away, but he told the man who helped him plant the new tree that if he had a hundred boys he wouldn't let another one of them study law.

Jones—Grateful? Great St. Beethoven! What are you grateful about?

A Crazy Time for Everybody.

"That is a time in everybody's life when they are crazy; least ways they gits beyant themselves," says Uncle Hezekiah, "and with some folks its ingimnerly when they marries."

He was terrible put out about Malindy Jane Lofis. As he sat and whittled his stick he lowed: "Yes, that comes a time in everybody's life when they are crazy, and Malindy Jane's time has come, I reckon."

"Well, it 'pears like it's so, and craziness is ketchin' jist like the measles and yaller janders and sich as that, for let a new thing come along, and everybody goes crazy over it; a new fangled patent, this, that and t'other—a churn or sump'n er that sort, and everybody thinks they've got to buy it. One buys it kase t'other'n does, and here the churn goes tel every house has got it, whether they've got a cow or not. Sometimes the women folks all gits started on one thing; for 'nstance a certain patron for a quilt. They have even went so far as to name a quilt 'the crazy quilt.' It's nothin' on the yeth but the old 'hit or miss' patron with a new name, but if ever a quilt has the right name, hit's got it, kase the pieces is not only sot in crazy fashion, but folks is all a gwine crazy over it. You can't go nowhairs now without seein' somebody a piecin' of a crazy quilt, or if they start on kuit lace, or darn net work, or tatin' its the same way. They all goes crazy tel they gits at it, and stays crazy tel the spell wears off'n 'em, and they take up sump'n else. If they aint crazy about one thing hits t'other, and the women haint by themselves nuther, and the men folks haint got no room to laugh, for they are jist as bad. They are all crazy now about walkin' matches. Some of 'em are plum ravin' distracted over it, has done quit their work and tuck to walkin' for wages and tothers to watch 'em. Pop used to tall me when I was gwine hard as I could stave: 'Betsey, you walks pine blank like you was a walkin' for wages; and I never knowed what it meant tel I hear about all these here walkin' matches that's gwine on.'—[Betsy Hamilton] in Atlanta Constitution.

Gen. Sharp's First Case.

"I lost my first case to a miserable little pettifogging lawyer named Johnny Wood," said Gen. Sharp at Chicago, during the convention, to a group of Arthur men, who had gathered in his room for the comfort of being together.

"I was a graduate of Harvard law school, and had a good deal of conceit, besides a perfectly good case. When my senior warned me that I should have to meet Johnny Wood I laughed at him. The suit was before a justice of the peace. We made out our case, and Wood's client, the plaintiff, said: 'When Johnny Wood arose to speak he rehearsed the evidence impartially, and then, taking up a book read the law—such law as I had never heard of, but which fitted his case to a nicety. When he got through, I said, 'Mr. Wood will you allow me to see that statute, please?'"

"'Certainly sir,' he replied handing me the book closed."

"'Ah, thank you; but what page is it on?'"

"'What page?' he cried, indignant. 'Don't expect me to coach you, young man. Find your own law, you. I found mine.'"

"Of course, I couldn't find it, and Johnny had the laugh, and the court with him, and I lost my case, according to law which that scoundrel Wood had made out of his head just as he spun it out."—Pittsburg Times.

He Wanted to Know.

Mr. John Stetson, the famous New York manager, has been in the city several days. Yesterday Uncle Dick Hooley took him around to introduce him to Col. John Hamlin, the manager of the Grand opera house. "Did you say his name was Hamlin?" inquired Stetson, as they left the Grand opera house. "Yes, John Hamlin," replied Uncle Dick Hooley. "I never met him before," said Stetson. "Is he any relative of that Shakespeare case, Hamlin, Prince of Bismarck?"—Chicago News.

A Card from a Lady.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
Gentlemen—I have suffered with the chills and fever and malaria for the past two years, residing during that time at 780 Chapel street, New Haven. I used quinine in its various forms and great deal of it. While I could prevent the chills I could not rid myself of the fever. For some time last summer I was so weak that I could not sit up but a very little, my countenance was swollen and quinine failed to give me an appetite or to act perceptibly as a tonic. In this condition I began the use of your 'Lewis' Red Jacket Bitters. I used two bottles since that time. Whenever I have a recurrence of malarial symptoms I use a few doses of Red Jacket Bitters and I certainly consider them a most reliable remedy. They are my medicine.

Yours respectfully,
Mrs. T. F. WARNER.

The ticket does not profess to be a "shining shore," or absolutely philanthropic, self-denying golden rule ticket. Its saintliness is like that which belongs to a bull in a corral, and which impresses those who are determined to go across the field that they had better be content with going around, looking in cautiously through the bars. It is a horned ticket, with no nub on either horn, but with a brislet like a buffalo and an immense tossing power. It has its nose on the ground and its tail in the air, and already acts as if its horns were itching to gore something.

A Weather Prophet's Remorse.

There was a streak of shade about six inches wide and nine feet long at the corner of Congress and Griswold streets at noon the other day, and a great big bulk of a man, coat off, hat in hand and rivalets of perspiration pouring down his face, crowded a boy out of it and stood there and groaned and panted like a sick horse.

"Boy!" he said, as he began to feel a little better, "I'm the biggest fool in America!"

"Yes, sir," was the respectful reply.

"Last winter I raved and took on about the cold. I swore that this was no country to live in. I wanted to shoot cold dealers and stove-makers, and I whooped around because the street-cars weren't warmed. Boy, see me now."

"Yes, sir; you are melting right away!"

"Correct. It wasn't three weeks ago that I wanted to knock a man down for predicting that we'd have any summer, and now just think of 98 degrees in the shade!"

"Regular creek pouring down the back of your neck, sir."

"I know it—I know it! There are creeks and rivers running lengthways and crossways of me until I want to swim, and yet in May I went blowing around here that any man 'bowl'd live in such a cold country ought to be sent to a fool asylum. Boy!"

"Yes, sir."

"I crowded you out of your shade. It was a mean trick. Here's a quarter to soothe your feelings. I'm going to take that car for home. When I get there I'm going to have a piece of frozen oil-cloth spread over the cellar floor, and I'm going to lay down on it and have ice heaped around me until I'm frozen as solid as a bone. Boy!"

"Yes, sir."

"Let this country alone. She's all right. Let this weather alone. She knows her business. Please empty the water out of my coat pockets, mop the back of my neck like a good boy, and I'll move on."—Detroit Free Press.

Santa Anna.

Gen. Santa Anna, of Mexico, was the observed of all observers at Washington early in 1837. He was accompanied by his secretary, Col. Almonte and by Cols. Patten, Bee and Hackley, of the Texan army, who had escorted him from his Texan prison.

Gen. Santa Anna was a man of ordinary height, 40 years of age, who probably weighed 160 pounds. He was somewhat round-shouldered, but had a soldier-like gait and courteous manners.

His hair was glossy black, loaded with pomatum, his round black eyes were somewhat sunken, and he had a small, common-looking nose. He dressed rather neatly, smoked almost incessantly, was very polite, but could not, or would not, speak a word of English.

Gen. Almonte was much younger, and resembled a half-breed Indian, with his copper-colored complexion, thick black hair, broad mouth and fine teeth. He had passed several months in 1835 in New York, but had never mastered the English language.—Ben. Perley Poore.

All for 50 Cents.

Mr. E. C. Walker, Editor "Track and Road," The Spirit of the Times, New York, after an exhaustive interview, with all leading horsemen, sportsmen, drivers and breeders of horses of the country, states that St. Jacobs Oil, the greatest pain-cure, will do all that is claimed for it in the cure of aches, pains and suffering in man and beast.

Perennial.

And now coming into full view, clear down to the front, the large small man who carrieth his entire ward in his vest pocket and owneth part of the country township, and setteth things up and layeth things down, and is mysterious and confidential, and maketh secret calculations and estimates in dingy note books, and increaseth in girth until the day after election, when it transpires that his favorite candidate received about eleven votes where the rest of the ticket got about 7,000, and the shrink boot after a fishing excursion. Weep not for him. He will be just as large, just as mysterious, and just as important during the next campaign.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A Greater Than the Brooklyn Bridge.

The Brooklyn bridge has the largest span and is considered the largest bridge in the world. But we will soon be obliged to yield the palm of having the biggest bridge to another country. There is now building over the Firth of Forth, in Scotland, a bridge of two spans, each of which is as long as the Brooklyn bridge. This is the greatest bridge ever designed anywhere.—New York Times.

"The enterprising firm of Hood & Co. are doing a rushing business in Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Tooth Powder, both well known and appreciated by thousands who have tested their efficacy. The Sarsaparilla has effected wonderful cures, not only in this city, but in various parts of New England, where its merits are known."—Ed. Lowell Daily Citizen.

A Royal Matchmaker Outwitted.

Going one day from Potsdam to Berlin, he (Frederick the Great) saw coming towards him in the opposite direction a magnificent girl, young, handsome, of good figure, superb in number of inches. He was at once struck with admiration for her; stopped to talk with her and found that she was unmarried, and was on her way from Berlin to her Saxon home. "Then," said Frederick William, "you will be passing the gate of Potsdam and will no doubt give this note to the commandant, receiving a dollar for your trouble." But women even when tall, are not so easily outwitted as Kirklands, Josephs and the like. The girl knew the king by sight and reputation, and knowing that to refuse the note would probably bring her a shower of blows from the ratten, accepted the commission.

Arrived near the gate at Potsdam she found there a little wizened old hag to whom she entrusted the delivery of the letter, honestly handing over the dollar with it. Then forthwith she sped away towards home. The commandant opened the note and found himself ordered to marry the bearer to a certain gigantic Irish grenadier named Macdool (McDowall?). He rubbed his eyes, but there could be no doubt about the clearness of the command. The grenadier was sent for, and then began a curious scene. Such a mate for one of his thews and sinews seemed a horrible mockery. The proposed wife, on the contrary, was quite ready to submit herself to the orders of the king; there was no escape; to refuse further would be flat mutiny, and the soldier was actually obliged to obey. The mistake was not discovered till the next morning, when Frederick flung himself thwarted in his designs for the development of giants in Germany, consented to the divorce of the ill-matched couple.—Brackenburgh's "Frederick the Great."

To neglect yourself if troubled with any disease of the kidneys? No, if you are so afflicted, attend to yourself now. Do not wait, but use Sulphur Bitters at once. They cured me when I was given up to die by several physicians.

The Nations' Nargoties.

Every nation or race has its narcotic. The natives of Siberia have a fungus answering their wants; Turkey, India and China cultivate and use opium; nearly all Mohammedan peoples, including the Indians, Turks, Persians, Arabians and Africans, have hashish or some substitute for it; the natives of Hindoostan and many other parts of Asia have the betel nut or betel pepper; the Polynesians have ava; the Peruvians coca; the New Granadians the thorn-apple; the Spaniards their lettuce; the whole its tobacco.

Besides these already mentioned, there are quite a number of other narcotics used in various parts of the world, the Indians of Florida having an emetic holly, and Scotland having the nightshade. This plant is historic, for according to Morehouse, a Danish arse in the time of Sweyn was made unanimously drunk by the Scots furnishing their liquor that contained an infusion of this herb, and they thus fell an easy prey to the Highlanders. In short, so extensive is the variety and so wide the geographic distribution of narcotics in one form or another that it would seem as if they were intended for some good use, though the tendency thus far, it must be admitted, has been to their abuse rather than to render them of any benefit as a medicine.—Globe Democrat.

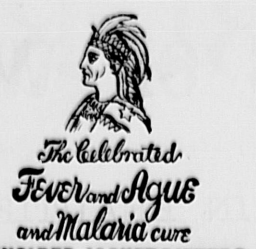

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood, build them up, increase their appetite, and rejuvenate their whole system. No other preparation so well meets this want. It touches the exact spot. Its record of forty years is one of constant triumph over disease.

How much practical wisdom applicable to the present situation is boiled down into the following passage from Gov. Long's speech:

"The spirit of reform, which is one of the most valuable elements in the body politic—God forbid it should ever stay its hand—yet needs its safeguards as well as any other. Its own impetus not infrequently makes it the moral it is itself hungry to sacrifice a victim to principle. Hastily and under prejudice setting up an man for the evil it would attack and another for the moral it would enforce, and not accurate in either selection, it so exaggerates its estimate of each that the slower going equity of public sentiment rejects its conclusions altogether."

This exactly hits the fault of our fine bolters who, with minds intent on a certain pistareen ring, are only just waking up to the monstrous wrong they are doing. "You must, for wisdom," said Emerson, "for sanity, have some access to the mind and heart of the common humanity. The exclusive excludes itself. No great man has existed who did not rely on the sense and heart of mankind as represented by the good sense of the people, as correcting the modes and over-refinements and class prejudices of the lettered men of the world."

HUMAN BLOOD.—On the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system. Disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause. A remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates acrofula and other impurities from it, as Hood's Sarsaparilla undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use. AYER'S PILLS.
A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dizziness, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient. A sufferer from Headache writes: "AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They have entirely cured my Headache, and I have never since been troubled with it. I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak of your PILLS, and I always do so when occasion offers."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numerous instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand, and our patients regard them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR FURTHER PARTICULARS, SEE THE TESTIMONIALS OF 'J. T. HAYES.'"
—J. T. HAYES.

Mexico, June 1st, 1882.
The Rev. FRANCIS B. HARTWELL, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years I have suffered from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They have entirely cured my Headache, and I have never since been troubled with it. I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak of your PILLS, and I always do so when occasion offers."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

[From James G. Blaine's Letter of Acceptance.]
"The Republic should never accept a lesser duty, it can never assume a nobler one, than the protection of the humblest man who owes its loyalty—protection at home and protection which shall follow him abroad, into whatever land he may go upon a lawful errand."

OUR TAXES.

The rate of taxation in this town for 1884 is twenty dollars on one thousand dollars. Last year it was fifteen dollars and seventy cents. This is an increase of nearly thirty per cent, and will be a painful surprise to many people. A portion of this is accounted for in a decrease on personal property, increase of State tax, and making provision for the payment of certain debts that have fallen due. There is found to be a slight increase in the valuation of real estate, but not enough to materially effect the rate. To the comparatively small stocks on hand at the tanneries on the first of May is mainly attributable the loss on the personal property listed by the assessors.

But the increase of rate is not wholly due to the reasons above given. Two dollars on one thousand is fairly chargeable to the negligence, or worse, of our Representative at the General Court last winter. By direction of the town he was commissioned to secure the passage of a bill to enable the authorities to fund $15,000 of the water debt that had fallen due, which was prepared and introduced but failed to become a law. It was purely a private matter, of interest to nobody but Woburn, and no opposition to the enactment was raised by members of the Legislature. Had it passed, our taxes this year would have been eighteen dollars on one thousand instead of twenty dollars.

But our Representative failed to secure the passage of this important act. His friends claim that his time was more profitably taken up in killing off the Library incorporation act, but the tax-payers of Woburn will be slow to accept this excuse for a failure to do his duty as their representative in the General Court. The Library act was asked for by the best men of both parties, but there was possible politics in it and Mr. Salmon successfully fought against its enactment. While he was doing this the funding bill, which was of vastly more consequence to the people of the town, was suffered to hang by the gills, and finally to go by the board. It might have been passed. Had Mr. Hayden, Mr. Salmon's predecessor, been in the House last winter the tax-payers of this town would have been gainers to the extent of two dollars on one thousand dollars of property listed and so much better off. What do our good Irish-Americans, who elected Mr. Salmon last fall, and who have taxes to pay, think of it? Will they rally around his standard and elect him again this fall?

At the proper time we shall allude to this matter again and urge the failure of Mr. Salmon to take care of the interests of his constituents as a reason why some other man should be chosen this fall to represent Woburn in the General Court.

OVERDOING THE BUSINESS.

Mayor Fox's journalistic friends in Cambridge are warming up to the task in hand beautifully. They are stripped for the fray—peeled, so to speak—and making things hum. We rarely if ever witnessed such an exhibition of zeal in favor of a candidate as the editors over there are making in the supposed interest of the gentlemen who is their alleged choice for Representative to Congress. To a limited extent they are making Rome howl. If their character for honesty was not beyond reproach one might fairly be led to suspect a "bar" had been tapped in close proximity to certain newspaper offices not a thousand miles from Harvard College. And then again, their ardor doesn't begin to be tempered with as much wisdom as it ought to be, which might possibly strengthen the suspicion that it is not the genuine article, but a marketable commodity kept to sell the man offering the highest price. At any rate, the Cambridge editors in favor of Fox are almost disgustingly overdoing the business and at the same time seriously endangering any little show which Mr. Fox might possibly have of securing the congressional nomination. They may be well-meaning enough, but they are indiscreet. They say too many foolish things about their candidate. They indulge in too much fulsome praise of him. They disgust somebody by being so.

However, that is none of our concern. The Cambridge editors have a right to conduct Mr. Fox's canvass to suit themselves. If they want to shout themselves blind there is no law to prevent them doing so. And if Mr. Fox thinks it nice to have that rather ugly physiognomy of his printed and scattered abroad there is no one to say him nay that we know of. Perhaps, however, they would all be a little less enthusiastic and noisy if they could only see what the rest of the District knows, namely, that Mayor Fox does not stand the least chance in the world of getting the nomination, but that Hon. Francis B. Hayes will have a walk-over in the convention to be followed by a splendid triumph at the polls in November.

THE CLEVELAND SCANDAL.

If there is no truth in the stories respecting Gov. Cleveland's private character why do not the Democratic press pass it by as unworthy of notice instead of devoting so much time and ink in trying to refute the charges? Or, if it is susceptible of proof that he did not ruin the Halpin girl and is not the father of her illegitimate child why do not the Democratic organs publish the evidence instead of dealing altogether in bald assertions and unsupported denials? The charges against Gov. Cleveland are of a very grave character and, if the witnesses are credible, they have been proved. The Democratic papers say the stories are false and the originators of them liars. They assail Rev. Dr. Ball, a leading and highly respected divine in the Free Will Baptist denomination, without merit and call him everything but a decent fellow. But that will not do; if he has lied about this business, and the scores of leading citizens of Buffalo who corroborate his story also lie, it ought to be an easy thing for Mr. Cleveland and his friends to prove it and show that his character has been assailed without cause. But if there has been any testimony adduced to disprove the charges except the unsupported declarations of interested parties it has escaped our notice: we believe none has been offered that would pass muster in a court of law, or that an intelligent person would give any weight to in considering the case. If Mr. Cleveland is innocent let us have the proof of it instead of columns of denials by Democratic editors. If Dr. Ball's charges are false prove them so. What the country asks for is evidence instead of so much talk, smoke and dust from Democratic journalists.

Mr. Sam Hunt has sold out his paper at Charleston, The New Enterprise, which has been an organ of the Butler and Workingmen's party since its establishment, and has gone out of journalism for the present. He is one of the State Inspectors appointed by Gov. Butler, but has come out strong for Blaine and Logan for whose election he will do his level best during the campaign. Considering his ability, influence and relationship to the Workingmen's organization of the State he is a valuable acquisition to the Republican ranks.

Our esteemed neighbor, the Arlington Advocate, feels constrained to cast in its lot with the Cambridge papers and support Mayor Fox for Congress. It hates to agree with the journals of our revered University town the worst way but its love for Fox has at last overcome all scruples as to working with them, and shutting its eyes it has made the plunge. We fear it will prove a disastrous one to the Advocate.

If the editor of the Cambridge Chronicle don't quit poaching on our preserves we'll set the dogs on him. He has a pretty big job on hands to whip all the Cambridge Republicans into the support of Mr. Fox, to which task we advise him to devote his entire time and energies or else he may slip up on getting a Fox delegation in his own bailiwick.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Republican meeting at Lake Maranocook last Tuesday was the largest political gathering ever held in the State of Maine. It was an immense affair. Blaine was present and received a perfect ovation from the 10,000 people assembled there to open the campaign. It was altogether a grand send-off.

—C. E. Sutherland, an employee in the Waltham watch factory, after a month's rest here will return to his work next Tuesday.

—J. B. McDonald is never undersold by anybody. People are always satisfied with the coal and prices at his establishment.

—The alarms of fire on Saturday evening and Monday morning were rung for small blazes that did very little damage.

—Prices and quality of coal at McDonald's, close to the R. R. station, are popular with the people, and so they buy there.

—Mr. Joseph R. Green, late cashier of the First National Bank, was registered at Hotel Belmont, Old Orchard, a few days ago.

—A correct time-table of Soles's Stoneham large may be found in this paper. It is a popular and well-patronized conveyance.

—Messrs. Copeland, Bowser & Co. have a change of advertisement in this paper. They are preparing for a boom in trade this fall.

—Readers of the JOURNAL will find just the article of coal they want at J. B. McDonald's and at prices at which they cannot complain.

—Mr. Charles C. Hart, one of whose legs was broken by the kick of a horse some weeks since, rode out last Sunday showing that he is getting on bravely and will soon be on the wagon again.

—Dr. De Friez and wife are spending the present week down at Nantucket where the Dr. was born and bred, as we have understood.

—Miss Hattie Eager left yesterday morning for a vacation absence of a few weeks, which we hope will be pleasant ones to her.

—Mr. Charles E. Lyford and wife took their outing in New Hampshire to which State so many Woburn people flock. They enjoyed it.

—Henry L. Andrews, wife and son left here for Enfield, N. H., where they will visit and enjoy themselves for the next ten days, last Wednesday.

—Will Stowers and wife have gone to St. Johns, N. B., to take charge of the farm of the father of Mrs. Stowers, and will remain there permanently.

—Mrs. Jacob A. Ham, wife of Mr. Ham, member of the Board of Selectmen, and daughter are spending a short time among old friends at Danvers.

—Mr. Ed. Simonds, the tax collector, will very soon be sending out billet doux containing polite invitations to call at the captain's offices and settle.

—More rain on Wednesday. We never knew a "wet moon" to come up squarer to its manifest, or pan out truer, than the one now on the wane.

—The Olympian rink will be open for public recreation on rollers on Saturday afternoons and evenings of Aug. 16, 23, and 30. See card in this paper.

—The Y. M. C. A. held religious services on the Common last Sunday which were interesting and well attended. More will be held in the future.

—Carter's Skating Academy will be opened to the public on Saturday evenings, and afternoon, Aug. 16, 23, 30, as per notice in another column of this paper.

—Several of our leading Republicans were invited to an important political conference in the city last Wednesday, some of whom probably accepted and attended.

—Mr. Hubbard Copeland, senior member of the firm of Copeland, Bowser & Co., has postponed his vacation to some time in September, which is sensible.

—Judge George S. Littlefield, Associate Justice of the Woburn District Court, has been presiding in said court this week in the absence of Judge Coover.

—The grocers don't seem to know where they will go on the 20th, nor who will go with them. The movement appears to lack organization and method.

—Mr. Alex. Grant will start for Pietou, N. S., next Monday to join his wife and children who have been there for several weeks visiting the old home and friends.

—Mrs. Frank C. Nichols, wife of the popular ice dealer, has been at Milford, N. H., in pursuit of health, but has not been greatly improved by the change.

—Mr. Webster Woodman, salesman at Charlie Munroe's clothing and furnishing house, is taking a well-earned vacation this week. And much good may it do him.

—The editor of the Advertiser is not considered enough of a business man to entitle him to an invitation to go along with the merchants on their annual picnic next week.

—Mrs. A. N. Campbell and her daughter expect to start next week for a visit to Newport, R. I. They recently returned from a few weeks' stay at Marlboro'.

—Rev. W. S. Barnes of Montreal, a former respected pastor of the Unitarian Church of Woburn, was here last Wednesday. His daughter is at Mr. John I. Munroe's.

—E. E. Thompson, Esq., Treasurer of the Woburn Five Cents Savings Bank, has returned from a brief vacation visit away and is now at his post in the bank again.

—We had a pleasant call from Mr. Emerson of Goodwin's Mills, Maine, last Saturday. He was the guest of Mr. W. W. Strout, his old business partner, while in town.

—G. R. Gage, Esq., acted as Treasurer of the Five Cents Savings Bank during the absence of Mr. Thompson this week, who found the money all right on his return.

—It is said that Mr. John Maxwell, the heavy tanner of Winchester, will have a large interest in the Quincy skating rink soon to be built. That is the way common report puts it.

—Munroe & Newton are filling the bins of a good many Woburn people with all the best kinds of coal for next winter. This firm are doing a large business and always give satisfaction.

—We are in receipt of the Old Orchard Sea Shell, a bright, newy seaside daily, published by Mr. Andrew Small of Biddeford. It is a little late getting along, but very welcome all the same.

—Miss Gerty Tabor, daughter of Mr. N. Z. Tabor, will return next Tuesday to the Waltham watch factory in which she is an employee. For a month past she has been visiting her family and friends here.

—Lambrequins and Lace Curtains are furnished and put up or materials and designs at short notice of the very best, at Paine's Importing and manufacturing Establishment on Canal St., Boston.

—The telegraph wire seems to interfere with a clean swing and right kind of float by the Blaine and Logan flag across Main street. It gets hitched up on the wire too often for the good of the hunting.

—The depot restaurant is a nice place to get the best cigar in town at the cheapest price. Good things to eat can be bought there too, and the Woburn Journal can always be found on the counters.

—The local political pot begins to boil and bubble. Missionaries from the headquarters of aspirants for office are as plenty as blackberries, and the people are being button-holed on every hand.

—The Old Orchard Sea-Shell of Tuesday said: "Mr. J. P. Crane, a leading citizen of Woburn, Mass., is here with his family," which indicates that Mr. Crane is trying to have a good time this summer.

—Mr. Amos Cummings is adding a story to the Baneroff market which will be finished off into a couple of large offices for Mr. Porter, the insurance agent. It is a good location and will make nice offices.

—Mr. J. W. Hammond and wife were at Poland Springs, Maine, last week until the latter part of it, when they met Judge Converse and wife in Portland and with them proceeded to the mountains for a visit.

—Last Tuesday Mr. James Murray of Munroe street plucked from an apple tree on his premises a bright, full-blown apple blossom. There were a few apples on the same tree which made the matter still more singular.

—Mr. Frederic A. Flint left last Friday for Camden, Maine, a beautiful summer resort at the mouth of the Penobscot which he has visited several years in succession. Mr. Flint thinks there is no place like Camden.

—Mr. William Kimball, an old resident of Woburn, now a citizen of New Hampshire, has been visiting friends here this week. He looked as natural as life, and everybody was glad to see and shake hands with him.

—We would not be a mite surprised if a good many of our people at the beaches had wished themselves at home hovering over a good fire at times this week. On a cold rainy day the seaside is about the worst place a person can be at.

—George H. Ellison of the Quincy Patriot, a former student in the Journal office, dropped in on us last Monday. Carrying his left eye in a sling on account of an incipient "sty," George did not look quite as handsome as usual.

—Ostensibly the Advertiser is an "independent" paper; really, it is an "organ" of the deepest dye. It goes for us because we print a Republican paper and contribute our mite towards the success of our party. Brother, "cast the beam," etc.

—Has it occurred to any of our readers that the gloaming comes earlier and dark follows it more quickly this year than common? It is so, and the cause of it is, we have no doubt, volcanic dust in the air—the same that produced the red sunsets.

—Miss Mokeley, telegraph operator at the Woburn station of the B. & L. R. R., has returned to her post of duty, refreshed and invigorated, after a two months absence. Miss Hutchinson of Lawrence has filled the position while Miss Mokeley has been away.

—The Methodist camp-meeting for this district opens to-day at Asbury Grove, Hamilton. Rev. Mr. Fisk of the Woburn Church will spend the Sabbath there as also a large number of his church, some of whom have already taken their departure.

—Quite a good many people, young and not so young, are wishing the rinks would open up again. They want to skate some more. And no one among them all longs for their opening more earnestly than the accomplished and amiable editor of Woburn Advertiser.

—A few days since Mr. John Duncan, late salesman for John C. Buck, returned from an extended trip through York State, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and other middle-western localities, with which he was greatly pleased. He was gone about two months, and thinks it paid.

—Disciples of Isark Walton had had good weather for their business this week. It has rained nearly all the time a little too hard to work outdoors and just about right to go fishing, so the result has been a good many fine strings taken from the streams and brooks hereabouts.

—The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Andrews at their residence on Main street last Monday evening was a very pleasant occasion. The worthy couple have hosts of friends, many of whom were present and contributed to the pleasures of the celebration. Valuable presents were made to Mr. and Mrs. Andrews which were received with grateful acknowledgements. May they live long and be happy.

—Last Monday morning Mr. J. Howard Nason and wife left for a two week's visit in Maine, principally on the banks of the Androscoggin, their old stamping ground. It is understood that Mr. Nason attended the veteran's reunion at Bangor last Tuesday and subsequent days.

—Our esteemed neighbor, Mr. G. F. Jones, ran out a handsome campaign flag from the Central House across to Whitcomb's building last Tuesday morning. It lacks the portrait of Gen. Butler which we were told it would bear, and instead of it the words "For President: Gen. Benj. F. Butler."

—The Assessors have about finished up their work for the year of grace 1884, and seem to be happy over it. It is a pretty big job to get everything ready for the Collector, and since the assessing closed Messrs. Hill and Ferguson of the Board have done all the work. They have finished to books in very good season.

—Last week the following prominent people of Woburn were guests at the Ocean House, Old Orchard:—Judge P. L. Converse and wife, Mrs. Sophia Hovey, Miss Ruth M. Leathe, Miss M. D. Converse, Frank B. Dodge and wife, Lizzie B. Dodge, Walter L. Dodge, Mrs. M. R. Bickford and her daughter Gertrude of the Highlands, Mrs. W. I. Clewley.

—The Hook and Ladder Co. 1, and Woburn Brass Band, with a large sprinkling of ladies, went to the Relay House, Nahant, last Wednesday morning in two 4-horse barges furnished by Mr. Jones, for a good time. It was a bad day for seaside pleasures, but the company did not mind the weather to any great extent, but made the most of the excursion and enjoyed it.

—The business men's annual picnic will come off next Wednesday if the weather should not interfere with plans already about completed. As near as we can find out it would seem that every man is going somewhere, or nowhere, on his own hook without reference to the movements of others, and fight it out on that line if it takes all summer. The boys generally have a refreshing season of it, and will this year probably.

—A full description of the skating rink which the Richardson Brothers of this place are building at Pawtucket, R. I., is given in the Chronicle of that city, a copy of which we are in receipt of. The building is to be 170x88 feet, will accommodate 500 skaters, and seat 1200 people. All the modern improvements have been determined on, making the rink, which will be open about the middle of September, one of the best in the State.

—In the course of a couple of weeks more they will be getting back from seaside and mountains, and when well settled down to work again how much better off will they be than those who from necessity or choice staid at home during the summer months? They will probably be glad to get back, refreshed and invigorated, after a two months absence. Miss Hutchinson of Lawrence has filled the position while Miss Mokeley has been away.

—The Methodist camp-meeting for this district opens to-day at Asbury Grove, Hamilton. Rev. Mr. Fisk of the Woburn Church will spend the Sabbath there as also a large number of his church, some of whom have already taken their departure.

—Quite a good many people, young and not so young, are wishing the rinks would open up again. They want to skate some more. And no one among them all longs for their opening more earnestly than the accomplished and amiable editor of Woburn Advertiser.

—A few days since Mr. John Duncan, late salesman for John C. Buck, returned from an extended trip through York State, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and other middle-western localities, with which he was greatly pleased. He was gone about two months, and thinks it paid.

—Disciples of Isark Walton had had good weather for their business this week. It has rained nearly all the time a little too hard to work outdoors and just about right to go fishing, so the result has been a good many fine strings taken from the streams and brooks hereabouts.

—The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Andrews at their residence on Main street last Monday evening was a very pleasant occasion. The worthy couple have hosts of friends, many of whom were present and contributed to the pleasures of the celebration. Valuable presents were made to Mr. and Mrs. Andrews which were received with grateful acknowledgements. May they live long and be happy.

The Woburn Journal

FRIDAY, AUG. 22, 1884.

THE JOURNAL is for sale at the stores of S. H. Tilton, 195 Main Street, R. B. Tilton, 156 Main Street, J. F. Catter, Cambridge, J. F. Tilton, North Woburn, George's Street, at the Centre Depot and at G. P. Brown's, Winchester.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
All advertisements, to insure insertion in this paper, must be handed in as early as 10 o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

[From James G. Blaine's Letter of Acceptance.]
"The Republic should never accept a lesser duty, it can never assume a nobler one, than the protection of the humblest man who owes it loyalty—protection at home and protection which shall follow him abroad, into whatever land he may go upon a lawful errand."

GEN. BUTLER'S LETTER.

The Boston Herald, official organ of the dukes and kickers, has had considerable to say of late about a bargain between Gen. Butler and Blaine for the benefit of the latter in his canvass for the Presidency. It has more than once stated that such an agreement exists but has made no attempt to prove it. We have heard of it, and will not probably after reading Gen. Butler's letter of acceptance. The letter was given to the public last Tuesday morning and it there is anything in it that warrants the Herald's statements about an understanding between the two candidates we fail to find it. The document is particularly severe on the Republican party which the writer says, or strongly intimates, has outlived its usefulness, and the affairs of which he proposes to help wind up this present campaign. Gen. Butler regrets the necessity which compelled him to come out before Gov. Cleveland had written his letter of acceptance, but the misdeeds of the Republicans furnish him a theme that will do very well for the present, and for these he goes with the vigor for which he is famous.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Chairman Lodge has issued a call for the Republican State Convention to be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, at 11 o'clock on September 3, next, which call we publish this week. Candidates for Governor and other officers will be placed in nomination at the convention, and when that is done the campaign in the Commonwealth will have fairly begun. That will give just two months in which to do the fighting, and it is long enough.

Mr. E. D. Hayden, of Woburn, a worthy aspirant of a place in the Congressional race, has had his candidacy sadly damaged by the intemperate advocacy of the most obnoxious of the Boston Independents. This is no year for that style of introduction to a man. Defeat is honorable, but to be "whooped up" by those gentle to death to a man's aspirations.—Somerville Journal.

Mr. Hayden is not an "aspirant" for the Congressional nomination, nor is he responsible for what the Boston Independents may say about him. He has no sympathy whatever with that political faction and takes no stock in them or their manner of doing business. He is a good Republican and though Mr. Blaine was not his first choice for a Presidential candidate he will talk and work for the success of the party just as earnestly and conscientiously as though his favorite had been nominated. Mr. Hayden has many friends in Woburn, Cambridge, the Boston wards, and other precincts in the Fifth District who would like to send him to Congress. His support if nominated would come from the very best of the party and that element would be glad to give him the election. But he does not want it at what it would cost. When it comes to such a pass that a man has got to buy a seat in Congress with money, if he gets it at all, Mr. Hayden can be counted out. He does not aspire to the honor on such terms. His name may be brought before the nominating convention by some of his friends but neither they nor he will resort to any but strictly legitimate means to secure his nomination.

Mr. Salmon protests that the JOURNAL lied about him last week in the article on taxes, but we think not. Taking it for granted that everyone knew the funding bill spoken of in that article was finally enacted by the Legislature we failed to state in terms that by Mr. Salmon's neglect of business it was suffered to remain in the hands of the committee so long that when it was brought to light its passage could not help the town any. To our statement that the act did not pass should have been added, "in season to do any good." Our charge against Mr. Salmon was negligence of official duty very expensive to the tax-payers of Woburn, and it was sustained whether the act failed of a passage, or went through so late in the session that the people could not be benefited by its passage. The latter was the fact, and we supposed everybody so understood it, else pains would have been taken to state the case with more particularity. We were assured of the fact of Mr. Salmon's neglect of duty by leading Woburn Democrats before the article of ours was written, and have been told since by equally respectable Democrats that the article was correct and to the point, with the inconsequential change in its wording above indicated. So, we think, our Representative will be obliged to give it up and confess that the JOURNAL's article was correct in every essential particular.

In this issue of the JOURNAL we print a letter from Mr. Oliver R. Clark in which Mr. Enoch Foster of Tewksbury is warmly recommended for the State Senate from this District. The place of locality among others is made in behalf of Mr. Foster, which may or may not be good, everything else being equal. The Senatorial representation has been distributed in the last twenty-five years as stated by Mr. Clark and yet that may not entitle Tewksbury, Wilmington and other towns named to the candidate this year. We do not pretend to know where on the score of locality the nomination would fall. Mr. Clark however recommends a very good man, that is to say, an honest, upright man, who if elected would represent the District fairly if not brilliantly. Several other gentlemen have been spoken of for the position, among them Mr. Walter Littlefield of Melrose, A. B. Collier of Winchester, and others.

A few days ago the Democratic organs came out with a full and complete history of the Mulligan letters, from a reading of the headlines of which one would conclude that Blaine was a dead cock in the pit sure enough. It was evidently intended for a crusher, but didn't crush worth a cent. A perusal of the history disclosed the fact that it was nothing more nor less than a rehearsal of the old exploded story with not a single new fact or thing about it and entirely unworthy of anybody's attention. If the organs could do better than that they should drop the subject and turn their attention to something else.

At the conference of Fifth District Republicans in the city last week, Hon. S. L. Montague and Ex-Mayor Allen of Cambridge had more friends and advocates from Cambridge than Mr. Fox could muster. That is not a very flattering outlook for the Congressional candidate of the Cambridge papers. The fact seems to be that Mr. Fox is not popular at home.

—Munroe & Newton keep coal, lumber, wood, lime, cement, and everything else in their line.

—Frank Soles has returned from Old Orchard where he has been stopping several weeks.

—Munroe & Newton are having a large trade in coal. They give full measure at low figures.

—Mr. Leeds's herdie may be called by telephone to Leeds's drug store at any time.

—On several nights this week the fog has been so dense that you could not see a knife.

—J. B. McDonald calls attention to the fact that he is selling coal at the lowest market prices.

—Miss Ellen McMahon, of the Advertiser office, and her sister Sarah are visiting West Woburn this week.

—J. B. McDonald keeps constantly on hand all kinds of the best coal used, and sells at cheap.

—Mr. Francis A. Buckman and family left for a vacation visit at Old Orchard this morning.

—Rev. Fr. Murray of St. Charles Church was an arrival at the Ocean House, Newport, a few days since.

—Mr. Marshall Tidd and wife and Miss Ida F. Cummings are visiting Niagara Falls and Saratoga Springs.

—Thomas H. Hill, Esq., attended a reunion of the 9th Regiment at Oak Island yesterday. Several others went down.

—Mr. O. Rich left for his home at Brooklyn, N. Y., last Monday. He will spend nearly all of next summer here if alive.

—The open-air concert on the Common last Wednesday was a very fine one and attended by the largest audience of the season.

—Mr. F. B. Dodge has returned from the seaside and settled to business. At last accounts his wife and daughter were at Old Orchard.

—Mrs. N. S. Watson and daughter were at the Everett Hotel, Old Orchard, last week, and Miss Susan was a guest at Hotel Belmont.

—Horton has all the September magazines including Harper's, the best of them all. All the current literature is to be found at Horton's.

—Builders will save money by submitting their bills for lumber and all other material for building to J. B. McDonald before purchasing.

—Having returned from a very pleasant vacation at seaside and on mountain top Judge Converse has presided in the District Court this week as usual.

—The religious meeting under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on the Common last Sunday was well attended and very interesting. The music was excellent.

—The final concert of the series by the Woburn Brass Band will be given on Friday evening next, Aug. 29. That finishes the Band's contract with the public.

—E. N. Blake, Esq., and wife were guests at the Old Orchard House last week. They are visiting Maine, of which Mr. Blake is a native, and having a pleasant time.

—Miss Edith Hartwell of Bedford is spending a few weeks with her cousins at their home on Pleasant street. She is enjoying the visit very much, and so are the cousins.

—Mr. Leeds has put a herdic on our streets for a public conveyance and is ready to convey passengers all about town at a cheap price. The herdic office is at Leeds's drug store.

—Mr. George H. Fowle, station agent at Walnut Hill, has gone to New Hampshire on a brief vacation trip, which he is bound to make the most of. He will be gone several days.

—The Republicans of Woburn will hold a caucus at their Headquarters, 204 Main street, on Monday evening, September 1, to choose delegates to the State and other conventions.

—The Y. M. C. A. will hold an open-air meeting on the Common next Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m., to which all are respectfully invited. Good music will be provided for the occasion.

—The Advertiser is hurrahing "stop thief" at the top of its voice continually and yet as a portion of its organ it is the worst pill in the box. It is rapidly getting to be obnoxiously Bourbon.

—The Monday morning Boston dailies reported that Rev. Mr. Fisk, pastor of the M. E. Church, preached an able sermon at the Asbury Grove camp-meeting last Sunday evening.

—Miss Fairbanks has added a circulating library to her art studio to which fact the attention of our people is directed. She will try to please and profit all who favor her with their patronage.

—Last Monday was a searmer to all intents and purposes. Thermometers showed all the way from 92 to 98 in the shade which, following close after a frigid wave, took the starch clean out of a fellow.

—Mr. Pitman, editor of the Somerville Journal, paid his brother-in-law, Mr. George W. Jenkins, a flying visit last Tuesday. He and his family are spending their vacation at the White Mountains.

—It is expected that Mr. Davis, ex-Superintendent of the Woburn schools, will leave here for Chelsea in about a month. He will have more schools to look after there, and will find the work harder, most likely.

—Mr. Frank Richardson had four good friends in the school meeting last Wednesday evening who voted for him for Superintendent every time. We wish he had been elected for he would make a first class one.

—W. V. Kellen Esq., is enjoying life at Lake Memphramog and among the wild scenery of Lower Canada remarkably well. His headquarters are at Derby, Vt. He will remain away a couple or three weeks yet.

—For the accommodation of lovers of the sport of skating both rinks will be opened on Saturday afternoon and evening, August 23 and 30. No matter how hot it may be there will probably be a crowd out at both places.

—The Wednesday afternoons and evenings openings of the Woburn rinks have been postponed. This was done on account of bad weather on Wednesday evenings, and other considerations. Their postponement was a wise step by the proprietors.

—The State convention of the Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. will be held in Woburn in the first week of October next, by invitation of the Woburn Association. Mr. Moody, the great evangelist, will be present and participate in the proceedings of the convention.

—Dr. Deering and Mr. Horton's son Horace were on the Empire State Tuesday and Wednesday night, and returned home early Wednesday afternoon with Mr. Horton. The Empire State did not leave her anchorage until 11 o'clock Wednesday A. M., on account of the dense fog.

—Mr. John Maxwell, the tanner, has no interest in and nothing to do with the new roller rink in Quincy as has been reported. He has plenty to attend to without going into the rink business, which it is probable his oldest son contemplates doing. Mr. Maxwell does an extensive leather business and has no call for anything else just now.

—Mr. G. F. Jones attended the conference of Butler managers at the Revere House, Boston, on Wednesday, and helped set the ball in motion. He gave his views to the meeting with many others. Tomorrow there will be another meeting at which a managing committee will be chosen.

—Mr. Rosenquist has had made in India ink a very fine portrait of the late Mr. D. S. Moreland of this place on an order from Mrs. Moreland. The work, from a photograph, is admirably done, and the likeness is perfect. Friends of the deceased recognize it as the portrait of an excellent piece of art.

—On call the steamer and a hose company went to No. Woburn station, or Richardson's Mill, to extinguish a fire that was consuming a large lot of railroad sleepers belonging to the B. & L. R. R. Co. The firemen worked all the afternoon until 7 o'clock in the evening and succeeded in putting a stop to the destruction of property, last Monday.

—Mr. Fort Staples, clerk at Hartwell's market, wife and son left for Old Orchard last Monday morning where they propose to visit for a couple of weeks. His uncle is proprietor of the well-known Old Orchard House, besides which he has many number of relatives at that famous watering place whom he will just look in on and say "how'd yer do?" to.

—Increase of salaries appears to be an important part of the duties of our present town fathers. Last Tuesday they increased the salaries of the Board of Registrars of Voters, and the next thing will be something else. A perusal of the records of increase in salaries of town affairs made by a Democratic Board in the last few years would prove exciting reading for a reasonably heavy Woburn tax-payer.

—The traders had a fine day for their picnic on Wednesday, except it was very hot. A large share of them went to Nantasket Beach where they enjoyed a clam dinner, a dance, visit to the skating rink, and other sports. Others went in other directions, and many remained at home. It was like Sunday in the village. The stores were all closed, the streets nearly deserted, and a Sabbath stillness pervaded the town.

—The present charter of the First National Bank of Woburn will expire by limitation on January 18, 1885, when application for a twenty year's extension will be made. Stockholders are invited to call at the banking rooms and sign the necessary papers to secure the extension. The Bank has been very successfully conducted during the nearly twenty years of its existence, and was never more prosperous than at the present time.

—The roller race between Mr. Mark Allen, editor of the Woburn Advertiser, and Mr. John Day, Chief of Police of Stoneham, advertised to take place this week at Pickering's rink in Wakefield, is off, the Stoneham gentleman failing to come to time. It is suspected by most people that he was afraid to try tiles to the championship with Mr. Allen, and craved off the race. What Stoneham lacks more than anything else in the world is pluck. In other respects she is quite a strip of country.

—Mr. Amos Cummings will leave tomorrow morning with a party of ladies and gentlemen from New York, Philadelphia, Cambridge and other places for Old Orchard, where they will remain a week, and from thence, with the addition of Mrs. Cummings, who is now at Old Orchard, proceed by rail to St. John's, N. B., and then up to Woodstock, which pleasant city will be their headquarters during a week's ramble in that very attractive section of the Province. With favorable weather the trip must be a delightful one.

—The National Band will give a concert on the Common next Wednesday evening.

PROGRAMME.

1. March. The Oaks. Holliston, Mass.
2. Overture. The Tides of St. Wand. Reeves, Paris.
3. Cornet Solo. She has returned from Delmonico. By J. Collins. Delmonico.
4. Waltz. Life is a dream. Zilchoff.
5. Hymn. The Forge in the Forest. Michaelis.
6. Medley. Moonlight. Wadsworth.
7. Romanza. Brava-Dea. Louis.
8. Selection. Dried-Dea. Louis.
9. Schottische. Chalk full of glory. Reeves.
10. Finale. P. Calais, Jr., Director.

—Mr. Hadden Eastman, an adopted son and nephew of Mr. Chase Cole, died at the residence of Dr. Cragin on Pleasant street, at 7 o'clock on last Sunday evening, of consumption, aged 22 years and 11 months. He returned home from California and Mexico about a year ago in feeble health, since which time he has been gradually failing and on Sunday evening the end came peacefully and without a struggle. He had attended to business in the city regularly all summer and on Saturday went in as usual, although he felt it might be the last time and that he had but a short while to live. He was a young man of good habits, pleasant disposition, and well liked by all. Funeral services were held on Monday evening at the house by Rev. Mr. Westall, and the remains were taken to New Hampshire for burial on Tuesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Cole.

—Mr. A. A. Person of this place took his departure last Wednesday for the "Happy Man's Retreat" on Revere Beach where he has spent his vacation for the last three years with great pleasure and comfort. He carried with him his two tents, cooking utensils, bedding, and other necessary things for a camping out of three weeks, and if he don't have a good time he will fail in his calculations. Mr. Person occupies the retreat all alone—that is to say when he is not entertaining company—and enjoys it. All Woburn give him a call when they go to Revere Beach and partake of his hospitality. He evidently knows how to enjoy life, and kindly invited the editor of the JOURNAL to enjoy it with him.

—Mr. Sparrow Horton took an excursion on the Empire State last Tuesday and did not get back quite as soon as he expected to, for with the other 599 passengers on board he was obliged to stay out all night on account of the fog. Instead of pushing through the Empire State early in the evening anchored in the road where she remained until morning and then came up to the city with friend Horton on board safe and sound. There were three collisions inside of ten minutes early Tuesday evening caused by the dense fog that has been experienced in the harbor for years, but no person was injured although a good many were considerably frightened. The John Brooks, the Portland boat, ran into the Rose Standish, also into the Twilight, and in turn the Twilight collided with the Stamford. We have not heard whether there were Woburn people on any of the boats or not, but probably there were some.

—The Summer Rambler, the sparkling daily at Old Orchard, printed a racy report of a brilliant hot given at the Ocean House, one of the largest and most popular hostilities at that charming seaside resort, on Wednesday evening of last week. It says the ballroom was filled with elegantly attired dancers and that it was one of the most successful social parties ever given there. Among the toilets worn by the fair ladies worthy of particular notice were, in the words of the Rambler: Miss Gertrude Bickford, Woburn, pink silk, white lace overdress; Mrs. Bickford, Woburn, lavender silk, lace trimmings, natural flowers, diamond ornaments; Mrs. Clewley, Woburn, cream satin, lace trimmings, diamond ornaments; Miss Dodge, Woburn, cream satin, lace sleeves, black gloves, gold ornaments. Mrs. Dodge is also of the party. It seems to have been a very high toned society affair, in which a great deal of wealth, culture and beauty was represented.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held last Tuesday evening. Four members were absent and a bare quorum present.—W. E. Carter appeared and asked for abatement of price of skating rink license.

—The matter was referred to next meeting.—A petition for sidewalk on Elm street, No. Woburn, was referred to Committee on Highways.—On petition of B. & L. R. R. Co. W. T. Litchfield was appointed railroad policeman at the Highland station.—The Merrimack Chemical Co., put in a petition for pay for 12 pairs of rubber boots alleged to have been given out to firemen at the time of the last fire at their works. Referred.—Voted, to increase the salary of the Board of Registrars of Voters from $100 to $200.—Application for special policeman on Rock Avenue referred to Committee on Police.—Voted to recommend the discharge of John Mullen from the Reform School. He is only 14 years old, and was sent there for larceny.

—A meeting of the School Board was held in their rooms on last Wednesday evening at which all the members were present. These meetings being of a star-chamber character representatives of newspapers, being excluded, are unable to get exact reports of all the Board does, but on the whole their reports are pretty accurate. [Right here and now the JOURNAL serves notice on the Board that it will present itself for admittance to their next meeting and if refused rather a warm time will follow. Be it remembered, that the School Committee are only agents, the people are the principals, the principal is always a "bigger man" than the agent, and the JOURNAL is one of the people.]—By a vote of 3 to 1, A. A. Woodbridge, who failed of a reelection to the office of Superintendent of the Schools in Chelsea, was elected Superintendent of the Woburn schools. [How does that strike the friends of education of this town? Chelsea rejects Woodbridge after trying him one year, comes to Woburn and hires Mr. Davis, and Woburn humbly takes up with the discarded Chelsea Superintendent! That's progress, with a nub to it!]

—It was voted by the Superintendent $1,500 a year [$800 less than was paid Mr. Davis although some of the committee wanted to pay Chelsea's rejected Superintendent $1,800.]—Amanda Sevens and Nellie A. Han-

—Which means that the Cambridge papers are not what Cress's who should be—above suspicion. It is said that Mr. Fox is putting out his money for the nomination very freely, and has said that he means to buy it if he can't get it any other way; but we do not believe that any of it finds its way into the hands of the Cambridge editors. They are too upright for that, and besides, they don't need the money.

—Mr. Bruce of Somerville evidently favors the nomination of Mr. Hayden if he can't get it. He was too slow in getting down from the fence. And then, he is not big enough for Congress, anyhow.

—A leading Republican of the District, not a Hayes man, said the other day that Mr. Hayes had already virtually secured the nomination and that Fox might as well throw up the sponge now as by and bye.

—They all say Mr. Fox cannot command the Republican vote of Cambridge and it is very doubtful if he can secure a Fox delegation to the Convention from his own home. He is not known generally over the District, and those acquainted with him wonder that he should be thought of as a Congressional candidate.

Call for Republican State Convention.

The Republicans and all other voters of Massachusetts who intend to support the Republican candidates, both state and national, are invited to send delegates to a state convention to be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1884, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for various state offices to be filled at the November election, and two presidential electors at large. Each town and each ward of a city is entitled to one delegate, and also one additional delegate for every 800 votes, and for every fraction as large as 100, cast for Republican presidential electors in 1880. In order that a complete list of delegates may be prepared by the secretary, all caucuses for the election of delegates must be held at least one week before the day of the convention.

Admission to the hall will be by ticket, and each delegate must be provided with a credential bearing only his own name. The ante-rooms of Tremont Temple and the Republican headquarters, No. 3 Park street, will be open for the use of delegates during the day and evening of Sept. 2. By order of the Republican State Committee.

was elected teachers. [Although dropped at the 4th of July meeting of the Board.] Bartlett, Aldrich and Johnson, Committee on Repairs, etc., were directed to act with the Committee of the Board of Selectmen in purchasing fuel.—Meeting adjourned to Monday evening next. [The meeting was one of the most intensely partisan ever held by a Woburn School Board, and will be thoroughly ventilated in due season by the JOURNAL.]

The Senatorship.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS:

The time is near at hand when you will be called upon to select a candidate for the Senate of 1885. Since 1859 the Republicans have elected Senators from the following towns, viz: from Woburn, five years; Winchester, four; Wakefield, four; Reading, four; Stoneham, four; Billerica, two; and Melrose, two; leaving Bedford, Burlington, No. Reading, Wilmington and Tewksbury not represented. Now these ignored towns are always Republican, if we except Burlington in a few instances. Indeed, in some elections these towns have been left out the District would have been Democratic. Now, we ask, why should not these constant Republican towns have a representation say, once in twenty-five years providing they name a proper person for the office?

The Republicans of Tewksbury ask your suffrages for a good and true man for the Senate of 1885, one who has lately had two years experience in the House of Representatives and each year was an efficient member of the Finance Committee—a member constant in his attendance, careful, sound and reliable: We present the name of Enoch Foster, of Tewksbury for the office of Senator for the Sixth Middlesex District of Massachusetts as a man well qualified, and a Christian gentleman.

It has been said that no one can appeal to individuals and town committees. This we think an unjust assertion, and we hope when the Senatorial Convention is held you will prove by your choice this statement false, and nominate one who will honor the office and take who will prize it all the more if obtained without personal solicitations.

In behalf of Tewksbury Republicans.
OLIVER R. CLARK.

FIRM DISCLOSURE.

Among our exchanges, the Somerville Journal and the Woburn Journal are inclined to the support of Hayes for Congress. If Fox money was a little less plenty, we judge that there are other papers which would lean the same way.—Waltham Record.

Which means that the Cambridge papers are not what Cress's who should be—above suspicion. It is said that Mr. Fox is putting out his money for the nomination very freely, and has said that he means to buy it if he can't get it any other way; but we do not believe that any of it finds its way into the hands of the Cambridge editors. They are too upright for that, and besides, they don't need the money.

—Mr. Bruce of Somerville evidently favors the nomination of Mr. Hayden if he can't get it. He was too slow in getting down from the fence. And then, he is not big enough for Congress, anyhow.

—A leading Republican of the District, not a Hayes man, said the other day that Mr. Hayes had already virtually secured the nomination and that Fox might as well throw up the sponge now as by and bye.

—They all say Mr. Fox cannot command the Republican vote of Cambridge and it is very doubtful if he can secure a Fox delegation to the Convention from his own home. He is not known generally over the District, and those acquainted with him wonder that he should be thought of as a Congressional candidate.

Call for Republican State Convention.

The Republicans and all other voters of Massachusetts who intend to support the Republican candidates, both state and national, are invited to send delegates to a state convention to be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1884, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for various state offices to be filled at the November election, and two presidential electors at large. Each town and each ward of a city is entitled to one delegate, and also one additional delegate for every 800 votes, and for every fraction as large as 100, cast for Republican presidential electors in 1880. In order that a complete list of delegates may be prepared by the secretary, all caucuses for the election of delegates must be held at least one week before the day of the convention.

Admission to the hall will be by ticket, and each delegate must be provided with a credential bearing only his own name. The ante-rooms of Tremont Temple and the Republican headquarters, No. 3 Park street, will be open for the use of delegates during the day and evening of Sept. 2. By order of the Republican State Committee.

Political Items.

The New York Times does not condemn the fusion of the Democrats and Greenbackers in Iowa and the proposed fusion in Michigan on Electoral tickets.

The Democratic candidate for Secretary of State in England held the office as long ago as 1842. He is now nearly 70 years of age. "Few dies and none resigns," was Jefferson's complaint years ago.

The Democratic politicians at Albany, according to a dispatch to the New York Times, admit that on the surface the political situation seems decidedly favorable to the Republicans, but they look for a Democratic revival by-and-by.

A New York paper says that less money will be put into this campaign than has been used for years. This statement was based upon the report that ex-Governor Tilden had subscribed $5000 instead of $50,000.

"This is undeniably an international election," writes an Irish-American voter in Manchester, N. H.—"a fight between England and America. Shall English diplomacy always overreach Irishmen?"

A private letter from Omaha, Neb., to a Journal correspondent in Maine states that there are four Blaine and Logan Clubs in that city, numbering from five hundred members upward. One of them is composed entirely of Irish-Americans. All are still growing.

A little over a year ago the New York Times said of Gov. Cleveland:

In other words, Gov. Cleveland is willing to swindle the architects of the Capitol out of money which the State owes them for work done for the State, in order to gain a reputation as a reformer. This is about the cheapest and swiftest trick even of this very low-priced statesman.

Gov. Cleveland's letter of acceptance removes the fear of many Republicans, namely, that he would retire from the ticket. The Democrats can now enter the campaign, which heretofore in Massachusetts has been managed for the Democratic ticket by the few young men constituting the Independent managers.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

[From James G. Blaine's Letter of Acceptance.]
"The Republic should never accept a lesser duty, it can never assume a nobler one, than the protection of the humblest man who owes its loyalty—protection at home and protection which shall follow him abroad, into whatever land he may go upon a lawful errand."

AT THE CAUCUS.

It is contended by some that persons who have hitherto voted the Republican ticket but intend to vote against Blaine and Logan next November, or at least not to vote for them, have a right to participate in caucuses held by Republicans for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State and other conventions. The absurdity of the position is apparent at a glance. We do not believe any attempt will be made by the handful of Woburn "independents" to press such a claim on the Republican caucus to be held next Monday evening. It requires no argument to show that no man who has made up his mind to oppose the election of Blaine and Logan can properly have a voice in a Republican caucus in which the primary steps are taken towards placing a Republican electoral ticket in the field. The bare idea of the thing is utterly preposterous. If these men were allowed to participate in the primaries it would be possible for them to rule the State convention and choose Democrats for electors! Again take the case of a gentleman in this town who we understand argues that "independents" should be admitted to the caucuses: Two years ago he voted for Morse, the Democratic candidate for Congress; is it not fair to presume that, if allowed to participate in the caucus, with a sufficient backing of votes, he would send a delegation to the Republican Congressional convention in favor of Morse? A man may call himself a Republican but that does not make him one. Voting is what fixes his position in or out of a party, and it is strangely absurd to say that a person who will vote against the principal candidates on the Republican ticket is a Republican entitled to speak and vote in Republican meetings.

FOR COUNCILLOR.

The Republican nomination last year for Councillor in this District rightfully belonged to Hon. A. B. Coffin of Winchester. By means which we do not care to mention but which are very well understood he was unjustly defeated in the convention and another man nominated. The candidate was badly beaten at the polls, and mainly because the feeling was strong in the District that Mr. Coffin should have had the place. Had Mr. Coffin been nominated he would have been elected by a handsome majority. This fact should be strongly emphasized—the nomination of Mr. Coffin would have been followed by an election and the Republicans of the Sixth District would have had a member of their own party instead of a Democrat in the Governor's family this year.

Mr. Coffin was the real candidate of the people last year, but the politicians beat him in convention. Too late the District saw the error it had committed. Now, the proposition is to present the name of Hon. A. B. Coffin in the Councillor convention again this year and insist on his nomination. In any view of the case that can be taken it belongs to him. He should have a unanimous vote of the convention, and we believe he will receive it. Nothing need be said of Mr. Coffin's superior fitness for the place. He is well known throughout the District, and all concede that there is no man in it worthier of confidence and support than he.

THE SENATORIAL QUESTION.

The conclusion is inevitable from a careful study of the field that Woburn, on the score of locality, is fairly entitled to the Senator for this District this fall. The figures to prove this statement are easily obtainable and we refer the reader to them rather than to needlessly lumber up this paragraph. The Republicans of our town, having arrived at this conclusion, and feeling that the position they take is entirely tenable, have selected a candidate for the honorable position whose name they will present to the convention, and whose nomination they will employ all fair and just means to secure. They think they will have the right to ask the convention in all confidence to vote for their candidate and choose him. We can assure Republicans of the other towns composing the senatorial District that the gentleman selected by Woburn is entirely worthy of their support: that he is a sound Republican and always has been: clearheaded and cleanhanded: a man who commands the respect and confidence of this community: a gentleman by instinct and education, and one who would take care of the interests of the District in the Senate, and prove an honor to his constituency. Such is our candidate, and we shall insist on his nomination.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The convention of Republicans of the Fifth District to nominate a candidate for Congress will be held in Wesleyan Hall, Boston, on Tuesday, September 9th, next.

¶ We are at something of a loss to discover wherein the investigation and report of Rev. Mr. Twining on the Cleveland scandal affords pleasure and comfort to our neighbor, the Woburn Advertiser. The Reverend investigator does not say the reports of the scandal are false, but that the mitigating circumstances are sufficiently strong to warrant his support of the Democratic candidate. On this identical report the N. Y. Independent, of which Rev. Mr. Twining is one of the editors, solemnly declares that it will not give Cleveland its countenance and aid in the campaign, and formally takes back every good word it has ever said in its favor. The honorable and high-minded course of the Independent in forever discarding Cleveland is the hardest blow the Democracy have yet received in the campaign. In its anxiety to print something commendatory of its candidate our esteemed neighbor, the Advertiser, has in this instance put his foot in it.

¶ At the Republican caucus held by the Quincy Republicans last Tuesday evening the kickers, led by brother Faxon, were most emphatically sat down on. By a unanimous vote of those who will support the Republican ticket this fall they were excluded from all participation in the work of the caucus. Presenting themselves there was a brazen-faced piece of business, and the summary and emphatic manner in which their claim to participate in the caucus was disposed of was the proper thing to do. After the excluded gentlemen left the hall Faxon announced his willingness to serve as a gubernatorial candidate for the prohibitionists if anybody asked for it. If he should be a candidate somebody may take it into his head to run Daniel Pratt, the G. A. T., against him and beat him.

¶ The presentation of Mr. Fox for the Congressional nomination by the Cambridge papers does not meet with general approbation among the Republicans of Cambridge. They say Mr. Fox is as much of a Democrat as Republican, and that among his warmest supporters are leading Bourbons of that city. Naturally straight, sound Republicans stand in fear of such a man for their candidate, and do not take kindly to one whose best friends are to be found in the camps of the enemy. We suppose the truth to be that Mr. Fox is not strong with the Republican party of Cambridge.

P. S. The Republicans beat him in the caucuses.

¶ Last week the Republicans of Waltham held a caucus and chose a delegation to the Congressional convention held for Hon. Francis B. Hayes. Mr. Fox stood no show at all in the caucus, and Waltham is in a position to know what his qualifications for Congress are.

¶ The Arlington Advocate is respectfully informed that it is not the support of Mr. Fox for Congress that the JOURNAL fears will prove disastrous to it, but the company which such work necessitates. See the point, eh?

Republican Caucus.

The Republicans of Woburn, and all other voters of Woburn who intend to support the Republican candidates, both State and National, are requested to be present at a caucus to be held at Republican Headquarters, 204 Main Street, Woburn, Monday evening, September 1st at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State, District, County, Councillor and Senatorial Conventions, for the election of a Republican Town Committee for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may legitimately come before said meeting.

Republican Town Committee.

E. F. WYER, Chairman,
Edward F. Johnson, Secretary.

Notice.

Members of the Blaine and Logan Battalion and all others who desire to become members are requested to meet at the Republican Headquarters, Friday evening, Aug. 29, at half past seven o'clock.

Per order Com.

—McDonald has the "Bernice" coal.

—Mr. Richard Carter and family are rusticated at Northfield, Vt.

—J. B. McDonald fills all orders for coal promptly and cheap.

—Mr. A. A. Brooks was at Hotel Everett, Old Orchard, last week.

—"A Notice to Women" will be published in the JOURNAL next week.

—Jenkins' Hardware store will be up to the times this winter and a good place to trade.

—For first-class coal at the lowest prices purchasers should leave their orders with Mr. J. B. McDonald.

—Mr. Joseph Kelley advertises a good iron safe with combination lock for sale in this paper.

—Mr. W. E. Carter, proprietor of the Montvale Rink, has a card in this paper to which attention is called.

—Munroe & Newton are filling the bins of our citizens with coal at bottom prices.

—The family of Mr. Ward W. Hart are at So. Dartmouth. He is now visiting them there.

—Coal, wood, lumber, lime, etc., can be had at Munroe & Newton's in any quantity and low figures.

—Mr. Henry F. Davis, of J. T. Freeman & Co., is having a good time down on the Kennebec.

—Munroe & Newton are selling a great deal of coal these days, and everybody is satisfied with their prices.

—Last Saturday evening the Rumfords played a game of polo with the Nantasketers at Nantasket Beach.

—We like to see the knots of politicians battling each other on the streets. It is a sign that the political pot is boiling.

—Paine's Furniture Manufacturing Establishment in Boston should be visited by all who are about to purchase new furniture.

—Walter Richardson and Herbert L. Frampton have purchased the large and prosperous laundry of Richardson & Brothers at Pawtucket, R. I.

—Last Tuesday Ashbee put on a new coupe as a public carriage to compete with Leeds's herbie. It is a nice vehicle especially in stormy weather.

—Leonard Thompson, Esq., will please accept our thanks for a copy of the Eastport (Me.) Sentinel. He is basking in the delights of "Away Down East."

—Mr. A. C. Floyd of the Treasury Department, Washington, returned to Woburn a few days since with a sick child which the change has greatly benefited.

—Rev. Mr. Fisk and wife are attending the Methodist camp-meeting this week at Old Orchard. They left last Monday morning and will return to-morrow.

—Mr. Joseph Kelley of this town has been a subscriber to the Exeter (N. H.) News-Letter more than 50 years. Few, if any men can show a record equal to that.

—Mr. J. B. McDonald keeps all ways on hand large stocks of all kinds of coal, wood, lumber, lime and everything else kept in a first-class establishment of the kind.

—Miss Mary A. Richardson, teacher in the Cummings school, and one of the very best of the Woburn corps, is spending her vacation at Gurnett Point near Plymouth.

—Woburn has an intensely Democratic town government and a tax rate of $20.00 on a thousand.—[Arlington Advocate.] A fair exemplification of cause and effect.

—The Webster Polo team, having perfected its organization, would like to hear from the Woburn and Wakefield clubs. Address M. J. Barry, 17 Pearl Street, Boston.

—The Boston & Lowell began running trains to and from Nashua last week, via the Nashua, Acton & Boston road, and the Fitchburg trains to Nashua were discontinued.

—The National Band gave a prime concert on the Common last Wednesday evening which was listened to by a great crowd of people. The cornet solo by J. Collins was particularly fine.

—Our neighbor, Mr. G. F. Jones, attended the Butler meeting in Boston last Saturday and put his shoulder to the boom with the rest of them. He says the woods are full of Butler voters.

—The public schools of this town will open for the fall term on Monday, September 8. The vacation has been quite a long one, and pupils and teachers will be all the fresher for work.

—The Woburn Brass Band will give its last open-air concert for the season this evening. The series has been abridged somewhat on account of the risks for which this and the National Band play.

—It is a fact that Carter's rink will open permanently for the season next Monday. Munroe & Newton think it too early to open, but may conclude to do so at the same time, namely September 1.

—Travel over the Boston & Lowell Railroad to the White Mountains is now at its height. The largest business of the season was done the past week, the travel to and from the mountains being nearly equal.

—Flies are bothering us and other people a good deal now days. Horses too come in for a large share of their attention. Flies are not pleasant creatures to have around at any time, but in late summer they are a pest very hard to put up with and at the same time preserve a serene temper. Bald headed people do not like flies very well.

—Miss Wilma F. Thomson, clerk and telegraph operator at Horton's, is enjoying a vacation which she has fairly earned by faithful and acceptable service to the public in the responsible position which she holds.

—Mr. Herbert Parker, book-keeper for Messrs. Munroe & Newton, coal dealers, spent last Tuesday and Wednesday in camp with his old comrade of the "Estey Guards," First Regiment National Guards, at Brattleboro, Vt.

—The alarm of fire yesterday forenoon was caused by the burning of the Onion house, occupied by Mr. Edgan and family at Montvale near the Winchester line. The house was totally destroyed, but most of its contents were saved.

—The Y. M. C. A. will hold meeting on the Common next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to which all are cordially invited. These open-air meetings are doing good. People are made better and happier through their influence.

—It is quite important that there should be a full attendance at the Republican caucus next Monday evening. A town Committee is to be elected, delegates chosen, and other business transacted.

—There is a rumor afloat that the Woburn Polo team will play the Bay States on some evening next week. If these noted teams meet the Bay States must look sharp after their laurels for the Woburns are good ones, and don't you forget it.

—Mr. G. F. Jones is a member of the Butler State organization committee. We hope they will get organized pretty soon so another name may be put beneath Gen. Butler's on the flag which Mr. Jones has thrown to the main street breeze.

—Workmen have commenced excavations for curbing and macadamizing Common street, which is an improvement very much needed. There is a good deal of heavy teaming over that street, and Mr. Salmon has wisely determined to macadamize it.

—Thomas H. Hill was chairman of the Democratic caucus and was placed on the State and County delegations. Dr. Bartlett's name was used so often as a delegate that to look better on paper he was reported as simply George Bartlett in one place.

—We hope Mr. Charles Spear will be re-elected treasurer of the Republican Town Committee for he is prompt, pays the debts of the Committee when due, and is altogether the right man in the right place. We hear that he may decline to serve, but hope not.

—One or more Butler clubs will be organized here within a short time. The friends of the general are in dead earnest and it is our honest conviction that they will out-vote the Cleveland men next November. Mr. Jones's flag across the way means business.

—In this paper we print some particulars respecting the forthcoming Institute Fair in Boston to which we call the attention of our readers. All the arrangements are perfected for a great Fair, the attractions of which will bring thousands of people from all over New England.

—At the 18th annual reunion of the old Ninth Regiment at Oak Island, Revere beach, last week, Mr. Thomas H. Hill of this town was elected Secretary of the organization. At the literary exercises after dinner the same gentleman read a poem in response to the toast "Our Dead Comrades."

—Quealy Court, No. 32, M. C. O. F., went on a picnic to Oak Island, Revere beach, last Saturday and had a very fine time indeed. The day was a delightful one for the occasion, and everything passed off in fine shape. A large company, including some from Winchester, went to the picnic.

—Miss Colburn, on the Lexington road, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, has adopted music teaching as a profession, and has issued circulars giving terms, etc. She is highly recommended by her instructors at the Conservatory, and no doubt will make an efficient and popular teacher.

—Many of our good people who have been spending the summer away among the mountains or at seaside resorts are returning to their homes and inglesides, and the first ten days in September will bring the balance of them. We hope they have all had good times and are better for their vacations.

—There has been more weather again this week. Sunday was a good one for overcoats and coal fires; Monday was but little better; Tuesday it rained great guns, and so on to the end of the chapter. It may be well to observe in this connection that this month's moon, like its predecessor, is a very "wet" one.

—Mr. King, of the large tanning firm of Bryant & King of this place, attended the Republican caucus at Quincy, where he lives, last Tuesday evening, and fought against the admission of the kickers teeth and nail. Good for Mr. King! Irresponsible Democrats had reported that he was opposed to Blaine, but his action in the caucus clearly didn't look much like it, eh? Mr. King is a true-blue Republican and acts accordingly.

—The rapidly increasing demand for the JOURNAL is very gratifying to its proprietor, and speaks well for the intelligence of this community. That the people know a good thing when they see it is evidenced by the high favor in which the JOURNAL is held by them. And still there is room for a few more choice subscribers.

—The reason the Democracy didn't elevate their bunting to the breeze last Tuesday evening as per programme was because there was not cash enough in their exchequer to pay the workmen for the job; and the intelligent workman knows too well what Democratic town committees are to place much confidence in their promises to pay.

—Friend Allen of the Advertiser was very kind to allow us the use of his press to run off the JOURNAL last Friday and Wednesday. Should he ever be so unfortunate as to fall into the hands of a crew of boiler-makers we shall be happy to return the favor. Barring his politics Mr. Allen can fairly be denominated a "white man."

—Messrs. James T. Freeman & Co. have put the steam arrangements of the JOURNAL office into frigate shape this week, and we did not have to mortgage the property to raise money with which to liquidate the demand for their work. With the aid of a couple of experienced Boston boiler-makers Freeman set us on our feet in good shape, and we can recommend his machine shop as A 1.

—The signs point to a large woman vote for School Committee in this town next spring. A few prominent and earnest ladies who have the good of the rising generation at heart are actively engaged in canvassing the town and urging all women to take the preliminary steps to enable them to vote next spring, and we hear that they are meeting with very encouraging success. Ladies, persevere in the good work.

—In conformity with the law Mr. Collector Simonds is now engaged in certifying to the Board of Registrars of Voters the names of all persons who have paid their taxes on the assessments for 1883 and 1884, that they may be registered. It should be understood that in order to be allowed to vote this fall it is necessary that the tax of 1883 shall be paid, and the fact certified to the Board of Registrars by the Collector.

—If John G. Flagg, Jr., Esq., don't succeed as a Democratic missionary better in the future than he did the other evening with the Democrat referred to in another item he will not succeed in holding his party together very well this fall. A good many of his former political associates seem to be on the run for the other camp and if brother Flagg don't whoopier up lively there won't be enough of his party left to bury the dead.

—Prof. Gardner delivered a temperance lecture to a large audience in the First Congregational church last Sunday evening. Dr. March presided and Rev. Mr. Westall, pastor of the Unitarian church, made the prayer. Prof. Gardner is a veteran lecturer and worker in the cause and has everywhere met with good success. He seems to be earnest in the work, presents the case in a somewhat novel form, and is worthy of the confidence and support of temperance people.

—The Woburn Brass Band will wind up the season with the following:

PROGRAMME:
1. March, Blue Bells of Scotland. Rehebe
2. Selection. Rehebe
3. Cornet Solo. Selected.
T. H. MARRINAN.

4. Waltzer. Trinity College. Musical
5. Monastery. Bells, by request. Wiley
6. March. Concert. Weigand
7. Medley. Plantation Memories. Cortano
8. Andri Polka. Characteristic. Parlow
9. Schottische. Pretty Mamie. Prechtel
10. Finale. Strauss
T. H. MARRINAN, Conductor.

—The untimely death of this week of timber advertised to indulge in a couple of flag-raising last evening in honor of Cleveland and Hendricks. One was, if the programme was carried out, which, not being very much interested in Democratic affairs the JOURNAL can't positively say, thrown out at the Highland station or thereabouts, and for the other the lines were stretched from somewhere back of Peter Kenney's tavern to the Liberty-pole—a very good place. They had better saved their money and not squandered it in bunting which will do them no good.

—Already autumnal premonitions are witnessed all around us. The days are "hastening to a shorter span;" the twilights are briefer; and the diurnal periods for sleep are lengthening out. The stillness of night is broken by the discordant raspings of the cricket and other autumnal small game; the morning air is crisp with frost on its teeth; and here and there in the forest glimpses of the "sere and yellow leaf" are caught. We are nearing the close of the last summer month; next Monday will witness the advent of fall; soon, all too soon, bleak winter will wield its sceptre over the earth, and so mote it be.

—Miss S. Jessie Waters of this town has been elected teacher of one of the best schools in No. Andover, at a salary considerably in excess of that paid her. She will enter on her pedagogical duties next Monday and discharge them successfully and to the satisfaction of her employers, as there can be no doubt. Miss Waters was one of the best teachers in the Woburn schools last year and holds Mr. Superintendent Davis's certificate to that effect. He speaks in the highest terms of her qualifications as an instructor, and parents and pupils of the school she taught last year were clamorous for her return this year. During the present vacation she has had eight applications to teach in prominent schools, but preferred the No. Andover one because it was nearer home than any other. The No. Andover committee have made an excellent choice of teacher in Miss Waters.

—When the untimely descended from their caucuses last Tuesday evening Mr. John G. Flagg, Jr., was seen earnestly laboring with a very respectable Irish-American gentleman who had been in attendance. "But," said the latter, "I don't like Cleveland—his nomination is against the interests of the workmen." "Tut, tut," replied John, Jr., "that won't do; Cleveland is the regular Democratic candidate, and we must all vote for him." "No, sir," says the L.-A., "I cannot conscientiously support him." "But you must," appeals John, Jr., "Shan't do it; I like Butler and if there was any show for him I should vote for the General; but as it is, Mr. Flagg, I shall vote for JAMES G. BLAINE, and don't you forget it." That settled it, and Mr. Flagg dropped his chin on to his throbbing bosom and departed a wiser but sadder man. There are lots of others, Mr. Flagg, in the same boat with our sound headed Irishman as you will find out next November.

—A meeting was held at Republican Headquarters on Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing Blaine and Logan Battalions for the campaign. The meeting was largely attended by young Republicans and others and the enthusiasm was at a high pitch. Steps for forming Battalions were taken and committees to carry out the business were chosen. The young men chose a Recruiting Committee consisting of George C. Conn, Eugene Brooks, Warren Nichols, Harry Marion, J. F. C. Corbett, Frank Perry of No. Woburn, Fred Downs, West Side. They also appointed a Committee on Uniforms consisting of George J. Pindar, H. E. Strout, George C. Conn. The voters chose a Recruiting Committee consisting of C. H. Harding, Charles Osgood, George Simonds, Herbert Richardson, James T. Freeman. Also, a Committee on Uniforms composed of H. E. Strout, George J. Pindar, Charles F. Spear. A meeting will be held on to-morrow, Saturday, evening to receive and act on the reports of these committees.

—A special meeting of the School Board was held on Monday evening last. Chairman Emerson presided. There was a bare quorum present.—It was unanimously voted to admit representatives of the press to the meetings of the Board. Which was a good thing for all concerned.—Nathaniel J. DeLoria and Nathaniel Simonds were appointed janitors.—The following resolution was adopted:

RESOLVED, That we, the School Board of Woburn, do certify that the language attributed to Mr. Moreland as being used by him against Mr. Mulken in opposing his election as Traut Officer on the ground of nationality is unfounded and untrue.—The letter of resignation of Eliza M. Brown, Assistant teacher in the High School, was accepted, and Miss Emma J. Sherburne was appointed to fill the vacancy at a salary of $600.—A petition signed by 75 persons for the appointment of Miss S. Jessie Waters was received and filed.—There were applications for the positions of janitors.—Adjourned to Monday evening of next week.

—Our esteemed friend, Mr. E. Cooper, no longer sells newspapers on the trains between here and the city. He however keeps a full supply of all the dailies on his counters at the depot where customers will be courteously waited on. Mr. Cooper is now nearly 80 years old. His ambition was to sell on the trains until he reached his 80th mile-post on life's highway, but friends thought differently and induced him to leave the business to younger hands. He loves railroads. Besides them, for him there isn't much worth living for. Many years ago, as a locomotive engineer, he took the first engine into Woburn on the B. & L. R. R., and for a great many years was a trusted employee in the machine shops of that corporation. And now as the sunset of life approaches he sits at his newsstand in the depot and looks out on the going and coming of nearly forty trains a day; hears the almost continuous ding-dong of the station bell; sees the crowds of humanity pass and repass; reads the news; chats and chaffs with the small army of train men, and is happy. Long may he live.

—There is a somewhat remarkable diversity of opinion appertaining to the number of people, exclusive of reporters, in attendance on the Democratic caucus in G. A. R. hall last Tuesday evening. The weight of it seems to be in favor of 15 as the number; now and then a man is met who places it as high as 18; and one enthusiastic and not altogether reliable gentleman has been heard to say that there were 25 present, and he would bet money on it. Where so much uncertainty exists in the public mind respecting a question of such gravity the JOURNAL prefers not to commit itself, and therefore declines to express an opinion as to how many attended the caucus. In lieu of this, however, the JOURNAL would call on Mr. Allen of the Advertiser, who, it is understood, always counts the people present at political meetings, especially Republican meetings when they don't happen to be large ones, which is seldom the case, to give the exact number of Democrats which composed their caucus last Tuesday evening. At all events, there were not enough of them to go around, and they were not all Cleveland men either. Jacob Ham was placed on two delegations and his brother Albert on one; Dr. Bartlett was put on two; Thomas Salmon on two; Hon. A. E. Thompson on two, and so on to the end. All of which shows that the Democratic party of Woburn is run by a clique by whom the rank and file are considered of no earthly account. The whole thing was out and dried beforehand by the bosses and the others were invited in merely as a matter of form. How do the rank and file like it?

Over Five Hundred Dollars.

By request we give below the names of persons in Woburn who are assessed for 1884 over $500, and the amount of tax of each:—

The History of the Good Knight, Lord de Bayard, set forth in English, by E. C. Kindersley.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Has "decided" claims upon the public. This is positively proven by the immense good it has done to those who have been cured of diseases from which they have suffered for years, as verified by the published testimonials, every one of which is a positive fact.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: The city of last June was taken sick with a swelling on my right foot, and with an awful pain. The swelling went all over me. My legs were so swollen that I could not get out of bed. I was in great agony. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a few days the swelling began to subside. I took it until I was well. I have since taken it for my blood, and I find it does me good. I have since taken it for my blood, and I find it does me good. I have since taken it for my blood, and I find it does me good.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla has such a sharpening effect upon the appetite. No other preparation tones and strengthens the digestive organs like HOOD'S Sarsaparilla. Price one dollar, or six bottles for five dollars. Prepared only by C.

Nonense! Do nothing silly.

Why not?

Because I do not wish it.

Oh, dear uncle, I beg—

If the girl loves you, and is willing to wait three years—

Three years?

Yes, or I shall stay four.

Oh, uncle!

But not this one, I will have you exchanged into one quartered within a few miles, and you may come for three months every year until the term of probation expires.

What if it must be—But how shall

I know if she loves me?

Why, ask her, of course.

Oh, I should never dare.

Well, then, obey your father, and pack off at once.

Oh, uncle, you do not know Naomi.

A hundred times have I tried to declare my passion to her, but she has refused to listen to me.

But at the moment of speaking my courage wanes, and each word chokes me.

Her expression is so sweet, but yet so grave. The man worthy of her is not yet born! Writing was useless.

When my effusions were penned and ready to be sent, their foolishness struck me so forcibly that I tore them into small pieces.

Nevertheless, you may make up your mind to speak at once. Your father has not told you all; he sends you to Clermont because his friend, the colonel's daughter, is destined to become your bride. It would indeed be a good match—no protestations—all this is as nothing, if you are in love with Naomi. Love is folly—but it is a kind of folly I should regret never having been guilty of. Old people may call it nonsense, is theirs. If the girl loves you, you must sacrifice all for her —his stupid, maybe, but right. We must first ascertain if she loves you, and now is the time, for they seek to marry her. Ah! ah! that makes you shudder and grow pale! You long to have your rival at sword's point, as we used to say in my young days. Well, courage, face your beautiful Naomi.

If you are richer than she, her intended husband is richer than you, besides hands that trembled slightly, drew from an ebony cabinet near by the withered blush of yellow roses.

"Unfasten them, quick!" exclaimed

Monsieur Desondres. And there under the flowers, now almost dead, found the note, where it had lain con-

The Proportion of the Sexes.

One who has been examining the figures says that the United States census brings out the fact that the males outnumber the females in an increasing ratio. In 1870 native born females were in excess of the males by 7,598.

In 1880 the males of American birth were 300,658 more than the females.

The excess of foreign males over females was 581,189, as against 146,657 in 1870. This disproportion among the foreigners is intelligible enough, as there are always more male than female emigrants.

As regards the native population, the solution of the problem is probably that for some time after the war there was an artificial preponderance of females owing to the diminution of the male population by about half a million of soldiers, who perished in the struggle, and that with the growth of a new generation the ordinary proportion between the sexes has been reestablished.

The general rule in other countries is that there are more males born than females, and any local superfluity of females is either to be accounted for by the emigration of males, or the larger proportion of the sterner sex who die prematurely from war, or the accidents attended upon masculine employment.

Ancestral Resemblance.

A recent writer on heredity points out the fact that resemblances will cope out in families after centuries have elapsed. There is a picture of Governor

Winthrop hanging up in the state house.

When ex-Speaker Winthrop took his seat beneath the portrait, everyone was astonished at the resemblance between the old Puritan and his living descendant of our day.

The Hapsburgs, the reigning family of Austria have a series of family portraits extending back six hundred years.

An Inventor's Woe.

Mrs. Mary Stillwell Edison, wife of the inventor, Thomas Alva Edison, died suddenly at her late residence at Menlo

Park, N. J. She was twenty-nine years of age and leaves surviving her three children. The story of her marriage to Mr. Edison, says the New York

Herald, is a singularly strange and romantic one. When he first formed her acquaintance he was about twenty-five years of age. He had just invented the chemical telegraph, by means of which could be transmitted, he claimed, on a single wire 3,000 words a minute. The telegraph, notwithstanding this, however, became subservient to the Morse system. While working on the chemical telegraph he employed several young women to punch the holes in the paper.

Among them was Miss Mary Stillwell.

One day he was standing behind her chair examining a telegraphic instrument.

"Mr. Edison," remarked Miss Stillwell, suddenly turning around, "I can always tell when you are behind me or near me."

"How do you account for that?" mechanically asked Mr. Edison, still absorbed in his work.

"I don't know, I am sure," she quietly answered; "but I seem to feel when you are near me."

"Miss Stillwell," said Mr. Edison, turning round now in his turn and looking at his inventor in the face, "I've been thinking considerably of you of late, and if you are willing to have me,

I'd like to marry you."

"You astonish me," exclaimed Miss

Stillwell, "I never—"

"I know you never thought I would be your wooer," interrupted Mr. Edison, "but think over my proposal, Miss

Stillwell, and talk it over with your mother. Then he added in the same off-hand, business-like way, as though he might be experimenting upon a new mode of courtship:—"Let me know as early as possible, and if you consent to marry me, and your mother is willing,

we can be married by next Tuesday."

This was the extent of Mr. Edison's courtship. It is hardly necessary to add that the highly favored lady laid

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES G. BLAINE,
OF MAINE.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
OF ILLINOIS.

[From James G. Blaine's Letter of Acceptance.]
"The Republic should never accept a lesser duty, it can never assume a nobler one, than the protection of the humblest man who owes it loyalty—protection at home and protection which shall follow him abroad, into whatever land he may go upon a lawful errand."

For Governor—GEORGE D. ROBINSON.
Lieut. Governor—OLIVER AMES.
Secretary of State—HENRY B. PIERCE.
Treasurer, etc.—DANIEL A. GLEASON.
Auditor—CHARLES R. LADD.
Attorney General—EDGAR A. SHERMAN.
Elected at Large—MARK HOPKINS, THOMAS TALBOT.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Last Monday the State election was held in Maine and resulted in the grandest victory for the Republicans that has been won by them for years. Gov. Robie's plurality will reach 19,000—all of 7,000 above the "figures" of the most sanguine Republicans, and 12,000 more than the Democratic estimate. Besides this splendid majority, which means that Blaine will carry the State in November by 25,000, the Republicans elected nearly all the Representatives and Senators, the four Congressmen, and carried all the counties, leaving the Democracy entirely and very uncomfotably out in the cold. In old-fashioned parlance, they were routed, horse, foot and dragon.

As Mr. Blaine stated to his neighbors in Augusta on the evening of the election, this grand victory was won solely on the tariff question, every other being subordinated to that issue. This shows that the people of Maine are alive to the vital interests of the country and can always be depended on to defend them. The Democracy made a desperate struggle to reduce the Republican majority for the effect it would have on other States and the general election. They squandered piles of money and bought votes right and left; but instead of cutting down the Republican figures of four years ago they were largely increased and the Democrats were sorely disappointed.

The glorious result of the Maine election will have great influence in other States and secure Mr. Blaine's triumph in November.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The Republican convention of the Fifth District to nominate a candidate for Congress was held in Wesleyan Hall, Boston, on Tuesday. Hon. Joseph G. Pollard of Woburn was made its President. After several able speeches by distinguished Republicans an informal ballot was taken for a candidate which resulted in 62 for Hon. Francis B. Hayes of Lexington, and 16 for Edward D. Hayden, Esq., of Woburn. On motion of Mr. E. F. Weyer of Woburn the informal ballot was made formal, and Mr. Hayes was declared the nominee of the convention. Hon. Samuel L. Montague of Cambridge was nominated for District Elector. The following District Committee was appointed: Augustus Ross, J. C. Chappelle, George L. Clark, J. L. B. Pratt, Boston; George A. Davis, J. A. Bell, J. C. Driscoll, Leander Greeley, Cambridge; J. A. Cummings, G. C. Rowell, Dr. A. H. Carville, Charles H. Brown, Somerville; C. O. Gage, Arlington; E. F. Weyer, Woburn; Geo. H. Priest, Watertown; Ephraim Stearns and E. P. Smith, Waltham; T. D. Drake, Belmont.

The convention was entirely harmonious and everything passed off pleasantly. Thus the job is done, and Hon. Francis B. Hayes is our candidate for Congress from this District. He is a strong man and will poll more than the party vote. He is popular with the masses who will give him a hearty support. That Mr. Hayes will be elected by a handsome majority there can be no doubt.

DECLINES A NOMINATION.

On Thursday morning last, J. F. Dwinell, Esq., of Winchester sent a letter to the editor of the JOURNAL which contained the following paragraph:
"Desiring to maintain the good feeling that has always existed among the Republicans of the Sixth Senatorial District, and acknowledging that, according to the usual custom, there are other towns in the District better entitled to the nomination than Winchester, I have decided to withdraw my name from the canvass."
(Signed) J. F. Dwinell.

Being a prominent candidate with a strong backing and fair prospects this yielding by Mr. Dwinell to localities having stronger claims to the candidature than Winchester was a very graceful and generous thing to do, for which he will be properly remembered by the Republicans of the District in the future.

The declaration of Mr. Dwinell settles the question in favor of Dr. Harlow, who will receive the nomination on the second ballot, if not by acclamation.

PROHIBITORY STATE CONVENTION.

The Prohibition party of Massachusetts irrespective of sex met in State convention in Tremont Temple, Boston, last Wednesday, to nominate candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and other candidates, and choose a State Committee. The convention was a very large one—much stronger numerically than the prohibitionists themselves had any idea it would be. Several distinguished men and women participated in the proceedings, and an excellent feeling prevailed. President Julius H. Seeley of Amherst College was nominated for Governor, and Henry L. Faxon of Quincy was placed second on the ticket. Presidential electors were also nominated, and a State committee chosen. The convention was a very satisfactory one to the representatives of the party and its action will be heartily endorsed.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Middlesex County will hold their convention for the nomination of candidates for county officers in Insituit Hall, East Cambridge, on Wednesday, October 18, the delegates to which from Woburn are Horace Collamore, George J. Pindar, Howard E. Strout, P. G. Hanson, Fred W. Bosworth, George W. Copp.

Woburn delegates to the Congressional convention last Tuesday reported to this office that Mr. Hayden had many more friends there than showed their hands on the ballot, and if he had begun an aggressive campaign six weeks ago the nomination would have fallen to him. We know it. Two months ago we interviewed Mr. Hayden on the Congressional question with a hope that we might find him prepared to go in and win this year. We know he stands high in the District and had no doubts but that he could get the nomination. But no, he couldn't say whether he would go into the canvass or not, and at no subsequent date could we find out what he proposed to do. He knows that the day has gone by in American politics when men are sought out for candidates on account of their virtues. If the political perfectionists who are now helping the Democrats elect Cleveland ever get the majority in this country we suppose everybody will be elected to office on merit, but that is not the case now, and the man who wants political honors must reach for them. Mr. Hayden seems to entertain ideas contrary to this, hence his putforth no efforts to get the nomination. Now the JOURNAL is no "deadhead" and if Mr. Hayden didn't feel as though his services would be of much account one way or the other other people did, and other people think the JOURNAL had some little influence in shaping the outcome in this District. We should be very glad to work for Mr. Hayden at any time, but we do not propose to stand round and suck our thumbs while somebody else is after the persimmon.

The First District in Maine did a good day's work last Monday when it re-elected Hon. Thomas B. Reed to Congress. This result was very gratifying to every true Republican not in Maine alone but all over the country. The Brunswick bolt, led by that distinguished sore-head Gen. Chamberlain, with Col. Stone of Kennebec for a lieutenant, turned out to be a very insignificant affair after all, as every scheme of the kind engineered by Chamberlain has in the past. He wants the Republicans of the First District to send him to Congress, but they never will, for year by year he is becoming better known and less thought of by the people of Maine. In point of ability and influence Thomas B. Reed stands at the front in the National House of Representatives. He is one of the strongest men of his State. Able, solid and incorruptible he commands the confidence and respect of his constituents, and when the right time comes they will send him to the United States Senate.

The Democratic press say the Republicans were defeated in Maine last Monday because their plurality did not reach all the way from 25,000 to 35,000, according to the standing of the paper, and salary paid to their arithmetic editor. By the same token they claimed that it was a Democratic victory in Vermont last week instead of a Republican one, as the figures seemed to indicate. The Democracy are adepts at figuring Democratic "gains" and Republican losses, especially in the line of per centages; but somehow or other, notwithstanding their brilliant proficiency in this style of mathematics, they some how never succeed in figuring their candidate into the presidential chair. And they will not this year by several sled-lengths.

Somewhere in Lowell is trying to enchain Mr. Coffin out of the nomination for Councillor by unholy bargains and trades, but we do not believe success will crown the effort. Justice and right are too manifest on Mr. Coffin's side to allow mean and underhanded political tricks to prevail. The people of the District propose to be heard in this matter, and the popular voice is for Coffin.

There are no new developments in the Senatorial canvass in this District. Intelligence reaches this office that Harlow's lead is gradually lengthening and that his nomination is as good as assured. This is as it should be. The convention cannot select a better man for the place than Dr. Harlow.

His election would be a credit to the District, and it is gratifying to his numerous personal and political friends in Woburn to be assured that his chances for the nomination are so good.

We are curious to see who the Democrats will nominate to run against Mr. Hayes in this Congressional District. It is rather suspected that Mr. Morse does not hanker after the nomination, but Mr. Andrew would like it, although he wouldn't stand the ghost of a chance of an election. For our own part we would like to see Morse the candidate for there would be more satisfaction in beating him than almost any other Democrat in the District.

The Boston Post is particularly unhappy over the returns from Maine's election. It professes not to be able to see through it—"dazed as it were." One reason why the Post feels so badly over the result is because it is the accepted and honored organ of the Maine Democracy, and has therefore an uncommon interest in their welfare and success.

If it was not such a pitiful sight it would be amusing to see the Democratic newspapers and orators squirm over the returns from the Maine election, and try to explain their size. It is a corker on them.

The State convention of the People's Party (Butler) of Massachusetts will be held at Worcester on September 24th inst.

We would respectfully enquire of the amiable editor of the Woburn Advertiser if he has heard from Maine.

The Salem papers gave the Woburn Polo team very flattering notices last week. Their good playing and gentlemanly deportment elicited highly commendatory paragraphs in those journals.

George Baneroff keeps a very large and choice supply, for family use, of vegetables, melons, fruit, and the best meat of all kinds that the market affords. His sign hangs out at the old Wyer market.

Mr. N. J. Corey, the popular organist at the Unitarian church, has a card in this paper, to which attention is called. We are told that he is an excellent teacher, and never fails to give satisfaction.

Mr. D. H. Richards has placed us under obligations to his generosity for a mess of very fine Bartlett pears. We thank him for them, and also welcome him "home again" from his vacation visit away.

Officer Keen seized two barrels of beer and one jug of whisky from a team driven by Hugh Scanlon of Boston. He had commenced to deliver beer to Woburn dealers and the officer nipped the business in the bud.

C. A. Smith & Son make an important change in their advertisement to which we direct attention. This enterprising firm propose to do business this fall, and are getting a good ready for it. Read their card.

Our public schools opened for the season last Monday morning after a vacation from the 1st of June. They are in good condition now, and we trust they will be no worse off at the end of the school year.

Mr. Eben Davis, ex-superintendent of the Woburn schools, and present superintendent of the Chelsea institutions of learning still remains among us. He will not go to Chelsea to live for some weeks yet probably.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Trafton, with their newly married daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Merrill, left here last Friday for a few days vacation at Bath, Maine. And much pleasure may they enjoy.

Wednesday afternoon John Donavan, from South Boston, died on Baby Hill from the effects of the sun and intoxicating liquor. He was here on a visit with his wife. His body was taken in charge by undertaker Reede.

Mr. J. G. Flagg, Jr. is evidently an admirer of his own literary composition, for we observe that he furnished the Advertiser with a copy of his communication published in this paper. There is nothing like self-appreciation.

If the Janitor Francis were not barred out by the rules of the W. V. I. A. he would surely take the prize for the best kept lawn in town. Nobody will dispute that assertion. The Library lawn has looked splendidly all summer long.

To the many inquiries lodged at these headquarters respecting the time when the B. & L. R. R. Co. propose to begin work on the Branch extension we give this public an explicit reply: The JOURNAL don't know. Nor does it much care.

The weather this week has been just splendid for ripening off the corn and other field crops. They have all had a wonderful growth this summer and needed just the sunshine and heat that have prevailed since September.

The women have only until next Monday in which to pay their poll tax and have their names placed on the voting lists. They should improve the few days left, for their votes will be needed next spring in electing members of the School Board.

Mr. Fred H. Lewis makes his annual announcement in this paper. He is master of the science of music and as a piano and organ teacher has no superior and but few equals. Mr. Lewis is a long-time teacher in the N. E. Conservatory of Music.

Messrs. Copeland, Bowser & Co., are preparing for a large day goods trade this fall. Purchasers are informed that this establishment keeps full lines of dress, fancy, and dry goods, all of the latest styles, which are offered for sale at bottom market prices.

The Republican Town Committee will be in session at Headquarters tomorrow evening and will be glad to meet a goodly number of the brethren there. Republicans will find the Headquarters a pleasant and profitable place at which to spend an evening.

It must be it is the heat that has changed the spring-bud foliage of a few of our village trees to the russet of autumn, for there have been no frosts to sap the life from the verdant leaf and touch it with "the herald of a dying year," that we have heard of.

The man who said that September would be a warmer month than August hit it thus far exactly. He was a true prophet, for the ten or a dozen days of this month now past and gone were the hottest that we ever experienced in the same month before.

By reference to his advertisement it will be seen that Mr. F. S. Burgess has bought the A. E. Thompson stock, the sale of which will begin to-day at 10 o'clock. Everything will be offered at 50 cents on the dollar, and we think there will be a big rush for them.

We have received from J. H. Pray, Sons & Co., Boston, a valuable treatise, entitled "A few facts about carpets," which without reading we know and can truly say must be interesting to the women folks. It contains a great deal of useful information.

We hope the traders of this village will advertise more liberally this fall than ever, and the reason we hope so is because the JOURNAL's pocket-book is as dry as a last year's bird's-nest about all the time. And besides, we want to see the traders flourish.

Furniture. The immense stock of new styles on hand in Chamber, Parlor and Sitting Room Furniture at Paine's 48 Canal St., Boston, should be seen by all our townspeople when they visit that city. We heartily recommend this as a reliable place to trade.

Sunday last was a delicious day and as a consequence the churches in this village were well filled. The heat of the three preceding days had abated; bracing breezes from the west prevailed, and on the whole it was one of the brightest and most comfortable of the season.

On Monday morning last Mrs. Mark Allen presented the editor of this paper with a lovely nosegay composed of rare and beautiful flowers plucked from her garden, for which we felt very grateful, and Mrs. Allen will please accept our thanks for the lifelike bouquet.

We are indebted to Mr. E. Prior for a copy of Living, for the current week. "This is a wisdom that couldn't be fooled," beats anything that Nast has or can produce in Harper's Weekly, and the other illustrations are rough on Cleveland. We thank Mr. Prior for the copy.

We are informed that Mr. Woodbridge, our new School Superintendent, will make his home in Boston for the present. We shouldn't think this important work very well. It is rather important that a Superintendent should identify himself with the people he works for.

Things are tolerably well evened up in the world and there are offsets and compensations. Now, coal and gas bills begin to multiply and increase in size, but the consolation is that the departure, and one about offsets the other. And so it is in almost everything else.

The following item we clip from the Boston Herald of Tuesday morning: "Mr. Elmore Allen Pierce was probably heard in Boston some time in October, in a series of readings, in conjunction with a concert programme by the newly organized Eichberg lady orchestra."

Miss Florence E. Starkey has a card in this paper to which attention is called. She has been for some time a pupil of Mr. Fred H. Lewis of the N. E. Conservatory of Music, by whom she is well recommended. We trust the public will give her a fair share of their patronage.

Last Wednesday's concert by the National Band was postponed to next Wednesday evening on account of the rain. The final one will be given on the following Wednesday evening, which will be followed by a dance, the particulars of which will be given in the next issue of the JOURNAL.

By reference to his card in this paper it will be seen that Sing Lee, a clean looking and intelligent Celestial, has opened a laundry on Union street, where by strict attention to business and giving satisfaction in his work and prices he hopes to secure a fair share of public patronage.

All people "by the name of Hartwell" will hold a reunion on the road midway between Lexington and Concord next Wednesday. It will be held in a big tent pitched in the woods, and if the representative of the family in this town has his way it will be a grand and jolly time.

Finding that the seniors were backward in making political demonstrations the Democratic boys, from five to a dozen years old, have had some torchlight processions lately. Their banners, torchlights, uniforms, etc. were somewhat primitive, and the music was not as sweet as some that have been heard on our streets, but the boys enjoyed it first rate and seemed proud of their display. We like to see them have a good time when it takes the shape of a harmless torchlight procession.

Mrs. Dearborn has applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the Massachusetts Rifle Association from further practice at the Walnut Hill Range. Every season complaint is made to the Woburn Selectmen by the dwellers near the Walnut Hill Range of the lawless acts of the Association, and every year the Association have promised better behavior, but they don't reform, and so Mrs. Dearborn has applied to the Supreme Court for protection of life, limb, and property in the future.

Last Sunday morning shooting at a mark with revolvers began on the shore of Horn Pond about 9 o'clock and was kept up for a couple of hours or so. It disturbed the people on Canal and other streets greatly and was a regular nuisance. The police ought to put a stop to such goings-on.

Those who have not paid their taxes for 1883 will find a * affixed to their names on the published list of voters which will appear in a few days. The publication of the lists will be made this year two months earlier than heretofore nearly, and there is just where a good many tax-payers will get caught.

We print in this issue an interesting article from the N. Y. Scholarship Times on the head stiffening and lower sole factory of Mr. N. J. Symonds in this place, which we believe is the largest establishment of the kind in the country. As concerning a single item in Woburn's large manufacturing industries the article will interest the public.

A change has been made in the hour for organizing a class in dancing by Mrs. L. J. Chandler of Cambridgeport, on October 1st next, namely, to 5 to 7 o'clock instead of 3 to 5. This is done to accommodate the pupils in our schools. The adult class will meet as per card in another place in this paper. Please remember this change.

We have not heard a single dissenting voice to the general verdict that the nights this week have been the most uncomfortable and sleep-preventing of any heretofore known in the history of the country. There is a remarkable unanimity of sentiment on this point, and to the general aggregation of evidence we respectfully add our testimony.

Will the editor of the Advertiser, the organ of the Woburn Democracy, be so kind as to furnish to the editor of the JOURNAL, for private perusal, a few of the names of the fifty bolting Republicans in Woburn, and thus fill a long felt want? He is at liberty, ay, we invite him to give some or all of the names, with days and dates, if convenient for him to do so.

Everybody has maintained that it has been the hottest week that was ever known in September, and they say what everybody says must be true. The mercury didn't make anything running up to 97 in the shade by 10 o'clock A. M., and perching there above all day long. It has been something more than a scorcher—melter comes nearer the mark.

A White Mountain tourist writing to the Boston Globe says: "A pilgrim age to Mr. Benjamin Champney's studio, which he has occupied for thirty years at North Conway, is the proper thing for all guests sojourning there." In late autumn Mr. Champney returns to his snug, pleasant home in Woburn, re-opens his studio in Boston, and goes to work on his portfolio of sketches, and—is happy.

Atmospheric conditions have been somewhat unfavorable for solid comfort at the skating rinks this week. Violent exercise in stifling enclosures can hardly be classed among the delights of recreation when the mercury is persistently hovering well up among the 90's, which has been the condition of things since Monday. Hence, for a guess, we should say the rinks have not been heavily attended this week.

The Christian people were disappointed in losing the annual State convention of the Y. M. C. A. which is to be held at New Bedford instead of Woburn. The citizens had responded cheerfully and generously on the score of entertainment, as they had hoped the convention would come here; but better hotel accommodations at New Bedford won the day, and Woburn will be obliged to wait a year or so longer for it.

Woburn Locals.

— Boat-racing on Horn Pond has become a prominent feature of the athletic sports of our town. Frequent races take place on that delightful sheet of water which are largely attended by people interested in the sport. Last Saturday afternoon there was a notable and exciting race which was witnessed by several hundred spectators, and others will be rowed before the close of the season. At all hours during the day and evening numerous sail and row boats are to be seen on the pond filled with pleasure parties and contestants for prizes. Women and children as well as men and boys indulge in the pleasant pastime.

— Last Tuesday evening the Republican young men's Battalion held a meeting at Republican Headquarters and named the Battalion the "Hayes Cadets" in honor of Hon. Francis B. Hayes, the Republican candidate for Congress in this District. At the present time the company numbers rising 75 members and will probably reach twice as many within a few days. They showed excellent taste and judgment in the selection of a name, and we have no doubt Mr. Hayes will highly appreciate the honor. The Battalions will do good and effective work during the campaign. The Voters' Battalion is also flourishing.

— We humbly confess to a paucity of local news in the Journal this week. If our readers want to find fault they must do so—we couldn't help it. For days and all day long the thermometer right here in this sanctum has registered 90 degrees of as sticky weather as ever laid out doors, and as the greater part of the Journal's locals are composed in this room the indulgent lover of home doings and happenings can see at a glance the difficulties we have labored under, and will be free to excuse our shortcomings in this respect. We have done the best we could under the very trying circumstances, and it is little enough we have accomplished mercy knows.

— The Peoples' Party has made a big hole in the ranks of Woburn Democrats. Some say there were 250 voters at the caucus of that party in G. A. R. Hall last Monday evening, and nobody sees the number less than 200. These were from the Democratic camp almost to a man, and the stampede presents an ominous outlook for the Democrats of this town. There are a plenty of good, sensible men who claim that the Butler will exceed the Cleveland vote here next November, and it would surprise nobody who has the eyes to see, the ears to hear, and the capacity to think, if such should be the case. The out-looks look mighty dismal and gummy these days. Their Cleveland flags don't seem to count.

— Nothing is more important to the community than that its supply of milk should be pure. The State Board of Health have made tests of milk throughout the Commonwealth, and they find it largely adulterated at the farms, and in many cases very much so. If such is the case what can be expected of the milk when it reaches the consumer? The Board did a good thing when they took notice of the matter and appointed an inspector of milk, and if the people of our town are having supplied them an impure article they will know it. Recently tests have been made of Woburn milk, of course unknown to the dealers, and the result warranted prompt action in having the whole matter investigated.

— An anonymous writer complains strongly of the state of affairs on Rag Rock Avenue since Michael Feeney and John McDevitt have been licensed to sell liquor there. The writer says these men keep low, vile places which are the daily resort of young men and boys as well as the old soakers, and that the former are being rapidly ruined. He says they (young boys) are lying out drunk here and there almost every night in the week and all day Sunday. They keep coming and going and drinking beer out in the field, and then to finish up it almost always ends in a fight. The writer complains bitterly of the terrible work these rumblers are doing among the boys of Rag Rock and vicinity, and on the other side of the to do their duty. Such things ought not to be, but alas, rum is the curse of the family and the world.

— Last Wednesday afternoon while perambulating about town and taking in the sights as is our custom periodically, just as the village clocks announced in silvery tones the hour of 3, and the mercury stood at 97 in the shade, we struck the Democratic Headquarters in the Fox Block, this burg. The room was unoccupied of course, for since nearly all the Democrats have deserted to the Butler standard and enrolled themselves in the People's Party the Democratic Town Committee have but little business to attend to and the evenings afford ample time to do it in. Though it was 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the room bore evidence, internal and external, of recent occupation. The door stood partially ajar; the floor was dirty and the furniture in great disorder; the sill of one window bore unmistakable signs of recent sea-sickness of some one or more of the occupants; and the gas was burning as brightly and bravely as though the darkness of night prevailed! The scene furnished food for reflection. Not very heavy drafts on the imagination need be necessary to a "tale unfold" that would be "mighty interesting reading" for the public. The gas of the night before still brightly shined! That window still with its evidence of "internal" commotion among the attendants! The unlooked door! The condition of the cupboards and chairs! But we decline to give our pencil license to indulge in reflections on this strange and unusual scene.

RINK NOTES: On Wednesday and Thursday evenings there were grand exhibitions to not very big houses at the Olympian by Battery and Hacker, the Westbrook Brothers and Master Hiram the Midget. The performances were unique and splendid, and deserved better patronage.—On Tuesday a fine exhibition was given at the Academy by Master Bert Rodgers, and Prof. Robinson.—The Salons and Woburn will play a return game of polo at the Academy next Thursday evening.—The Olympian will not open permanently until the excessive heat abates.

Miss Nettie Coffin is a pupil in the State Normal School at Salem.

The Star says "A. B. Coffin is foremost in the Councilor race."

The Star's Butler's organ in this place, and "gets more cusses than coppers."

The military glory of Gen. Corse is being slightly eclipsed by his political vagaries.

Miss Louisa Holman Richardson, of Mount Vernon, is visiting the White Mountains.

Mrs. A. S. Hall is, it is said, dangerously sick at the country town where she is stopping.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting on this, Friday, afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Livingstone Hall.

Last Saturday the wife Leonard Nutter died after a long and painful illness. The funeral took place on Tuesday.

Miss Helen Joy of Winchester has been elected assistant in the Providence High School, and will pass the winter in that city.

Politics always kicks up a muss here, spring and fall. Our town is evidently blessed with too many prominent and aspiring politicians.

The Unitarian church gave their annual dinner with a reception at the vestry on Wednesday evening, accompanied with coffee and cake.

Voters will do well to read the "Notice" published in this paper by the Board of Registrars of Voters and give heed to the same. It is important that all names be registered.

Excepting the Republican the Butler organization is the liveliest political affair in town. The Butler Club is increasing rapidly and Swan is "raising h—l" right along every day.

The delegates to the Prohibitory State Convention held in Boston last Wednesday were Dr. H. A. Hubbard, Sumner Richardson, J. G. Hemminger, Alexander McKenzie, Cyrus Butters, all of whom attended except the first named.

Charlie Conant still sticks to the Board of Registry of votes. But he was honorable about it and sent in his resignation which was declined by the Board. Charlie is a right down good fellow, but has gone a little astray politically this year.

Judge Geo. S. Littlefield is talked of as the Republican candidate for Representative to the Legislature from this District composed of Winchester and Arlington. There is not much doubt but that he will be the nominee if his friends are not greatly mistaken. He would make a strong candidate and a good Representative.

Gen. Corse is trying to get up a big mass meeting of veterans of the War of the Rebellion who will vote for Cleveland. He don't meet with much success, for the woods are not very full of Democratic veterans. The Democrats almost all remained at home and giggered back in the breeding and howled under Uncle Abe's call.

At the last meeting of the School Board, the following changes in text books were made:—Seudder's History of the United States, in place of Quackenbush and Swinton's Primary Geography in place of Guyot's; Payson, Dutton and Scribner's writing books in place of the Duttonian series. The boundaries of the Wymann and Mystic school divisions were changed, so as to include in the latter that part of the town lying west of the Boston & Lowell Railroad and bounded by Bacon, Church, and Central streets. All the schools were re-opened last Monday.

Some difficulty has been experienced in carrying out the provisions of the free text book law from a misunderstanding of them on the part of parents and teachers.—Cor. Woburn Advertiser.

I believe the Republicans here think there is not much doubt but that Mr. Coffin of this place will get the nomination for Councilor. Ignorant friends who are putting in two ticks for themselves to one for Coffin may succeed in beating him as they did last year; but if he can keep them down where they belong and let the canvass take its legitimate course he will be nominated in the convention. Some of our local Republican politicians think to be "smart" in politics there must be trading and dickering and great secrecy and wise winks and knowing nods and cautious combinations and crooked counsels: I don't think so! I think good, above-board honesty wins in politics just the same as it does in business, and though the other thing may succeed once or twice it is doomed in the end. A tricky tradesman may flourish for a short time, but in the long run "honesty is the best policy," and he'll find it so.

week, on account of the painting of the school house.

There was a fishing party last Saturday, composed principally of Burlington people. They went to the fishing ground off the coast of Marblehead and had a fine time.

Last Friday night, the house belonging to Otis Simonds in the west part of the town was entered and a number of articles stolen. A party of young men, returning from the river, where they had been bathing, saw a light in the house, which was unoccupied. In a few moments a man came out, whom they recognized as a person who lived near. He was followed to his home but managed to slip away, before any one came to arrest him. Chief of Police Conn was put on his track, but failed to find him. He is probably still secreted in the vicinity. He has a wife and five children, and has been living here only a few weeks. He was formerly employed on the road but was discharged, last week, on account of disputing his time and offering violence to the Superintendent.

For the Journal.

Considerably Off The Track.

Brother Hobbs of the Journal seems to be a real old-fashioned campaigner, one of the Tippecanoe and Tyler too kind. He calls upon his party to make a rattling campaign. He evidently reads the fate of the man from Maine, in the hand writing upon the wall, and he raises the war cry for his party to "push things," while he "paints the town red." The music of the Cleveland advance was heard among the green hills of Vermont, and as it resounded among the hills and valleys of the Pine Tree State told that the Democratic army is in motion. Push things, Bro. Hobbs, for, although your lines waver under the heavy attacks of the Cleveland battalions, you have still a fighting chance left. The Democratic hosts have taken up their line of march across the continent, and although they are aware that around the but of the lone trapper of the Sierras the prairies are on fire for the man from Maine ("our Henry of Nevada"). Still they are marching on, strong in the faith that the government of the fathers is about to be restored to them.

J. G. FLAGG, JR.

REMARKS.

When he wrote the above we rather guess our esteemed brother Flagg, Jr. had not heard the news from Maine. He wasn't looking for 19,000 plurality in Maine's home State for the Republican candidate. The esteemed brother should have waited for the return. Then, again, this piece of composition is in the nature of a "whistle to keep the courage up." Our esteemed, etc., is really down-at-the-mouth. The Cleveland faction in Woburn is rapidly becoming a "dissolving view." General Butler will get two votes to Cleveland's one, hence the heroism of our esteemed, etc., and the "whistle" becomes, etc., etc., please allow your optical organs to fall gently on the figures from Maine.—Editor.

WHY I AM A REPUBLICAN. A History of the Republican party, a Defence of its Policy, and Reasons which justify its Continuance in Power, with Sketches of the Public Services of Blaine and Logan. By George S. Boutwell. Price, $1.25. Wm. J. Betts & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The written history of a party is apt to be scattered through newspapers, huge volumes of Congressional Records, public documents, etc., so that for a reader to get at it satisfactorily is well nigh impossible. Gov. Boutwell, in his "Why I Am a Republican," gives concisely, but clearly and fully given the history of Republicanism in the United States.

The author's knowledge of the subject is not the result of cramming. He was an actor in the events, and studied them closely, day by day. The book omits no fact of moment connected with the acts and policy of the Republican party since its formation. It is not a superficial campaign hand-book, but is, also, exhaustive, and interesting. The aggressive tone, decisive statement of facts, and its completeness of statistical support for statements advanced, make its perusal fascinating to the student of politics. A busy man can read the extensive argument carefully and attentively in the intervals of business, while the political speaker and writer finds it made specially convenient for him by an exhaustive index. We advise our readers to get Mr. Boutwell's book in preference to any or all cheap publications that may be offered them. The book is sold by subscription, and any person acting as agent can rest assured that he is doing good work for the party.

Thompson's Lintment.

Woburn, Sept. 3, 1884.

I was taken with rheumatism in my right hand thirteen years ago and suffered very much. I was doctored in two city hospitals and was not cured. I have had but little use of my hand since first taken. It has been as much as six years since I could use my knife or fork or spoon in my right hand to feed myself. Since I have used Thompson's Lintment my hand has improved so, that I can feed myself with it and have a considerable use of it; have done some work with it.

The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. Walker have recently died of cholera infantum. The parents have the sympathy of the community.

Peoples' Party Caucus.

Pursuant to a call voters of Woburn opposed to the Republican and Democratic parties to the number of nearly or quite two hundred assembled in G. A. R. Hall on Monday evening last to select delegates to the Peoples Party State, Congressional, Senatorial, County and Councilor conventions. The Hall was well filled with voters nearly all of whom have heretofore acted and voted with the Democratic party. It was a very quiet and orderly gathering although the enthusiasm for Gen. Butler ran high. Whenever his name was mentioned vociferous cheers followed, which indicated that the heart of the caucus was with and for the gentleman of numerous nominations. The workmen of Woburn believe fully in Gen. Butler, and ask nothing better than the privilege of giving him their votes.

Mr. E. B. Blanchard read the call for the caucus, which he has chosen permanent Chairman, and Dr. O. P. Rogers was made Secretary. By vote a committee of five was raised, consisting of E. J. Mann, Charles McDonald, John Shinkwin, Richard Terret, and Timothy Sheehan, to bring in a list of 15 delegates to the State convention, to be held on the 24th of this month; 7 to the Senatorial; 7 to the Congressional; and 7 to the County and Councilor conventions; also a list of 15 to compose a Town Committee.

While this committee were attending to their duties in the committee room, brief speeches were made by W. C. Perigo, editor and proprietor of the Union Weekly, Charles McDonald, and others, which were roundly applauded. After an absence of thirty or forty minutes the above committee returned to the caucus and through its chairman made the following report which was unanimously adopted:—

STATE DELEGATES: E. B. Blanchard, E. C. Cottle, J. K. Doherty, P. H. Murphy, Charles McDonald, Richard Terret, Joseph Lemell, J. D. Doherty, J. M. Ellis, R. W. Parker, Francis Thorant, Bernard Mulligan, William Logue, W. C. Perigo, Charles Blount.

CONGRESSIONAL: David Burbank, William Wood, John Burke, A. E. Dolan, T. H. Costello, J. C. Kennedy, T. J. Brown.

SENATORIAL: Clarence Littlefield, Henry Bullfinch, Wymann Nason, Charles Harrington, J. L. Pinkham, F. K. Doherty, William Jones.

COUNTY AND COUNCILOR: E. O. Soles, Sidney Richardson, W. H. Conant, Marcellus Littlefield, Daniel Burbank, Dennis Doherty.

TOWN COMMITTEE: E. B. Blanchard, Richard Terret, Charles Harrington, Jr., Charles McDonald, P. H. Murphy, John Shinkwin, William Jones (N. W.), Daniel Burbank (Montvale), William Henchy, F. K. Doherty, T. H. Costello, Timothy Sheehan, A. H. Richardson, O. P. Rogers, Thomas McGovern.

It is noted that each delegation have the power to fill vacancies and add to their number if necessary. Voted, To open a roll to form a Butler Club, to which a large number of names were signed. It was then voted to resolve the meeting into a rallying committee.

The meeting was then dissolved amid enthusiastic cheers for Gen. Butler and the Peoples' Party.

State Convention of the Mass. Y. M. C. A.

To the friends of the Woburn Y. M. C. A.:—

At a meeting of the State Ex. Committee held in Boston last Wednesday, it was voted to hold the next annual convention in the city of New Bedford, Oct. 2-5, 1884. Strong and urgent invitations were sent in to the committee from Newburyport, Cambridge, and New Bedford as well as from Woburn, all endorsed by the Associations and the Pastors. It was found to be no easy matter for the committee to decide; but after a full and friendly discussion concerning each location, it was finally voted to hold the convention at New Bedford. One of the principal reasons was that the Association at New Bedford is the oldest next to the Boston Association of any in the State, and neither the State or Quarterly Convention has been held there. Another reason New Bedford has several large hotels, which in addition to the many homes offered for the delegates, would furnish ample accommodation for the large number of workers and strangers who will probably attend. This is expected to be the largest Y. M. C. A. convention ever held in the State, owing to the fact that Mr. Moody and several other eminent speakers are expected.

It was hoped that the convention would be held in Woburn; but as it has been decided otherwise, let us all congratulate our friends in New Bedford upon the success attending their very cordial invitation.

I desire to take this opportunity to express sincere thanks for myself and the other members of the committee to the friends of the Woburn Association, for the very cordial offering of their homes for the accommodation of the delegates and others, should the convention have been held in Woburn. It is gratifying to know that we shall have that honor before many years, I am yours in the interests of the Y. M. C. A.

LITERARY NOTICES.

The title "Babylonia" was brought into use by D. Lottrop & Co. for their charming magazine Babylonia, the bound volume of which is each year a delight in many thousands of homes. Its great reputation has been won by intrinsic merit of exquisite adaptation, by the purity and delicate humor of the text, and the charm of its beautiful and amusing pictures. It has been edited during the eight years of its publication by the editors of Wines Awake. Its great and well-earned reputation has induced certain publishers to attempt imitations. It becomes necessary, therefore, to warn the public against these inferior books issued under similar titles, and to state that there is but one genuine Babylonia, and this always has the imprint of D. Lottrop & Co., Boston.

The soprano wanted the tenor turned out of the choir because, after hearing her run up and down the scale six or seven times in one breath, he remarked that she was very successful as a wind-lass.

A CURE FOR GRAVEL.

Editor Woburn Journal.—For you in New England who intend to vote for Cleveland and Hendricks, for you Democrats of both Catholic and Protestant faith, or of no faith at all excepting that of toleration—for you were the following words written and printed in a journal of your party, on August 31 last past, published at Davenport, Iowa, called Der Demokrat—

PRIESTS AND PRESIDENT.

The fathers of the republic excluded priests from the political arena and said to them: "We do not need priests here, we have nothing to do with matters of religion. The church has drenched the ground with human blood, and has for many years spread, in every direction over the beautiful earth famine and suffering, hatred and enmity, anger and thirst. But this end, and persecuted humanity must have here a place of peace and happiness, of tolerance and charity. Here man shall be free in the enjoyment of his natural and reasonable rights, which the priest hates."

But these nice sentiments were gradually forgotten, and now the Priest has the most to say in our politics. Thus we read yesterday in the Register:—"The religious journals of this country are now warring except against the election of Cleveland. For they consider it would be a disgrace to the morality of the nineteenth century that a man, who is guilty of the greatest immorality, should be placed in the highest office. The clergymen, whose duty it is, to guard the morality of the Republic, Cleveland, according to the judgment of his contemporaries, is a brave, honorable and thorough citizen, a business man, and all the loving of the priests which wickedness and intolerance arouse against him, should not deprive him of a vote. The people choose a President to watch over the land and Constitution and Liberty, and not to pass his time in the company of hysterical and pious old sisters, who, because they cannot enjoy life themselves, calumniate and torture others, nor do they choose him to govern for the pleasure of the Church which is engaged in burning up the sins of humanity for the benefit of a lustful priesthood."

Having read what do you think of it? Go back over the words of Der Demokrat, a staunch Democratic organ, and think them over, consider and ponder them. What do you think of the press of your party? How do you like its teachings? How heartily do you approve of this appeal to the lowest, vilest and most vicious of your party and the pandering to the most debased instincts of depraved humanity? You, sons of New England, descendants of the men who established the highest morality the country has known; you, whose forefathers have made a mark along the rock-bound coast and planted industry and encouraged honest toil in the once barren New England hills, what do you think of it? You whose moral teachings were received at the knees of loving mothers, whose faith was grounded in the Scriptures; you, who were first taught and learned your duty to your neighbor from the lips of some devout and self-sacrificing minister of your church, what do you think of it?

You, Catholics who look to the church as your teacher and guide in life and faith; you who reverence the priests, who receive the teachings of that church, what do you think of it? And you, Protestants of every creed, who uphold morality and decency, what do you think of it? And all who believe in personal liberty in all things; who have respect for the honest faith of others; who are tolerant, high-minded and honest, what do you think of it?

Take it home and read it to your families. When seated around the evening lamp with your wives and daughters read it to them and ask them what they think of it. Let them know what the teachings of a leading Iowa Democratic paper are—a paper published in the interest of the Democratic party spread broadcast every morning in the week over this great West.

Simonds' Patent Revolved and Moulded Heel Stiffeners.

N. J. SIMONDS AND HIS MANUFACTURES.

The manufacture of the various species of shoe stock employed by boot and shoe makers, is a business which is becoming a trade that can best be described as auxiliary pursuits, and which in the aggregate represent a large amount of labor and capital. The production of shoe stock, however, and inner soles has become in many sections a leading industry, and in certain shoe centres is prosecuted on a mammoth scale.

This is especially true of Woburn, Mass., where there are a number of concerns engaged in this line that are worthy of the consideration of all who are interested in the commercial condition of property of the country. Among these, unquestionably Mr. N. J. Simonds is the leading manufacturer in the pursuit of which we were engaged.

Factors are considered, throughout the trade, from all evidence at hand, as the best made in the country. This gentleman is the owner of a large and well equipped factory in the business, and although his methods are quite different from others who are in the same trade yet all others are obliged to use an important feature of his, and his goods to suit the market. His factory is located at No. 95 Main Street, Woburn, and is of a commodious and well arranged nature in every respect. In its equipment it includes everything of a mechanical or other nature that has come in vogue in answer to the peculiar requirements of this business, and besides every convenience that time or long and varied experience can suggest.

Mr. Simonds is engaged in the manufacture of Simonds' patent revolved and moulded heel stiffeners, besides heels and inner soles. His productions are the best that can be made from the finest of stock with the greatest care and most unvarying attention to all details of manufacturing, and for durability, finish and all other points of excellence will stand at the head of all similar products. They are possessed of all merits claimed for the like goods of other manufacturers, besides many that are peculiarly their own, and if they are possessed of any faults the tests of long and arduous use have never made them apparent. Mr. Simonds employs in the vicinity of about one hundred fifty hands, and produces about 8,000 pairs of stiffeners per year, and the factory and its perfect facilities are taxed to the utmost to supply the immense demand for these devices. The stiffeners are used by the leading shoe houses in all parts of the country and are constantly increasing in favor each day.

Mr. Simonds has never let an opportunity slip whereby he could improve the quality of his wares in the least, and has made every effort that his experience could suggest that would tend to enhance their value. He has been amply rewarded by seeing his goods accepted standards in all quarters, and no better proof of excellence could be given, or given. He has gained the reputation in all business and social circles of being a keen business man, of an honest and upright character, and we found his unceasing standing one of which any person might well feel proud.

THOSE LETTERS.

The publication of the batch of Blaine-Fisher letters by the Democratic papers of Boston last Monday morning was the worst thing that could have been done for their party, and the best thing for Mr. Blaine. The Democrats can be safely counted on for a blunder every time the chance for one is given them. When at war against the fates, they are at every general election, the fates are sure to fall on top and crush them. They are the unluckiest people in the country.

The publication of the letters mentioned was one of their bad jobs. The cackling of the Democratic papers was a fraud—there was no egg in the nest. The letters proved beyond controversy the truthfulness of every statement that Mr. Blaine ever made concerning the transaction to which they related. They vindicated him completely. Even the missing letter which all along they have accused Mr. Blaine of keeping back when the batch was read in Congress was among the lot—a letter from Fisher to Blaine, and of no sort of consequence to any body but the parties concerned, and but very little to them.

A few mornings since Mr. Blaine was interviewed concerning these letters by a reporter from the Kennebec Journal, and this is the report of it: Mr. Blaine replied that his only desire was that every voter in the United States might read the letters for himself, and not form his judgment of them from editorial misrepresentation in partisan journals. There was not a word in the letters, Mr. Blaine added, which was not entirely consistent with the most scrupulous integrity and honor. He hoped that every Republican paper in the United States, would publish the letters in full.

It is plain enough to be seen that the Democracy have abandoned their charges of official corruption against Mr. Blaine and turned their attention to his private business affairs. He is a business man and always has been. By dealing in railroad stocks and other legitimate ways he has acquired considerable wealth. He does not care who knows it. These letters grew out of his efforts to aid some Boston capitalists in a very proper railroad enterprise and have nothing whatever to do with his official duties or running for the presidency.

It is remarkable with what facility Democrats fall into traps of their own setting. They are famous for doing things wrong at the wrong time. The publication of these letters is a good illustration of their lack of sense. Nothing that has transpired during the campaign, except the exposure of Cleveland's personal immoralities, will do them so much harm, for it exposes their venom and ignorance, and vindicates Mr. Blaine.

A DEGENERATE SON.

Dr. William Everett is the son of the great Massachusetts orator and statesman, Edward Everett. He is Principal of Adams Academy at Quincy, and has a large number of boys under his instruction. Dr. Everett is an ardent supporter of Cleveland for the Presidency, and occasionally makes speeches in his behalf. He made one last Saturday evening at Quincy. Among other things he said:—

But let us consider. A Republican refuses to cast his vote for any man who has ever been guilty of unchastity. Be it so. Go home, my Republican fellow-citizens; run through the list of the candidates you have voted for; Fremont and Dayton, Lincoln and Hamlin and Johnson, Grant and Colfax and Wilson, Hayes and Wheeler, Garfield and Arthur. Ask yourselves how many of these men could stand the test you impose on Governor Cleveland. Do not go by what you have heard; but ask those who know, and then see if all in that list, living and dead, stand the test of spotless chastity. I ask those who were in the war whether, in following their generals and colonels to the shock of battle, they refused to be led by any whose lives were not spotlessly pure? I say to my fellow-men, whose family morality will not let them vote for Cleveland, "he that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone." I ask all ministers of the gospel, whose conscience will not let them vote for any man who ever sinned in this way, how many sermons they ever had the courage to preach against the vice, and how they, knowing the force of men's passions, can draw such a terribly strict line that it would exclude from power many of the noblest of the people's friends and rulers, Alexander Hamilton and Benjamin Franklin, William III., and Henry IV., King Solomon and King David? No, Governor Cleveland is not a bad man. He has not done that which need make us doubt that his administration will be a virtuous one.

These lines ought to mantle even Democratic cheeks with blushes of shame. It is the boldest and meanest attempt to palliate Cleveland's personal immoralities that has fallen under our eye during the campaign. What ought we to think of a prominent teacher of youth who can harbor in his breast such abhorrent sentiments, and give utterance to them before a respectable and intelligent audience? And who would wish to place his son under such a teacher? The paragraph from Dr. Everett's Quincy speech is so vile that respectable people should give it and its author a wide berth.

The Democratic State Committee should at once muzzle Dr. Everett.

MATTERS IN THE FIFTH DISTRICT.

It is reported that Hon. F. B. Hayes, Republican candidate for Congress in this District, is very sick at his country residence at Lexington. There were unfounded rumors of his death last Saturday, but his case is said to be a very critical one. We earnestly hope the reports are exaggerated, and that his restoration to the robust health he has always enjoyed may be speedy and permanent. Eminent Boston physicians are in daily attendance on him, and we cannot learn that they have pronounced his case hopeless, though such are the rumors flying over the District.

The Boston papers have with their accustomed enterprise already begun to discuss the question of a new nomination. We should think a due regard for the proprietors and the feelings of Mr. Hayes's family would cause them to let that matter alone for the present. Mr. Hayes has not yet declined the nomination, and there is no certainty that he will. But at any rate it would be proper and considerate to preserve silence until some sign is received from him. These papers have brought out Gen. Banks, Mr. Bowman, Mr. Hayden, and perhaps others, for the nomination. Gen. Banks would not be acceptable to the Republicans of this District. He holds a fat office, and there let him remain. Mr. Bowman, we are satisfied, does not want it. He has enjoyed the honor, and asks for no more. If Mr. Hayes from ill health should decline, which no man would regret more than Mr. Hayden, a very large majority of the Republicans of the District would strongly favor the nomination of our esteemed townsman and insist on his nomination. Mr. Hayden would be the strongest candidate, considering the peculiarities of the political situation, that could be put up, and would be more likely to win the election than any other person. He is obnoxious to nobody, and is known all over the District as a strong, able, and fair-minded gentleman.

But we sincerely hope Mr. Hayes will recover and soon take the field for a Republican victory in the Fifth District this fall. The Republicans of the Sixth Senatorial District will hold a convention to nominate a candidate for the State Senate at Republican Headquarters, Woburn, on Saturday (tomorrow), September 20, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon. The notice of the Committee appears in this paper. Dr. J. M. Harlow of this town will be the nominee we have no doubt. According to the best information we are able to get several gentlemen will receive complimentary votes on the informal ballot, the Dr. leading largely, and on the first formal test he will receive nearly the entire strength of the Convention. We hope this is true, and we have no doubt of it, because Dr. Harlow is the man the JOURNAL wants to see nominated and elected. He would fill the Senatorial bill exactly, and represent the District in a manner creditable to it and himself. We are very decidedly of opinion that the Republicans could not select a candidate worthier of their hearty support, a more popular man, whose known, or one of better ability for the post of honor for which we are certain he will be selected by the convention to-morrow.

Immediately after he was nominated in the Sixth District for Congress Henry Cabot Lodge gave in his resignation as Chairman of the Republican State Committee which was respectfully declined. To have accepted it would not have been a good thing for the party, because Mr. Lodge is a gentleman of great ability, executive force, and peculiarly fitted for the responsible and honorable position of Chairman of the Central Committee.

The Democrats meet with remarkable success in not making any of their charges against Mr. Blaine stick. They haven't got but two or three and between these they keep flying about like a hen with her head cut off. The truth is Mr. Blaine is a clean man, personally and politically, and a great one, and the Democrats can't find anything against him. So they keep harping away on the Mulligan letters—a subject that is so worn and threadbare that nobody cares a cent's worth about it, and never did.

Mrs. Lot Morrill of Augusta now says the letter purporting to have been written by her to the Ohio Republican Committee was a forgery. She declares that no scratch of her pen ever reflected unfavorably on Mr. Blaine. It makes but little difference what Mrs. Morrill does or does not say for she has been of unsound mind for some time, and is as likely to say one thing as another.

The publication of the Blaine-Fisher letters having fallen flat on the public the Democratic papers have started the story that Blaine is going to withdraw. Was ever a party driven to such straits before? The fact is, the leaders are at their wits' end, and very desperate. They see the Republican campaign growing every day, and their own dwindling. The next thing will be something else.

Edward D. Hayden, Esq., of this town has been selected by the Republican State Committee one of the speakers of the campaign. The list comprises many of the first orators in the State, and all will be assigned to active duty. Mr. Hayden is an excellent speaker, and it is to be hoped that he will not forget Woburn in making the rounds, but will address our citizens at an early day in the campaign.

The Hon. Roscoe Conkling has at last found out which way he is going to throw his vote—for Butler. All doubt as to the direction in which his duty lies has been removed from his mind, and he feels relieved. The country feels a good deal easier about it, and it looks now as though things might sail along pretty smoothly to the end of the campaign.

Has the Democratic National Committee muzzled Cleveland? He is not heard from much. They have in mind, probably, Hancock's "local issue" speech four years ago, and refuse to let Cleveland out. It is a good idea.

On the start the Democrats had a small stock of very poor campaign powder on hand, but they are using it up before the battle has fairly begun. The publication of the Mulligan letters indicates that they are about out of ammunition.

The Democrats begin to feel sorry that they fired their last batch of Mulligan letters. Their publication fell so dead that decent men of the party are ashamed of the whole business. The Republicans, on the other hand, are jubilant over it.

All of Blaine's declarations have the ring of honesty. He said to the reporter, "I want every voter in the country to read those letters." He has nothing to fear from their perusal. Blaine is an honest man, and his transactions will stand the strongest light.

The prohibitionists have their troubles just the same as other folks. Their latest set-back is President Seelye's refusal to stand as a gubernatorial candidate for the party. All they need do is to shove Mr. Faxon up into Seelye's place and go on with the play.

It is said that John F. Andrew is to be the Democratic candidate for Congress in this District. We hope so, but rather think Morse will be the man. He is coquetting as usual.

The Boston & Lowell R. R. sold excursion tickets to the White Mountains and return, good from September 15 to October 15, for $6.00, which is cheap riding.

At the annual meeting of the High de Paves Commanders, Knights of Temples, at Melrose last week, Mr. N. J. Simonds of Woburn was elected Captain General.

Besides Mr. Hayden we hope our Republican Town Committee will have a lot of big speakers here this fall. We suspect their intentions are to make the campaign red hot by and by.

What Mr. Horton don't keep in the way of literature at the Old Woburn Book store is not worth mentioning. Among other things we notice that he has all the October monthlies.

The Y. M. C. A. propose to hold Sunday afternoon meetings at Cummingsville for the present. The first meeting will be held next Sunday at half past two o'clock in the Club House.

Winter is coming and the demand for stoves at Mr. C. M. Strout's is increasing rapidly. He keeps all the best patterns made, and no dealer in Middlesex county sells at lower prices.

At the quarterly convention of the Y. M. C. A. of the Eastern District of Massachusetts, held at Salem last week, Mr. J. Howard Nason of this place was elected a member of the Executive Committee.

It is reported that the Butler Club of this place is increasing in size very fast. The members are stripped to the work of the campaign and mean to make the few Cleveland people in town king small.

There is talk of organizing a new Massachusetts State Polo League. A survey has been made of the moving in the matter, among which are the Woburns of this place, the East Boston team and others.

Mr. E. E. Thompson, Treasurer of the Savings Bank, was confined to his house several days last week with an attack of lumbago. He was at the bank on Monday afternoon though hardly fit to be out.

There was another boat race on Saturday evening between Rice and Munroe, which was won by the former as was the first contest. A large number of people witnessed the race, which was an exciting one.

Mr. N. J. Simonds took his employees in the stiffening shop on a pleasant excursion the other day, and footed all the bills like a man. They all had a fine time. Mr. Simonds is very popular with his help.

Mr. Arthur A. Fowle, Assistant Managing Editor of the Boston Globe, will soon take up his residence in the city to be nearer his work. We shall be sorry to lose him, but what is our loss will be Boston's gain.

Mr. W. W. Cummings of New Woburn returned to the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy N. Y., on last Monday. He has been at the institution for some time, and returns to it from a pleasant vacation.

The Blaine and Logan Battalions of this town are getting on finely. Their ranks increase at every meeting; they have their uniforms; and when the real work of the campaign begins they will be heard from.

Next Wednesday evening, September 24th, the National band will give a promenade concert in the Lyceum Hall, to which the tickets will be only 50 cents. A very fine dance, and a splendid good time may be expected.

Marlboro is going to be the next city in this commonwealth. She thinks Woburn had best look out for its laurels. [Woburn paper.] Don't worry about Woburn—she will be the next to fall into the line of Massachusetts cities.

Mina E. Dearth, dress and cloak maker, who has had rooms at Mr. A. Cummings's, has returned from her vacation and taken rooms on Church Avenue, where she will be pleased to see all her former customers and their friends.

An assistant Democrat is working here in Woburn for the nomination of Formald for the Senate. He says he has not met with very encouraging success neither here nor in Winchester, and feels rather discouraged.

Matters in and around the Democratic Headquarters, or the quarters of the Democratic Town Committee, are dryer than a last year's bird's nest—no life is to be discovered there. And there is no hope in Democratic breasts.

Some of the Democrats said they would have 500 women appear before the Assessors and have their names entered on the books to offset the nearly 300 who appeared on Monday last. But they did not put in an appearance.

There were quite heavy frosts in this vicinity on Friday and Saturday nights last. The cold wave struck here with great force, but it was exceedingly welcome after a season of such inclement heat. It did not however last very long.

Mr. R. T. H. Porter, Insurance Agent, has moved his new office, No. 131-1-2 Main street, over George Bancroft's market. Office hours from 8 to 12, and 2 to 5, and 7 to 8, except Wednesday evenings, when the office will be closed.

Mr. W. F. Esterbrook returns his best thanks to Mr. Joseph W. Kelley for a very elegant bouquet presented a few days since. People should bear in mind that nowhere can more beautiful flowers in greater variety be found than at Mr. Kelley's.

An excursion to the White Mountains on the Boston & Maine Railroad leaves Boston on Tuesday, September 23, tickets good until the 27th. Fare for the round trip, $3.00. Mr. Moses Bancroft, 139 1-2 Main street, Woburn, will furnish tickets.

Mr. Bell, a colored man, is putting forth efforts to organize over colored church in Woburn, to take in this and neighboring towns. He has held meetings several Sunday evenings past in Fraternity Hall, where there was preaching to good congregations.

The Reading Chronicle seems to be sort of touchy on the Senatorial question. It says what in cooler moments it would not say, and what is not true, that "Woburn claims about everything in the way of offices." Oh, no, she is very modest in her aspirations.

Quite a goodly bunch of our citizens went to the White Mountains last Monday on the excursion party managed hereabouts by Mr. Fred B. Leeds. They have had nice weather for the trip and visit to the great and popular autumn resort of New England people.

Mr. A. Cummings comes out with a new card this week which the ladies will do well to read. He is laying in for a large trade this fall which he will doubtless have, for as headquarters for millinery goods and dress-making Cummings's easily takes the lead.

The National Band gave a superb open-air concert last Wednesday evening. It was a fine night for the occasion. On next Wednesday evening the National will give its last concert on the Common for the season, which will be followed by a promenade concert in Lyceum Hall.

Dr. Seth W. Kelly, Mr. John Black and several other good, staunch Republicans of Woburn, attended the Blaine reception in Boston last Wednesday evening. There was a large crowd present to welcome the next President of the United States to the Capital of New England.

Mr. J. B. McDonald has had the coal and wood carted to the town awarded to him. It calls for 650 tons of coal and 60 cords of wood, to supply the school houses, almshouse, outside relief, water works, and other public institutions. It takes a good deal of fuel to run the town.

The Boston & Maine Railroad Company are quietly looking the ground over with a view of getting into Woburn. A survey has been made from Reading to Button Knoll, which means something. Our prediction is that that Company will have a road through this town within two years.

Last Saturday Mrs. Griffin Place lost a gold earring somewhere between the depot in this village and Walnut Hill, and will duly reward the finder for leaving it at the residence of Griffin Place, Esq. The earring is a spread fan-shaped, with the narrow part of dark color and engraved.

We shouldn't think the Advertiser would chain any longer to be an independent newspaper. Democracy of the stripe stands out of almost every original paragraph in it. And what is worse it actually sticks up for Cleveland and at the same time professes to be a "family journal!"

Mr. Kenneth Champney, son of Benjamin Champney, the artist, who is engaged in coffee culture in Central America, is at home on a brief visit. We understand his crop this year is a very promising one, and that thus far the very best success has been achieved by him in raising coffee on a large scale.

We have had some pretty warm weather this week, and yet it is sort of delightful. The golden haze on the hillsides, and lights and shades on the meadows, and mellow air, and autumn sounds, are not bad to take even if they be the forerunners of winter cheerless reign. We like them first rate.

Miss Abbie Campbell and her mother have got home from a delightful visit of several weeks at that celebrated American winter-place, Newport, R. I. They stopped at Queen Anne's Cottage and thence circulated among the fashionable gentry of that gay summer resort. It was a charming trip and visit for them.

Mr. Frederick Kyle will give his second exhibition of song birds and feathered novelties at Horticultural Hall, Boston, commencing Sept. 24. At the exhibition last year 8000 prizes amounting to $2000 were distributed, to which this year 1200 prizes amounting to $2500 will be awarded. A special prize of $100 is offered for the most beautiful bird of any species. For Canaries there are 100 prizes amounting to $500, and the same for Parrots; the balance will include feathered novelties of any breed.

The regular mid-monthly meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held in their rooms on Tuesday evening last. Mr. Ham was absent, on account of which action on former applications for license, including that of Thomas G. Merriam, was postponed to next meeting.

We call attention to the card of Mrs. John Jennings in this paper. Her Intelligence Office has become very popular with people seeking situations and those who want help. She does the business honestly and to the satisfaction of all parties and it is growing fast. Mrs. Jennings is also having a good trade in her store.

We return our best thanks to Mr. George W. Kimball, a respected friend and fellow-townsmen, for a basket of superb Bartlett pears kindly placed on our table by him last Wednesday. A critical test demonstrated that the pears were genuine Bartletts, and more luscious ones we never struck a table into. It is a blessed thing to have friends.

According to Democratic authority, if our Representative had attended more to business and less to politics in the last Legislature our taxes would have been $15 instead of $20 on a $1000 house. It is important for the interests of the town that this fact should be remembered and have weight in choosing a Representative next November.

Some people act just as though they thought others know everything. They do know a good deal, but some things there are which are beyond their ken. For example: the editor of the JOURNAL don't know what that new picket fence was built on the northeast corner of the Common for. If he did he would tell a great many anxious inquirers.

B. E. Bond, Esq., one of the several legal lights of this town, and a gentleman all the way up and down besides being one of the staunchest supporters of Blaine and Logan we have among us, will leave tomorrow or Monday for his annual month's shooting in the upper part of Vermont and New Hampshire. His dog and gun will accompany him, and may all these have a pleasant and profitable season of absence.

It looks a little as though the Dearborns out at Walnut Hill were trying to get hard to compel the Massachusetts Rifle Association to buy a slice of their land at a round price. The Association have taken every precaution possible to prevent accidents from their rifle practice; but all will not do, and so Mrs. Dearborn threatens to apply to the Supreme Court for an injunction to stay proceedings on the part of the shooters.

The descendants of William Hartwell held a reunion on the Fair grounds at Concord last Wednesday, which was largely attended. There were speeches, songs, a fine dinner, and many other interesting exercises, and a remarkable crowd was spent by the Hartwells. A Genealogical society was organized, and offered. Rev. M. S. Hartwell was President of the day. Mr. Fred A. Hartwell and family of this place attended.

The Democratic flag did not yield to the gale of yesterday evening week ago, though it was somewhat torn. The Republican and People's Party flags were torn square off at the top, and came down. It was quite funny, but enough Cleveland men couldn't be mustered to get up anything like a respectable laugh at the expense of their opponents. They are mighty scattering around here, and will be more so by election time, if possible.

Passenger train conductors in the employ of the Boston and Lowell railroad are to be required to wear uniforms at all times when on duty. The winter suit is to be of Aberdeen cloth. The coat is to be a double-breasted, reding jacket sack, lined throughout with red flannel, length to be half way from hip joint to knee. The summer suit will be of railway yacht cloth, and the coat will be a single-breasted sack, length to be about to the ends of the fingers. Each five years' service as conductor may be designated by a gilt star upon the ends of the coat collar.

The regular mid-monthly meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held in their rooms on Tuesday evening last. Mr. Ham was absent, on account of which action on former applications for license, including that of Thomas G. Merriam, was postponed to next meeting.

The claim of T. K. Lowrey for damages for injuries received from falling on a sidewalk was referred to the Committee on Woburn Locals.

The attention of Woburn police officers is respectfully directed to the following item clipped from the Stoneham News of last week: The East Woburn liquor nuisances are sadly demoralizing to some of our young men on the Sabbath, and should be more closely watched by the officers of our neighboring town. There is a great deal of stuff now dispensed there after a manner we should call "publicly on the sly." We cannot say that we are a head advocate of employing "spotters" to gain convictions. But if there ever was a case where they should be used just over the border in the town of our neighbor is the place. Six days in the week is enough to deal out rum, without trespassing on the Sabbath, and every mother's son of the violators should be made an example of. Yes, but will they? The Woburn officers should see that the disgrace is stopped.

The women of Woburn have done well—more than well, nobly. Two hundred and eighty-six of them have had their names entered on the books of the Assessors to be taxed and registered for voting next spring, the effect of which will be to change the complexion of our School Board as well as some other things. A few courageous ladies took hold of this matter recently and caused a thorough canvass of the town to be made for the names of sisters who would take the necessary steps towards securing the privilege of voting for members of the School Board at the next Town meeting, and their work has been splendidly rewarded. Nearly three hundred names of women on the Assessors' books tell the story, and it is a good one. These women will vote too when the time comes. They have not gone to all this expense and trouble for nothing. They mean business, and their participation in the election will have an effect of which the town will be proud.

Next week we shall publish some articles descriptive of several leading industries in this town which we think will be of interest to our readers. It is a good plan too to let the outside world know something of what is being done in this important and busy manufacturing centre, and it is with this end in view that we propose to publish the articles. In this way we hope to contribute something to the business, population and wealth of the town. A great deal of money is invested in manufacturing in Woburn, and a great many people are employed in carrying them on. In leather alone there is $1,500,000 capital invested; stock used in its manufacture, more than $3,000,000; with a product valued at over $4,250,000. It gives employment to about 1,500 hands, and that too with all the best labor-saving machinery in general use. It adds to the importance of the town by telling the public such facts as these, and draws the attention of outside parties to us. We have ample facilities for doing a much larger business in manufacturing than is now done, and with the completion of the Woburn Branch next spring they will be greatly increased. There is no suburb of Boston that can make a better showing in this respect than this place. Some complain that our town is too large. Well, that is a common complaint the world over. The luxuries that we indulge in must be paid for. If we insist on having the best Water Works in America; schools of the highest standard; a complete and highly efficient Fire Department; roads as hard and smooth as billiards; an electric Fire Alarm system of the first order—if we have these, there should be no complaining when the tax-gatherer comes round. At odd times and seasons the JOURNAL proposes to set forth the business of Woburn; give, little by little, detailed accounts of her manufactures; show up her superior facilities in the way of freight and passenger transportation, and other things; to convince men elsewhere seeking good points to invest their capital that Woburn can be excelled; and to induce them to pitch their tents here. That is what we propose to do, and if our business men will put their shoulders to the wheel with us they will be surprised in a little while to see how much can be done.

RINK NOTES: The rinks have been open only specially this week. There have been fair audiences at both places considering the weather. Last night there was a return game of polo played between the Woburns and Salems at the Academy. For full particulars of next week's attractions read the cards of both rinks in this paper.

The Old Mechanics' Fair. The Official Catalogue of this Exhibition contains full particulars of the exhibits and regulations, diagrams of the several halls, a full catalogue of exhibits, illustrations of groups of Swedish statuary, capons, etc. It is published at the Exhibition by George Cowdell; price 15 cents (mailed post-paid). Buy it before you go. This Fifteenth Triennial Exhibition, by the old Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, presents to the public an opportunity of inspecting at once the new productions of the times, and of receiving educating and refining influences. It is full of interesting, comprising also a fine Art Gallery. Admission, fifty cents.

Thompson's Liniment. Woburn, Sept. 2, 1884. I was taken with rheumatism in my right hand thirteen years ago and suffered very much. I was doctored in two city hospitals and was not cured. I have had but little use of my hand since first taken. It has been as much as six years since I could use my knife or fork or spoon in my right hand to feed myself. Since I have used Thompson's Liniment my hand has improved very much. I can feed myself with it and have considerable use of it; have done some work with it. —JOHN RYAN, Proprietors, Woburn, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Chapman are visiting relatives at Saybrook Conn.

The Selectmen now occupy rooms over the repair shop of the Water Board.

There have been no forest fires here this fall. Last year they were very destructive.

The crops are all well matured, and they are also abundant. The farmers are feeling first rate.

Mr. Brown declining to serve longer, the telephone office has been transferred to the railroad station at the Centre.

Mr. Twombly, senior, the well known florist, it is thought stands a good show of being elected Representative to the Legislature.

The Star reports "a serious deflection from the Mugwump camp" in Winchester. They have weakened since the Maine election.

The popular florists, Newman & Son, are increasing the capacity of their green-houses. This is demanded by a large increase of business.

The annual meeting of the Winchester V. I. A. was held in Livingston Hall, on last Wednesday evening to elect officers, receive reports, etc.

Capt. Henry Richardson son of Mr. Samuel Richardson of this place, died at Cleveland, Ohio, last Saturday of malarial fever, aged 50 years.

The Board of Registrars of Voters will hold a meeting in Brown & Stanton's block, on next Monday evening, September 22, for the purpose of registering the names of new voters.

A free evening school for adults, under the superintendence of Principal C. E. Sweet, will be opened in the Grammar school house on October 6th, with a competent set of teachers.

The Peoples' Party is in a flourishing condition here. They will cast a larger vote than the simon-pure Democracy next November. Swan goes right along "raising 11" all the time.

A very handsome bronze drinking fountain has been placed at the Corner of Washington and Main streets. It is for animals as well as men, and makes the corner an attractive one.

Mr. S. W. Twombly is a prominent candidate for the Legislature. His friends say he can beat Judge Littlefield in the caucus. He is a first class man and would make a good Representative.

Messrs. D. N. Skillings, S. W. Reynolds, and F. S. Spurr, with the Master and Wardens, are the Trustees of the Charity and Permanent Fund of William Parkman Lodge of Free Masons.

The National Conference of Unitarian and other Christian churches will be held at Saratoga next week, to which Rev. J. L. Marsh, Edward Shattuck and Mrs. E. E. Metcalf are the delegates from Winchester.

The W. V. I. A. held a very excellent meeting last Wednesday evening. It was well attended and a good spirit prevailed. Nearly all the old officers were re-elected. A full report of the meeting will be given next week.

Last week Mrs. Alice A., wife of Mr. Joseph S. Trowbridge, died in this village, aged 25 years. She was an estimable lady, greatly beloved by every one, and her early death will be deeply lamented. She left a sorrowing husband and three children.

Our people think that the nomination of Mr. A. B. Coffin for Councilor at large is a mistake. The delegates, so far as heard from, favor him. He is the right man for the place, and I hope he will win the nomination, as he richly deserves to do.

Judge Littlefield is a member of the Senatorial Committee of this District and a delegate. They say he is at work for the nomination of young Fernald of Melrose, but I can't hardly believe it. It seems as though he ought to have more sense; but then, politics makes strange bedfellows.

A correspondent of the Boston Traveller says: The trees set out last spring by the Village Improvement Society are doing finely, as everything does that this most progressive organization takes hold of. The Common has also been greatly improved, and presents a most beautiful appearance, with its shrubbery and fountain, also the work of the society.

At the annual meeting of the Good Will Club last Tuesday evening, the following were elected its officers for the ensuing year, viz:—President, J. Herbert Dwinell; Vice President, Lewis Parkhurst; Secretary, Charles T. Kimball; Treasurer, Edwin A. Wadleigh; Directors, Charles A. Cutter, Charles W. Gray, Samuel S. Symmes, Frank G. Holcombe, Mrs. S. A. Cushing, Mrs. J. P. Gregory, Miss Alice E. Symmes, Miss Manilla Metcalf. The pastor is an ex-officio member of the Board of Directors. The Treasurer's report shows a balance in the treasury of some $17. It was voted to hold the regular meetings of the Club on the third Tuesday evening of each month, beginning with October.—[Cor. W. Advertiser.]

The selectmen register voters, at the Town Hall, on the evenings of Sept. 15 and 22.

Mr. C. B. Caldwell is employed by Mr. W. E. Carter, at his rink in Woburn.

We presume that many of our people will attend the Wilmington fair and also the larger fair at Waltham.

Rev. C. Hamilton leaves town next Saturday, to resume his theological studies at a university in Pennsylvania.

There were heavy frosts on Saturday and Sunday evenings. Considerable damage was done to vegetables in many places. The farmers are now busy harvesting the crops that remain.

Mr. Abel Harrington, who lives in the east part of the town, met with a severe accident, last Saturday. He was jumping from a wagon, when the horse suddenly started, throwing him to the ground and breaking one of his legs.

The thunder shower of last Thursday was the most severe we have had in this place during the season. A tree on the Rodman estate was torn and split by the lightning and large limbs were blown from trees in many places by the strong wind, which accompanied the shower.

LITERARY NOTICES.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for October is an exceedingly interesting number, with over sixty fine engravings. The frontispiece is from a charming drawing by E. A. Abbey, illustrating William Black's "Jedite Shakspeare." The Eleventh Part of Mr. Roe's popular novel, "Nature's Secret Story," is even more richly illustrated than usual from the master drawings of Gibson and Diehlman.

The Third Part of "The Great Hall" of William Ratus, by the Rev. Treadwell Walden, contains many novel and impressive historical pictures; and the Seventh Part of "Boughton's Artist Strolls in Holland" is enriched not only by the author's quaint sketches, but also by some very choice pictures by J. E. Rogers. Other articles are the Home of Hans Christian Andersen, with ten illustrations; King's College, nine illustrations; A House of Tommy Atkins, five illustrations; The Gateway of the Sierra Madre, with nine illustrations, and others equally timely and interesting. The Editor's "Records" and "Drawer" are filled with excellent things.

The North American Review for October is notable as well for the importance of the topics treated, as for the eminence of its writers. The leading article, "Moral Character in Politics," is by President J. H. Seelye, whose exposition of the ethical principles involved in the popular election of candidates to high station in the Government must command the attention of every right-minded citizen. Benefits of the Tariff System, a sequel to the article in the September number on the Evils of the Tariff System, is a symposium consisting of three articles, written respectively by John Roach, Prof. R. E. Thompson, and Nelson Dingley, Jr., who advocate the policy of protection of American industries with great ingenuity of reasoning and abundant citations of statistical facts. In addition to these most timely discussions of high political issues, the Review has an article by the Rev. Dr. Augustus Desjardins, entitled "Why I Wish to Visit America: The Philosophy of Conversion," by O. B. Frothingham, "The Origin of Yellow Fever," by Dr. C. Creighton, "Shall the Jury System be Abolished?" by Judge Robert V. Hayne; "The Genesis of Tennyson's Maud," by Richard Horne Shepherd; and "The Development of Machine Guns," by Lieut. C. Sleeman.

Fifty gentlemen of Lynchburgh, Va. (all Democrats, every one of them) formed what they call a "High Tariff Club," and for fear the fact would be doubted, they raised a pole eighty-four feet high and hung to the breeze a flag upon which is painted so that it can be seen, "High Tariff Club, 1884." The President of the Club explains: "He and his Club had always voted the Democratic ticket, but in this election they had been driven out that they could not afford to vote the brand out of their children's mouths; that they proposed to vote for the party that would protect the working man."—Virginia Sport.

Capt. Edward H. Greene, who was Democratic Mayor of Aurora, Ind., from 1877 to 1881, and who was a Democratic member of the Indiana Legislature in 1866 and 1877, has been elected to the southern part of the Hoosier State since 1854 when he made a speech in that section against Know-Nothingism. He has no doubt that Indiana will be carried for Blaine if the State is properly organized and an active canvass is made.

E. C. Larned, of Lake Forest, Ill., a noted Independent Republican, cards the Chicago Tribune to the extent of two columns, giving his reasons for supporting Blaine. He thinks civil service reform would be imperiled by the success of the Democratic party.

Carl Schurz plays the piano, Hendricks plays the accordion, and the Democratic party, if it gets a chance, will play the deuce—with the country. —Norristown Herald.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the market, and find it entirely free from pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances."
E. G. LOVE, Ph.D.

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure."
"H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market, and find it entirely free from pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances."
HENRY MOTT, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology.

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome."
S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass.

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Cincinnati Exposition, 1876; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country. No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and unqualified endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and boards of health all over the world.

NOTE.—The above diagram illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schiedel. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can ascertained, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schiedel only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair-minded person of these facts.

While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

Pickings from the "Boston Journal."

The Catholic Herald: "Free trade means the opening up of a new country of fifty millions to the ravages of Europe."

General Noyes of Ohio gives the best reason for not belonging to the Democratic party, which is, that "it has always been wrong."

The New York Free Trade Club has endorsed Grover Cleveland. And why not? Both belong to the Democratic party, or rather the party which would give the importers our markets.

"Gath" has been studying the situation in Ohio, and declares that the October election in that State will be an overwhelming defeat for the "British party." The Germans are proving very loyal to Blaine and Logan.

Mr. Nelson, clerk of Speaker Carlisle, writes the Tribune that if Gov. Cleveland did not use his influence in favor of the Morrill Tariff bill by writing letters to Democratic Congressmen, his friends who asserted that he did so must be mistaken.

The Boston Pilot, while it opposes Mr. Blaine, says: "The man who could fling a stone that must strike not only him it was aimed at but the hearts of his wife and children is a miscreant. The relations of Mr. Blaine to his family have been true and beautiful."

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette is confident that the Republicans will carry West Virginia in October. We do not share the sanguine anticipations of the C. G., nevertheless there appears to be a larger number of Republicans in that State than ever before.

Some of our British organs, like the New York Times, are distressed because Mr. Blaine has yielded to the urgent solicitation of friends to visit Ohio. The British organ cannot realize that there are hundreds of thousands of people who desire to see the next President.

The Republican advances from Indiana are of the most encouraging nature. Republicans are very much elated over the result of Maine, and from all parts of the State there come reports that men who have heretofore been Democrats will vote for Blaine and Logan.

The Transcript raises its powerful voice and desires that Mr. Warren Fisher will publish the letter which it is alleged he wrote to Mr. Blaine, asking for a foreign appointment. If Mr. Blaine had granted said alleged request, does the Transcript imagine that the public would ever have heard of the Fisher-Mulligan letters?

Those lying stories about bribery in Augusta, which the Cleveland papers have been comforting themselves with, disappear before the affidavits of the persons concerned. If the correspondent who fabricated the slanders would return to Augusta he would learn a variety of things to his advantage.

"Since the issue of the last batch of the Blaine letters," said a man of Independent tendencies last night, "I have not only read them, but the original so-called Mulligan letters, and I confess, after putting them all together, I am amazed that they ever caused any part of the comment they have. It is because people have not read but have heard about them."

Ex-President Hayes takes occasion to promptly deny the statements to the effect that he is not friendly to Blaine and Logan. The Democratic cause must be in desperate straits when it is necessary to declare that such a man as ex-President Hayes and ex-Secretary Fish are hostile to the Republican ticket, well knowing that such declarations are falsehoods which will be denied.

The New York Sun continues to observe that "there is no chance of Grover Cleveland's election to the Presidency." He cannot carry New York. He will be beaten in this State by a majority of not less than fifty thousand, in spite of every exertion that may be made between now and election day."

"It is not a question of money-making with me," wrote Mr. Blaine to Fisher, when appealing to him for the bonds promised to Maine people who had paid their money; "it is simply a question of saving my word with others." And yet there are those who believe that such an honorable declaration is a reason why honest men should not vote for Mr. Blaine.

The industrial classes of our land must be protected against the influx of foreign manufactured articles, and the only way to do so is to send men to Congress who will sustain the protective policy. Free trade means ruin to our industries, as it has to the industries of other countries. The tariff question is the great question for the present and future consideration of our people, as upon it hangs the future prosperity of the United States.—Haverhill Gazette.

One of the recent seceders from the Republicans to the "Independents" explains his support of Cleveland by saying: "It is the man and not the party I endorse." But who is Cleveland, according to his own boast, but the leader of the "Democratic hosts"? And how is it possible to elevate Cleveland to the Presidency without at the same time giving victory to the Democratic party?

The esteemed Herald is disappointed at the feeble sensation produced by the latest batch of Mulligan letters, and observes mournfully: "The serenity of the party managers at the Republican headquarters was undisturbed by the heavy broadside delivered in Monday's morning papers. So far as can be seen to effect whatever was produced by the sensational revelations concerning the financial operations of the Republican candidate for the Presidency."

New Dress Goods!

We have LITTLE ELISE.

Ab, don't come a-wining with your long, long face,
And your longer nose behind.
I'm a bright young girl, and I know my place,
And I think I know my mind.
I like to laugh, and to dance and sing,
And to have my hair done.
My brothers call me a "dimpled thing,"
But they wouldn't miss me here.
O! I'm my mother's heart's delight,
And my father's right hand.
Would I leave my home so free and bright
To be a rich man's slave?
Would I leave my mother and father
To go to a grand old house and play?
When I've boys to play with and cows to milk,
And the whole fair world is mine?
Ab, don't come talking of the cares of life!
My head is gold, not gray.
And it's my desire to be no man's wife—
At least, not just today.
But I've a heart, and it's warm and true,
And I'll keep it safe, at ease,
And if one I love should come to woo,
I'll give it—when I please!

Harper's Magazine.

Picked Up.

There was such a glut of fish in the New York market on Thursday that dealers said they were virtually giving them away, and thousands of pounds would have to be given to charitable institutions or the poor, as the supply could not be sold out at any price before the market closed. Bluefish were the most abundant. There has not been such a supply of them in the market for twenty-five years.

In the "Story of a Country Town" there appears this apt explanation of a man who exaggerates: "It was said of him that he was only anxious that he be known what he could do; he had an opportunity; and as every one thought less of him than he deserved, he kept on talking to himself to correct a wrong impression, and steadily made matters worse."

Blossum was calling on Miss Arabella, but as the latter's young brother persisted in staying in the parlor the conversation seemed to flag. Finally, in desperation, Blossum drew out his watch, and, in order to break the painful silence, asked, "Miss Arabella, can you tell me what—that is when—I mean, do you know your face is like the face of this watch?" "I reckon," interrupted the youngster, "it is because it is enameled," but when the matron between brother and sister had closed Blossum was about two blocks away.

A Pennsylvania girl sued a former lover for breach of promise, and produced several of his letters with postscripts containing promises of marriage to substantiate her claim. The court, however, threw the letters out, inasmuch as it was discovered that in the postscripts, whenever the personal pronoun was necessary, a small "I" was used, while in the body of the letter it appeared properly as capital, showing that the two parts of the epistles had not been written by the same hand. The young woman lost her case, and will probably learn to write properly before she tries that dodge again.

One Teel, a citizen of Hamilton, Ga., has written to the Governor of Georgia, asking him to please send him a divorce at once. Teel says that he and his wife have parted and will never live together again. He has applied to the local courts, but on no account. The lawyers wanted him to pay them $25 to write him a divorce, but he is unable to do that. He asks the Governor to send him two divorces, one for himself and one for his wife. If the Governor can't do anything he wants his case laid before President Arthur. He says Arthur signs his name "Chester Arthur," and he understands his post office is New York. Teel closes his letter as follows: "Please send about this rate off, and don't wait until after I am dead before you let me hear from you."

This is the hop-picking season. In England and America there is great activity in the hop regions, but what a contrast is observed in the descriptions of the laborers. In England the pickers, who are drawn from the poorest classes of London and other cities, live like gypsies in the hop fields. There physical and moral degradation is feared, men and women swarming together and subsisting on the meannest fare. In this country the reverse of the picture is presented. Although the coarser element predominates among the hop-pickers, there is a marked increase every year in the number of respectable young clerks, salesmen and students who improve this opportunity of spending their vacations in an enjoyable and inexpensive manner. They occupy the second story of the farm house and are supplied with meals equal to some at the second-class seaside hotels. To supply one hop grower's table with meat for four weeks, eight steers, sixteen turkeys and over forty chickens are used. The season is more a holiday time than a working period.

The coachman, Schelling, who eloped with and married Miss Morosini, is the step-son of Theodore Hulskamp, a saloon keeper in New York. Mr. Hulskamp says the young man is a piano maker by trade, but had to abandon that calling on account of his health; that the bride, when he saw her, seemed to be very happy, and she declared herself both able and willing to cook, wash, iron and do anything else which belonged to the lot of a poor man's wife. Her husband, however, Mr. Hulskamp asserted, was too proud and fond to permit her to do any hard work. She was very plainly dressed, and her demeanor was simple and unaffected. Schelling, he says, is industrious, temperate and prudent, with $1000 laid up, and able to speak and write both English and German fluently. He considered Mr. Morosini himself to blame, because of his system of seducing his daughters from male society, and says further that instead of the coachman stealing the young lady's heart the affair was rather the reverse.

Mr. W. I. Foote has been connected for several years with the United States Postal Service at New Haven, Conn., Sept. 7, 1882. Messrs. Lewis & Co. have used a "Red Jacket Bitter" in my family for malarial troubles with satisfactory results and propose to keep them in the house in case of need.

Respectfully, W. I. FOOTE.

Torpedo parties are likely to become fashionable in Newport. They have long been popular in royal courts abroad.—[New York Journal.]

Pearl's White Glycerine is not a cosmetic nor will it injure the most delicate skin. It renders the complexion pure, clear, brilliant and healthy; it removes all spots, discolorations, etc., either within or upon the skin. Druggists sell it; try it and be convinced of its merits.

Gleanings from Exchanges.

The Cincinnati Commercial says: "If Ohio does not give 20,000 Republican majority in October it will be the fault of the Republican managers."

The New York World feels called upon to warn Mr. Hendricks that he must not indicate such a fondness for General Butler.

The Republicans and Blaine Democrats in Louisiana will unite on an Electoral ticket and on candidates for Congress. In several of the Congressional districts the Democrats are divided.

Republican papers in Wisconsin declare that Mr. Schurz is not so popular in that State as the Democratic press would have the country understand.

It said that 40,000 copies of Schurz's attack on Mr. Blaine were sent into Maine. If 40,000 produced a majority of 20,000, double that quantity would have well annihilated the Democracy in that State.

How the Democratic press would show its rage in black letters if Mr. Blaine had made a charge of $63 in one year at $3 per day. And yet they applaud Mr. Cleveland to the skies, knowing that he made such a charge when he was Sheriff.

The Buffalo Commercial remarks that "it is a noteworthy fact that nearly every name attached to the certificate of character given to Grover Cleveland by a full Buffalo Independent is that of an ultra free-trader."

The New York Times, British organ, said last Monday that "nothing short of 14,000 majority in Maine would be a tribute to his (Blaine's) popularity." It has no opinion now that the plurality for Governor Robie is over 21,000.

"Deadheads, Plunder and Moral: The Logic of it," is the caption of a caustic letter addressed to Carl Schurz, which shows up the fallacies and hot magnificence of his attack upon Mr. Blaine. It is issued as a pamphlet.

The impression prevails in the West that Mr. Hendricks is slyly at work to crowd Mr. Cleveland off the ticket.

His suggestion to the effect that General Butler would not oppose the Democratic ticket if he (Hendricks) were at its head is at least significant.

Tammany Hall has gone through with the form of endorsing Grover Cleveland because it is a Democratic organization. There is no heart in it and no votes behind it. Besides, a thousand formal endorsements cannot undo the mischief which the Star, the organ of Tammany Hall, has done the Democratic candidate.

Two or three papers, including the New York Times and the Boston Post, have printed declarations purporting to come from Hon. A. G. Ritchie to the effect that he will not support Mr. Blaine. Mr. Ritchie denounces these pretended interviews as fictions, and declares that he will vote the Republican ticket. Mr. Ritchie was a warm friend of Gen. Garfield.

The Elmira Advertiser says that the day that Governor Cleveland was at the fair in that city and was the drawing card, canvasses made on the excursion trains showed 622 for Blaine, 528 for Cleveland, 105 for Butler and 57 for St. John. As the demonstration was in favor of Governor Cleveland, the trains were assumed to have a larger proportion of Democrats than ordinary trains.

The New York World insists that Gov. Cleveland is not a free trader, and denounces and abuses Mr. Nelson, clerk of Speaker Carlisle, for saying that he is. Unfortunately for the World it has no statements of facts to put against the evidence offered by Mr. Nelson to show that Gov. Cleveland did favor the Morrison Tariff bill, and used his influence in its favor. The World is a bright paper, but it does not distinguish between abuse and facts.

The Prohibitory nominee for Governor in Kansas has set a good example to Prohibitory nominees elsewhere by declining to run, on the ground that it is not yet time to form a national Prohibition party. He will support the Republican national and State tickets.

It is clear that the actual purpose which the Prohibition movement is being made to serve, that, namely, of an aid and tender to the Democratic party.

Col. Lyman differs from Col. Codman. The latter proposes to vote for Cleveland, though he cannot do it with the entire satisfaction he had expected. Col. Lyman, however, will give him his vote "with confidence." This "cordial support," as he again expresses it, of a confessed libertine may or may not be to Col. Lyman's credit. That depends upon the point of view.

Mr. Hendricks thought it was an ample vindication of C. C. Cleveland that he had been three times elected to a public office. But now Mr. Schurz reminds the country that "Boss Tweed," despite his obvious corruption, received time and again popular majorities, until justice overtook him. It is unkind of Mr. Schurz thus to destroy the only vindication Mr. Hendricks could think of for Mr. Cleveland. By the way, justice will overtake Mr. Cleveland about the fourth of November next.

Col. Lyman's Independent friends in the Ninth District, having learned that in matters of principle there is no real issue between the great political parties, convey that and other sentiments of equal value to him in a letter asking the privilege of voting again for him for Congress. Col. Lyman acquiesces in the statement and consent to be voted for, but he and his Independent friends will find the Ninth District a different kind of a stamping ground this year from what it was in 1882.

The New York Herald is peppering its editorial page with declarations and quotations to prove that the colored man "are solid for Blaine." It is a queer hot weather outbreak, apparently intended to excite the prejudice of some other class of voters. This is a poor way to fight a political campaign in a land which boasts of its equal American citizenship.—[Springfield Republican (Dem.).]

Mr. Levi Hottle, Corydon, Indiana, says, he suffered from pains and inflammation, resulting from a fractured clavicle, and after trying various remedies, without relief, he tried St. Jacobs Oil and was cured.

A Stinging Rebuke.

Mrs. H. M. Tracy Cutler of Cobden, Ill., in a letter to the Independent, published in the Woman's Journal of this week, thus covers one weakness of the course being pursued by the Independents:

The want of moral insight which has been shown is among the most unaccountable freaks of this present defection. Had the Democrats brought forward Thurman, whose correct life and character are touchingly raised, one might have seen some reason for your conduct. But to follow the lead of such a man as Cleveland, and to gloss over his crimes as some of you have done, is among the monstrosities of sophistry. You have not in this instance the excuse of remarkable administrative ability to set off against a corrupt private life, according to the showing of several of our leading men. You admit his moral and social delinquencies. You show him to be the boon companion of men who were the betrayers of their families, and make his sins, most loathsome, almost count to his honor.

This candidate for the chief place in the nation is, by your admission, a man from whom delicate sensibilities should shrink, and yet you offer Mrs. Hendricks, a lady whose reputation has ever stood above all reproach, the indignity of looking up to him as her social superior and by her position as the wife of the second candidate compel her to treat with social courtesy. You offer to the ladies of the land the indignity of filling the White House with a dishonored character, whose villainous, or whose weakness, should set him apart from social eminence. You offer to the nations of the world the affront of putting a disreputable man in the high position of head of our national household, a man whom the wives and daughters of foreign ambassadors should shun rather than honor. You commit to the hands of this man who by your showing, after his character had had time to mature, was either so weak or so vile as to be overcome by the seductions of a woman said to be vile already, the great interests of the nation, knowing that half the betrayal of the interests of nations has come through the enforcements of base women. Could such a man withstand the allurements of the fat caresser, employed by designing men to betray great interest? He is, according to your own admissions, unfit to be entrusted with a nation's welfare. Great names have been mentioned as sanctioning your theory that a man may be bad in his private life and yet serve the public with fidelity. But in this you have vainly uncovered the nakedness of lives that might have been sublime but that have gone out in diminished splendor. They never attained to the moral eminence they should have done, because of the uncertainty that took from the grandeur of clean, noble lives.

How will your chosen candidate stand up before George Q. Cannon and argue the question of the monogamic family? That advocate of plurality will say, "I do not dishonor the woman who consents to bear my offspring. I give her my name. I acknowledge my relations with her. I give my children loving recognition, and there are my acknowledged heirs. Has not the nation sanctioned us by endorsing you?"

Of the woman herself I have said nothing. She is said by some to have been a reputable person working for her children, and conducting herself in a creditable, womanly way. By others she is reported dissolute and unworthy. If he chose such an associate as the latter, what must we say of his social character, and how must we value ourselves as a people to add in his household the mother degraded, the children worse than orphaned? Dare you give the sanction of your vote to such a crime?

Gathered from Garbage.

A machine has been put in use in New York to sift from house refuse and street sweepings all rags, old iron, broken glass, etc. The machine is described as being a vast rag and bone picker of many Italian power, working by steam. Its daily capacity is 150 loads of 1,800 pounds each. The oscillator moves to and fro 250 times a minute, while two or three Italians stand alongside and pick all rags and scraps of paper out of the mass. What is then left, after the dust has fallen to the floor, is passed into a washer, in which all straw, leather, vegetable refuse and other light material rises to the surface of the water, and is removed and burned. The coal, iron, glass and other heavy objects fall to the bottom of the water and are washed in another vat of water and then they are conveyed away as refuse. The rags bring about $30 per ton, the old iron forty cents a hundred pounds, the glass thirty cents a hundred; the bones are the most valuable, and about 400 pounds of coal cinder are obtained from a load of 1,800 pounds.—[Paper World.]

Large Investments in Horses.

"Caspar," in one of his New York letters to the Detroit Free Press, says: Mr. Bonner's investments in horse flesh have been pretty large. His first was $30,000 for a team that he wanted for exercise. He had no thought then of becoming an owner of famous horses, but the passion gradually grew on him. He paid $10,000 for Joe Elliot, $16,000 for Edwin Forrest, $15,000 for Lady Stuart, $20,000 for Edward Everett and the same for Startle; $35,000 for Pocahontas, and the same sum, I think, for Dexter; $36,000 for Rarus and $10,000 for Maud S. Had any man talked of paying $40,000 for a trotter when Bonner made his first purchase, he would probably have been set down as a lunatic.

"There have been many remedies put before the public for coughs and colds, but we know of none that has given more thorough satisfaction than Adamson's Cough Balm."—[Portland Press.]

"Blood-food" is the suggestive name often given to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, because of its blood-purifying qualities.

Household Hints and Recipes.

Wet the top of a dish of mashed potatoes with milk and set it in the oven to brown. Let it stay until there is a brown crust over it.

A handsome low screen is made by painting a large cardboard a sky-blue, then painting a spray of daisies and clover blossoms on it. Then set this in a frame of plush about an inch and a half wide, and this is to be placed in a light ebony frame with a standard.

A good relish to take with a lunch is made of ham. Pound some pieces of ham in a mortar, just as fine as you can. Season it with pepper and spice, and moisten it with clarified butter. Put this into a bowl, and scatter on top, and press it in very tightly. Put it into the oven for half an hour. Let it get perfectly cold. It can then be cut into thin slices. It is nice used for a filling for sandwiches.

Very rich fritters are made of one and one-half pints of flour, the yolks of four eggs, two small teaspoonsful of baking powder, butter the size of a large hickory nut, salt to taste, with enough milk to make a thick batter; fry in lard that is heated to the boiling point. A rule for plain ones may be wished for also. Two eggs, one cup of sweet milk, a little salt, and flour enough to make a stiff batter. These are nice with maple syrup.

Eggs are poached by dropping them raw from the broken shells into a pot of boiling water; lift them from the water in a perforated ladle, and do not let them remain long enough in the water for the whites to be opaque. The beauty of a poached egg is the visibility of the yellow yolk as seen through the transparent white envelope. Served on slices of hot buttered and lightly sprinkled with pepper, a poached egg is most appetizing. In the spring of the year, as a top dressing to boiled greens of any kind, eggs prepared this way are almost universally liked.

How he Became a Blood-Drinker.

"Yes, I'm a confirmed blood-drinker now," remarked a ruddy, merry engineer, "and it is quite a funny story how I happened to start at it, too. About three years ago my health was pretty bad, and my folks were very much worried about me. I got thin and hollowed, and had a few night sweats. The fact is, I had consumption. I knew it. I hadn't any other expectation than that in a year or so I'd have to give up my engine, and soon after that part from my wife and little ones. I don't know that I ought to say it, but the thought of leaving my engine gave me about as much trouble as the idea of parting from my family. People kept advising me to drink blood, and cited all kinds of cures to me by the dozen. But there was something about it that I couldn't go to it. Two or three times I made an effort to down some of it, but 'twas no go. Well, one day I was running along with No. 7, as usual, and feeling pretty well down in the mouth, too. I had begun to feel weak, and I had heard the boss was making inquiries about my condition with a view of laying me off. It made me blue as my boiler jacket. Suddenly, at a country road-crossing, a fool heifer jumped right in front of us. We were going lively, and as the pilot struck her it cut her up fearful and landed her right up on the smoke-stack. I hope I may never touch my throttle again, if a stream of blood from that heifer didn't take me right in the mouth. My mouth was open, too, and seconds I had unwillingly become a blood-drinker. There wasn't anything disagreeable about it, either, and I've been drinking blood ever since. That heifer saved my life."

LITERARY NOTICES.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for October comes to us with an increase of pages, and a more brilliant array than ever of steel-plated, colored fashion, colored patterns, and illustrative wood-engravings. The principal steel-plate, "Playing At Being Grandpa and Grandma," is as graphic as it is humorous—one of the very best things of the kind we have ever seen. The stories, continued and otherwise, are exceptionally good; in this respect, "Peterson" has long been without a rival. Some hints are whispered, in this number, in advance, as to what is to be done in 1885; and it is not too early, it is added, to begin to get up the club for the year. The best way to see what is intended, and to test the merits of "Peterson," is to send for a specimen-copy, which will be sent, gratis, if written for in good faith. Address CHARLES J. PETERSON, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Cable and the Whale.

The steamer Retriever, says a late number of the Panama Star and Herald, was engaged in repairing a break in the West Coast of America Telegraph company's submarine cable, when a whale, measuring from seventy to seventy-five feet in length, fouled itself in the wire. In its struggle to get free the cable was torn, and the whale, the cable and large quantities of that insulating and large quantities of that insulating material floated away. In the last stage of the struggle the cable parted, and the Retriever returned to pick up the piece of cable in which the whale had got up and down. It was then found that the fish had drifted away, and the cable was twisted up in a most curious fashion. In no fewer than six different places it had been bitten through sufficiently to stop all communication.

Consolation.

"I'm afraid I was cheated on those lightning rods," "What's the matter with them?" "I hadn't had 'em up for a month when a fearful stroke of lightning knocked 'em all ways for Sunday, burned my barn and everything in it." "But didn't the agent give you a guarantee?" "Oh! yes, I wrote to him, and he wrote back very consolingly." "What did he say?" "That lightning never strikes twice in the same place."—[Rochester Post-Express.]

A deep laid scheme—an ocean cable.

Boston Globe on Cleveland, June 12, 1884.

If Governor Cleveland is nominated he will not carry his own state. If Gov. Cleveland is nominated he will be defeated in a majority of all the states. He has neither fame nor reputation in national legislation, nor has he connected himself with the great American people on one single important question which concerns them at large, nor are his views known on either tariff, labor, currency, or reform in any way, shape, manner, or form. In fact Cleveland is not known to the nation. The question is asked in every state, "Who is Cleveland?" The answer is, "He is the governor of New York." What does that amount to? To whom is that answer satisfactory? What has that to do with the issues vital to the American people, for which the people at large stand ready to make a united and strong pull all together for success?—[Boston Globe, June 12.]

Our candidate for President is a man of the most brilliant qualities, who has been several times Speaker of the House of Representatives, once a Senator, and Secretary of State, and has been conspicuous in every position occupied by him. I have known him during all these years of his public service and I believe him to be an able and honest and true Republican, faithful to the principles of our party, with a mind of the highest order, with experience and executive capacity to perform with great credit the high duties of the great office of Chief Magistrate of the Republic. Such is my opinion of James G. Blaine. I shall vote for him as the chosen representative of the Republican party, fairly nominated by public opinion in the Republican States and by delegates to their conventions. —[Senator John Sherman.]
